Annual Fall Patio Tea Held By Medford AAUW Branch

The annual fall patio tea of the Medford Branch of the American Association of University Women was held Saturday at the home of Mrs. William Cobb, 42 South Barneburg road.

Prospective members and women wishing to enroll in the association's various interest groups were guests.

Pouring were Mrs. Emerson Anderson, Mrs. Fred Rankin, Mrs. John Stong, Mrs. A. J. Johansson, Mrs. Roy Elmgren, Mrs. W. F. Roemer, Mrs. C. B. Collins, Mrs. Justin Smith, and Mrs. Dorothy Dowson.

Tea chairman Mrs. Duane Richardson was assisted by Mrs. John Ness and Mrs. Dana Collins. Greeting the arriving guests were Mrs. Jeffrey Shute, Mrs. Robert Stuart, Mrs. Robert Fry, and Mrs. Clarence Edwards while Mrs. Douglas Phillips was in charge of the guest book.

Mrs. Calvin Smith, Medford branch president, reminded members of the AAUW Southern Oregon area meeting Saturday, Sept. 22, at the Village Green near Cottage Grove.

Dr. Eleanor F. Dolan, staff associate in higher education and director of educational foundation research in the AAUW national office, will be featured speaker at the luncheon.

Before joining the AAUW staff in 1950, Dr. Dolan had been professor of political science and dean of Flora Stone Mather college, Western Reserve university, Cleveland, Ohio. Dr. Dolan received her degrees in government at Wellesley and Radcliffe colleges and was awarded a Carnegie scholarship to the Academy of International Law at The Hague.

Members planning to attend the area meeting should notify Mrs. Smith before September 17 so that all Medford reservations can be made together.

High Hose Fashionable For Co-Eds

United Press International The higher the hose, the smarter the leg, according to college fashion primers. One sock maker has introduced the above-the-knee sock that snugly anchors itself at mid-thigh with an elasticized garter top. Alternating link - and - link cable motifs with a skinny rib, the long socks go well with short, short skirts or bermudas.

The chantly lace mantilla's headed for church, parties and theaters. The mantillas also are used as a neckline fill-up. Black, white and beige are favored tones.

The Paris tea coat silhouette has been picked by makers of children's coats and sportswear. In smaller doses, suits with braided cardigan jackets look very Chanel, says Women's Wear Daily.

Melton is the fabric news in children's coats. Non-textured wool knits and wovens are strong in sportswear lines. Woven cotton knits are another popular autumn fabric. Denim, ticking and calico continue the Western kick in both coats and sportswear aimed for the trek to school.

The gray flannel sneaker is trending toward the campus. Other flannel sneakers are colorful: black watch or red Kerr plaid. The muted solids include green and brown in addition to gray.

The turncoat, four coats in one, not only reverses. It unbuttons to make two separate coats of light weight.

Here's one reason why some females get dizzy shopping for shoes. Never in the history of covered feet has there been such a variety of toe shapes, heel heights, materials and silhouettes! Herbert Levine, head of Designers Shoe Guild, says.

Definition: Moots are shoes with a one or two eyelid boot front which slants toward a conventional oxford height at heel area. They're for men who like the boot look and oxford comfort.

The tallest story in fashion fall hints: Rising crowns, part of a Mata Hari look in fashion.

Women Attend Church Lecture

Wilderville - Mrs. Darwin Ingalls, Mrs. Homer Rand and daughter Alana Rand, and Mrs. Nina Galvin all went to Medford to hear Mrs. Alice Jones, well known author of religious books, speak at the First Methodist church. The topic was the new approach to religious training of children.

Farewell Party Honors Couple; Program Given

Hornbrook - Members of the Hornbrook Methodist church, neighbors, and other friends gathered at the church Saturday evening to bid farewell to Mr. and Mrs. L. E. Jeter. After the potluck dinner, a brief, impromptu program was presented with Floyd Burns, acting as master of ceremonies.

A number of those present recalled the many helpful deeds done by the Jeters during their many years of residence in Hornbrook. Mr. Jeter served for many years as scoutmaster of Boy Scout Troop No. 38, and for the past several years has been the institutional representative of the Scouts. Mrs. Jeter was superintendent of the Sunday school for over 10 years and has been pianist for both the Sunday school and church whenever she was called upon. Previous to the 1961 school year, she taught for six years at the Hill grammar school. She also has been a member for 10 years of the sewing club.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Jeter have been active in all community affairs. The Jeters are leaving this month to make their home in Cave Junction, Ore., where he will take over his duties as senior inspector at the Redwood quarantine station.

Friends present at Saturday's event were Mr. and Mrs. Frank Graves, Hill; the Rev. and Mrs. Carl Nylund, Mr. and Mrs. George McCann, Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Burns, Mrs. Marshall Horn, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Greene and Linda and Lydia Greene, Mr. and Mrs. Loren Cummins and Jennifer, Mrs. Dwayne Hamner, Mrs. Gattie Holland, Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Jacobs, Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Breckman, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Chapman, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Cummins, Mrs. Minnie Bloomingcamp, Charles Bloomingcamp, Mrs. Arden Burns, Mrs. Bertha Bradley.

The Jeters were presented a gift of money from the townspeople. This was given them in a miniature truck entering a replica of the local quarantine station, and which Mr. Jeter was asked to "inspect" for "green stuff" entering the state illegally.

Medford Woman Home From Trip

Mrs. C. L. (Marie) Pierce, 208 Hawthorne street, returned last week from a two-week trip to Goose Bay, Labrador, where she visited her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. H. F. Martin, former Medford residents, and their family.

Mr. Martin, now retired from the Army, is the civil service traffic manager for the port of Goose Bay.

While there Mrs. Pierce made a trip by motor launch on the Northwest river to visit the Greenfield mission, a hospital and dental clinic maintained by the Canadian government for Eskimos and Indians.

Mrs. Pierce was accompanied on the return trip as far as Provo, Utah, by her grandson, Thomas Martin, who enrolled at the Brigham Young university as a freshman student in premedical studies. He is the recipient of a scholarship and several honor awards.

First Lady Responsible For Traditional Trend

By GAY PAULEY UPI Women's Editor

New York - Mrs. John F. Kennedy's revamping of the White House has set off a hardy revival of traditional decor around the nation. A group of leaders in the design and furnishings field agreed in an informal poll that the First Lady's influence on what women want in their homes today is strong. But some thought it had been less forceful on decoration than in fashions.

"Terribly influential," said Rene Carrillo, director of merchandising for a fabrics manufacturer, of Mrs. Kennedy's impact on home furnishings. "Her use of fine antiques and her predilection for the 18th century have made traditional decorations very chic."

J. Mason Reed, of a company which makes Williamsburg reproductions, agreed that Mrs. Kennedy's influence had been "far reaching" in interior design. But he added, "her impact on the world of fashion has been much greater. Fashion appeals to a far larger audience than does interior design. . . the exposure of Mrs. Kennedy's style has been more frequent, widespread, expert. . ."

Mrs. Carrillo said that with Mrs. Kennedy in the White House, the decorating industry notices a strong return to the traditional. "Many people who are decorating for the first time have decided to go with the old instead of trying the sterile modern," she said.

One interior designer thought the revival of traditional on the home front already was on the way even before Mrs. Kennedy spotlighted it at the White House. "There has been a growing use of antiques and fine reproductions for the past few years by people who have the background and money," said Ruth L. Strauss, designer and color stylist.

Filed "Vacuum" John C. McGuire, representing a company which makes contemporary furniture, thought Mrs. Kennedy had "underscored our English-French heritage. It seems to me this has come at a time when the public felt . . . in need of comforting reminders of the peaceful past or, anyway, a more pleasant one in the face of a rather grim present and future. So if Mrs. Kennedy has influenced the interior design market in this way, she entered it when a strong vacuum existed."

Dorothy Paul, a Los Angeles exhibitor in the forthcoming show, said "There has been more traditional furniture sold on the west coast in the past six months than was sold in the past six years."

Gilbert L. Thurston, the vice president of a furniture company whose customers include many members of the Kennedy family, thought the First Lady could go even further in the interests of good taste if she created a room of "today's design."

"After all," said Thurston, "this would make a point of our times for future generations."

Group Returns From Midwest

Hornbrook - Mr. and Mrs. L. F. Madison, son, Larry and daughter, Miss Doris Henderson, returned Friday from a two-weeks' trip to the middle-west. En route east, they made a stop at Salt Lake City to visit the famed Temple square.

In Malvern, Iowa, they visited Mr. Madison's mother and his oldest sister. Here, too, a family reunion was held, attended by approximately 40 members. Overnight stops were made in other towns in Iowa with other brothers and sisters of Mr. Madison's.

From Moorhead, Iowa, the travelers drove to South Dakota where they saw the Black Hills, Mr. Rushmore, and visited mines in the area. Their next stop was at Billings, Mont., where they called on friends of Miss Henderson, and en route home, a stop was made in Salem, Ore., to see another sister of Mr. Madison.

Sixth Assembly Report Is Given

Ashland - Mrs. P. M. Hammond and Mrs. Alice Romaine presented pictures taken at the Sixth Assembly meeting of Methodist Women in Atlantic City when the Ashland Women's Society of Christian Service met September 6 in the Fireside room of the First Methodist church. Their comments added personal interest to the report as they told of the various conference features emphasizing especially the Christian living of the youth delegates in attendance.

The devotional period was led by Mrs. John Billings who chose one of Dr. Frank Laubach's messages, "We Need a River, Not a Trickle." Mrs. Jay Kaylor sang a solo accompanied by Mrs. Glenn Taylor.

During the morning meeting Mrs. Sidney Ainsworth gave the first in a series of talks on the World Federation of Methodist Women. It was announced that the sub-district meeting is to be held September 24 in St. Luke's church, Medford.

Luncheon was served during the noon hour by the Mesdames William Lawrence, Etta Schilling, J. A. Wirth, Elmer Squire, A. Fries and Miss Virginia Whittle.

Family Returns From Vacation

Evans Valley - Mr. and Mrs. Ralph W. Badcock and family have returned from a vacation trip which included the World's Fair. They also stopped in Scappoose, Astoria, and Newport, Ore., for visits with relatives. On their return trip they camped at Eel creek and Harris beach at Brookings.

Miss Kathy Badcock accompanied her family to Portland from where she left for Salem to be a member of the rabbit judging team at the State fair and later joined her family.

Shores To Live In Prospect Home

Prospect - Mr. and Mrs. L. O. Shores and their five children have moved into the home of the late Miss Ida Boothby on Highway 62 outside of Prospect.

The Shores, who come from Southern California, are purchasing the home. Four of the children have enrolled in Prospect schools.

Relatives Visit In Evans Valley

Evans Valley - Week end guests of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Badcock were Mrs. Lillian Babcock of The Dalles, and her daughter, Jean Means, Seattle. Mrs. Lillian Babcock is Ralph Badcock's sister-in-law.

Germans Lead the World In Sausage Consumption

By JEANNE LESEM

New York - (UPI) The 6.5 billion hot dogs we eat in one year would reach the moon and back, then circle the world five times, says the American Meat Institute. Even so we're not the world's leading sausage eaters. The Germans eat more on a per capita basis, says the Visking Co., the nation's largest manufacturer of cellulose casings for sausages.

Favorite sausages in Germany include weisswurst, or white wurst, liverwurst, bratwurst - made of pork, and kassler liverwurst, made of veal or pork or a combination of these two, or tongue and ham, or liver, and seasoned with garlic, onions, pepper and olives.

American hot dogs generally are 60 per cent beef, 40 per cent pork, and spicy. Kosher hot dogs are all beef, and heavily seasoned with garlic.

English and Russian sausages are also beef or pork or a combination of the two. Italy and Heidelberg, Germany, prefer pork. Viennese frankfurters, called debrenzler, are colored bright red with paprika.

There's even a meatless sausage, soga, at the El Musky bazaar in Cairo. Soga are made of rice, onions and herbs, stuffed into a casing, poached in beef stock, then grilled in hot oil.

According to the meat institute, sausages are among our most ancient foods. They were common in China and Babylon 4,000 years ago. They've been found in the burial mounds of ancient Ur, in the tombs of Egyptian pharaohs and in prehistoric cliff dwellings in the American southwest.

Greek sausage, oryae, was the subject of a play by Epicuramus, and even the Spartans, whose name is synonymous with stern living and frugality, developed a special sausage that remains traditional for Christmas in modern Spain, Scotland and France.

The Spartans made a game of sausage eating, says the institute. They hung skewered sausages from club room ceilings and bit them off the way children bite apples on a string at Halloween.

American Indians made sausage-like cakes of mixed, chopped dried beef with dried berries.

Early sausage makers used only natural casings, the cleaned internal organs of meat animals. These are elastic, digestible and virtually moisture-proof.

The meat institute says natural casings still are used widely, but they are less popular than man-made cellulose, fibrous or plastic casings, which are more uniform, flexible and easier to handle.

Reception Set For Newlyweds

The congregation of Medford Friends church is planning a reception Saturday, September 15, to honor Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Kumasawa, whose marriage took place August 24 in Indiana. Mrs. Kumasawa is the former Miss Patricia Retherford. Both the bride and bridegroom are attending Geor. e. Fox college, Newberg, Ore.

The reception will begin at 7:30 p.m. in Fellowship hall of the church on DeBarr avenue and Merriman road. All friends of the bridegroom are invited to attend. He formerly made his home at 220 Cottage street, Medford.

Shower Honors Mrs. Bergman

Mrs. Delbert Bergman, Route 2, Box 217 M, Foothills road, Medford, the former Hazel Carter, was honored at a potluck dinner and household shower given last week at her home. The Bergmans' marriage was an event of the summer.

Following the dinner a wedding cake was served and Mrs. Bergman was presented gifts. About 30 guests, all fellow employees of Mrs. Bergman from the J. C. Penney store, attended.

Serving as hostess was Mrs. Edward Albert, assisted by Mrs. O. A. Martolin.

ONLY A korell FITS LIKE A KORELL

Mr. Hawley is the son of Mrs. Terry Gavre, San Francisco, and Robert Hawley, Happy Camp.

The reception was held at the Grange hall and was attended by many friends and relatives of the young couple. The cake was made by the bridegroom's grandmother, Mrs. Jack Troost, Klamath River.

The young couple was married in Reno, Nev., July 16 at the Overland Wedding chapel. The bride wore a street length white brocaded taffeta dress with a square neckline, long fitted sleeves and bell skirt. The short veil was held in place by a large white rose. The bride carried a white Bible with a spray of lily of the valley.

Visit O'Brien - Mrs. John Stenhouse and son Gary, Arvin City, Calif., and Mrs. John Vietti and son Ronnie, Bakersfield, Calif., were at the home of Mrs. and Mrs. Charles Ewing last week. The boys were introduced to catfish fishing at Martin's millpond near old Waldo, and also tried their luck at Lake Selmac.

Guests - Central Point - Recent guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. George Walker, 4229 Hamrick road, were Mr. and Mrs. C. F. Moore, Martinez, Calif.

Watch her learn to be lovely, tomorrow - at Dance School today.

Seeing a daughter develop from a tiny toddler to a lovely young woman is the very special joy of a mother. And, of all the many things a mother can give her child to help her along the way, few mean as much as Dance School.

To her - performing the music, the costumes, her teacher from a Cinderella world, will all seem such fun. But, as your pleased eyes will soon tell you, Dance School is much more than just fun. You'll see the practice make her a more perfect little lady - more graceful - more poised - more patient - more charming. Much more difficult to see now, this grace and poise, this charm and beauty, will be with her always - she'll be so much the lovelier woman tomorrow, because of Dance School, today.

But now is the time . . . don't let it slip by . . . she'll never be a little girl again! Today, come in and let's discuss what Dance School can do for your little girl. There's no obligation, of course.
