Regional Roundup

by Cleve Twitchell
Mail Tribune Regional Editor

Serving as mayor of a small city can often be quite a different experience from holding the same office in a larger municipality. Small town mayors usually don't have secretaries, engineering departments or administrative aides to help them. Their predicament poses a question, "Is being mayor of a small city rewarding work, or does it involve a lot of effort with little thanks?"

With election time drawing near, and the office of mayor coming up for a vote in just about every Rogue Valley city this November, we've started asking the above question of some of the valley's mayors, both those who are running for re-election and those who aren't.

Phoenix Mayor Faye Carver's reply to the question is, "Some of each."

"It takes a lot of time to be mayor," she said, "a lot more than anyone would expect. And it is a lot of work, because we don't have the administrative help to do things for us. We have to get things done ourselves."

Willing to Try Some More
But as she nears the close of her first two-year term as mayor (it was preceded by four years on the city council), Miss Carver is prepared to try for another two years.

Why?
"My one reason," she said, "is that several things have been started, and two years aren't enough time to see them through."

The several things really boil down to one major project she is interested in — the development of the area between the northbound and southbound streets that carry Highway 99 traffic. "I feel it should be made into a recreation area," she explained. The area has the natural resources necessary for a park, including an abundance of water, and is "just waiting" for someone to develop it. "I've found many people willing to help," she added.

Tidbits

A Happy Camp area resident called up the sports editor the other day to report that steelhead fishing is real good on the Klamath River around Happy Camp. He said that Oakland and San Francisco papers had inquired concerning the angling and that he thought "our local paper" ought to have the information too.

Genevieve Briggs, our Wilderville correspondent, who lives on a ranch up in the hills near there, reports with the opening of hunting season she and her husband have their cows all lined up wearing signs reading, "This is a cow." Their ranch is sort of like a battlefield during hunting season, Mrs. Briggs says.

Prospect Resident Gets Report On Hong Kong Typhoon From Sister

Prospect — A first-hand report on the force with which typhoon Wanda struck the Hong Kong area last month has been received by Sherman Poole of Prospect.

The report came in a letter from Poole's sister, who is a teacher at the South China Training college in Hong Kong. The typhoon struck on Sept. 1 and 2.

Following are portions of the letter:
"Typhoon Wanda was really a horror. The latest report we have is that there are more than 400 dead and no doubt the count will be much higher when it is finally in. Many of the dead are fisher folk who live in sampans. Some of the typhoon shelters failed to give the needed protection this time.

"Our campus looks a sorry mess. Practically every tree is either torn up or blown down. We lost part of the roof of the dining room, a teacher's apartment roof, and the soy bean factory roof. The electric lines are a jangling mess requiring three or four days of labor yet to get them back to normal.

"We have six large picture windows in our house. Fortunately they are still intact but it took some effort to keep them that way. You could just see them shake back and forth. We used closet doors, table leaves etc. to brace them on the inside of the house.

"That was one day every one worked as hard and as fast as they could for several hours trying to keep things together. The catches on the front door would blow lose every few minutes so we put the boys (ages 6, 8 and 10) against it to keep it shut until we got the catches wired. The water was coming in around the windows in streams, and under the door in practically a river.

"The peak of it's fury was about ten in the morning and it was beginning to relax by one and we were able to rearrange the furniture we had against the bracing for the windows. One of the windows in the boy's room went out, frame and all, but it was after the wind had gone to the other side and things got no wetter in their room than the rest of the house.

"I also must tell you about our boat. Usually there are about two hundred boats parked in the bay which is actually a typhoon shelter. Just after the typhoon there were not more than 21 still afloat. Of course many of the smaller ones, like ours, had been taken out and placed on higher ground, but it was sure a sight afterwards. There were about 150 either sunk or broken to pieces.

Caused Tidal Wave
"The typhoon struck at high tide and caused a tidal wave which about did away with the village of Shatin in the New Territories. Perhaps we will drive out tomorrow and look at it.

"There have been two blessings in connection with it — cooler weather has resulted and the desperate water situation in Hong Kong has been somewhat relieved by the heavy rains that almost always accompany a typhoon.

"The report was 16 inches in 16 hours. But we hope next time it doesn't hit direct, it would be nicer to have them only close enough to give the needed rain. School was to open today, but with no electricity and can't pump water and all the other damage, it is delayed for another week."

John B. H. Leven, former councilman and mayor, has filed for the office of mayor. F. F. James and Roy Strickland have filed for council positions. Also other petitions are being circulated and are yet to be turned in.

Astronomy Course Is Offered in Yreka

Yreka — Because of interest created by the opening of an observatory in Yreka earlier this year, a course in basic astronomy is being offered at Yreka High school.

It meets Monday evenings at 7 o'clock. Teacher is John Christ. The course is being offered by the College of the Siskiyous.

Eagle Point City Council Adopts Revised Budget

Eagle Point — No one showed up to discuss or contest the newly revised Eagle Point city budget at a public hearing Wednesday. Following a review of the new budget the council adopted the budget for the 1962-63 fiscal year.

Leland Meyer, president of the council, and the city employees extended a big thank you to Jackson County Assessor, Thad Hatten for all of his time spent helping them with their budget problems.

Following a release a few weeks ago showing a 42.1 millage rate for the City of Eagle Point, the councilmen and city employees went into immediate action to correct the error. In accordance with the city ordinance, the millage rate cannot exceed 25 mills.

A special meeting was called with the help of Mr. Hatten. The budget was revised, reviewed by the council, posted in the post office, city library, and Eagle Point High school on September 6, and a public hearing held Wednesday evening.

The regular meeting of the Eagle Point council will convene Tuesday, October 2, at 8 p.m. in the library room of the city hall. At this time it is hoped to continue proceedings with the budgeting program and to have the second reading of an ordinance legalizing the Eagle Point Planning commission and its duties.

All candidates for Eagle Point Mayor and councilmen for the coming election will be given a special invitation to attend.

Flu Shots Will Be Offered in Prospect

Prospect — Flu shots will be offered for those interested on Thursday at the COPCO warehouse, between the hours of 10 a.m. and noon. A charge of $2 per person will be made.

Those interested should call L. O. Rogers at 869-2134 before Tuesday.

Applegate Valley Residents Training Future Guide Dogs

Applegate Valley — When guide dogs in training go to the state fair, they go modern, ride the freeway upstate, receive their red ribbons, and are home again the same night. Facilities are very limited at Salem for dogs to stay at the fair.

"Doe" and "Ditto" are the golden retriever pups three months old which are being trained in the 4-H program for future guide dogs for the blind by Mary Anne Cantrall and Fritz Ramsay.

They did not go to the fair for exhibition, but to show in their obedience tests, and in competing with two other guide dog pups, received their awards, and returned home without incident.

According to Fritz's father, Ed Ramsay, the dogs are trained to lie on the floor of the car when riding for their own protection in avoiding car windows and to prevent distraction of the driver.

Mary Anne, a junior in Medford high school, remained in Salem for the duration of the fair, where she won three blue ribbons on her 4-H sheep, a yearling ewe, a ewe lamb, and a sheep entered in showmanship.

This is the second year that Mary Anne and Fritz, who is a student at McLoughlin Junior High school, have enrolled in the 4-H guide dog training program sponsored by Guide Dogs for the Blind Foundation at San Rafael, Calif.

Last year they completed basic training of two other puppies, "Aubrey" and "Angus," which were returned to the foundation this summer to receive their training in traffic. After that they must complete several weeks of training with the blind person who is to receive them, then they will be "graduates."

Personalities Matched
Mary Anne's mother, Mrs. Harlan Cantrall, explains that when a blind person receives a dog at the foundation free of charge that the dog's personality has been matched with that of the new owner. In other words an elderly lady would be given a quiet type of dog.

"Doe" and "Ditto" arrived here in late July, and have mastered some basic commands such as "sit," "come," "fetch," and "stay." Mrs. Darrell Mitchell is leader of the guide dog program in this community.

Instructions in raising the guide puppies are given in a booklet prepared by Clarence Pfaffenberger, vice president of the Guide Dog Foundation. It is pointed out that the Foundation finds 4-H young people invaluable in their care, training, and devotion to the dogs. Their work is done without remuneration.

It is hoped the visitors may be able to become better acquainted with the many and varied projects conducted and supported by the Lions club.

A report was heard on the recent sale of light bulbs, conducted by both the Gold Hill and Central Point Lions clubs as a joint project.

The total sale was $238.92, the entire amount to be applied to the stadium fund. The sight and blind raising project realized the sum of $260.

Cliff Ayres gave a report on the work yet to be done on the stadium, and on the roof, which it is hoped will be completed in time for the Medford game on Oct. 12.

Rifle Range Work Party Slated Tuesday
Eagle Point — Another work party will be held Tuesday 5:30 p.m. in the hopes of completing the building at the rifle range site. About six workers turned out last Sept. 22 and the back stop and the foundation were completed.

All of the lumber for the flooring and the roof have been donated by Steve Wilson. Additional workers are urgently needed to join in the completion of this project.

Montague's 12th Street Undergoing Renovation

Montague — Twelve st. in Montague, from Scoble to Spiers sts., has been undergoing a renovation the past few weeks and is now ready for its final seal-coating. The project cost $5,880, the monies for the program being provided by gas tax funds from the State of California.

The entire project included surveying by state engineers, grading and filling with a six-inch aggregate base. Last Tuesday the street received a coat of penetration oil, and as soon as it is dried out enough the seal-coating will be applied.

Before a city may proceed with a project of this nature, in using state gas tax monies, the city must have a street program before it is allowed the money.

The streets chosen by the city for participating in the program must be designated as major access streets and receive the approval of the State. The $5,880 was appropriated from the 5/8 cent gas tax fund.

In addition to the work on 12th Street, which entailed the grading, graveling and oiling of four blocks, a connecting street from 12th to 11th was oiled, as was one block on Eighth Street near the Montague Elementary school.

Councilman Robert Akin of Montague, who is also street commissioner, says as more monies are appropriated other streets in Montague will receive similar work on them.

1963 DODGE DART... A FRESH NEW COMPACT IN THE LARGE ECONOMY SIZE

INTRODUCING THE 1963 DODGE

Now a complete new line of cars in the low-price field. The 1963 Dodge! People who see it just naturally get carried away. Reasons? 1. The looks: Great! 2. The price: Low! Wouldn't you rather own a Dodge than other low-priced cars? 3. The room: Big! Notice how the roofline sweeps straight back. That means ample headroom for the people in back, not just the ones in front. Seats? Your choice of models with sofa style, buckets or fold-down center arm rest. 4. The upkeep: Low! Dodge is rust-protected. The body unlined. The brakes self-adjusting. A major grease job lasts 32,000 miles, an oil change 4,000. 5. The feel behind the wheel: Like nothing else! Five strong engines to choose from. Smooth-going torsion bar ride. Easy low-friction steering. Comfortable chair-high seats. Nylon, leather-trimmed vinyls. There are several hundred more reasons why you'll be carried away. Your Dodge Dealer has 'em all.

NEW 5-YEAR/50,000-MILE WARRANTY! Your authorized Dodge Dealer's Warranty against defects in material and workmanship on 1963 cars has been expanded to include parts replacement or repair for 5 years or 50,000 miles, whichever comes first, on the engine block, head and internal parts serviced at reasonable intervals according to the Dodge Certified Car Care schedule. Factory approved re-manufactured parts may be used for replacement.

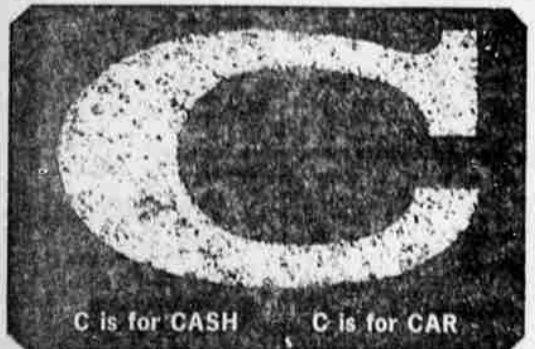

INTRODUCING COMPACT '63 DART

At last, a compact that doesn't give anyone the sardine treatment. The 1963 Dodge Dart! Now everybody gets a fair shake on room. Note the roofline. It goes straight back. Result: Even rear-seat hat wearers are treated with deference. And so are those who like some action for a change. Dart's standard Six leaves run-of-the-mill compacts waiting and wheezing. Its optional engine (just a few bucks more) is the same way, only more so. Economical? Like you'd expect a compact to be! That's the whole idea. Dart's too roomy to be a compact, too darned thrifty to be anything else.

Few compacts cost less than Dart. None offers the value. A unitized body, for example, that's rust-protected, 32,000 miles between major grease jobs. Road-smoothing torsion-bar ride. An alternator. A high-speed starter for fast starts. Two series. Nine models, including two convertibles. See your Dodge Dealer.
