Wild Turkeys In Washington Show Increase

By ORVILLE BOYINGTON
Olympia — Wild turkeys among the wildest of all game birds, may become legal targets for Washington state hunters in about four or five years, a game department official predicted today.
Dan Barnett, supervisor of big game management, said turkey plants in Stevens and Klickitat counties appear to be successful.
"We believe there are about 100 birds now in the Klickitat game range," Barnett said. "This is a good increase from the 12 we planted there in January of 1960."
He said that at least 24 turkeys made it through last winter on the east shore of Lake Roosevelt in Stevens county. He said there have been many reported sightings of the birds in the area which was planted with 17 turkeys in February of 1961.
"We still are not certain that we have the right habitat for turkeys in this state," Barnett said. "But, the results so far look promising. If things continue as they have, we could possibly begin limited hunting on them in four or five years."
The turkeys were brought into the state from Wyoming and New Mexico and were planted in an area west of Yakima as well as the Stevens and Klickitat ranges. Only the Yakima plant proved unsuccessful.

One-Third of KPFA-Protected Tree Farm Lands To Be Open To Hunters on Permit Basis

Klamath Falls — More than a third of the industrial tree farm lands protected by the Klamath Forest Protective Association has been open to hunters under a permit system which Warden George D. Wardell says is cutting forest fire losses.
KPFA is responsible for protection of some 1,200,000 acres of forest land, including former Indian lands, and some 38 per cent of this area will be closed to entry except by permit only under state forest fire laws. The remainder will be open to free access.
Wardell said KPFA fire wardens will patrol forest areas afoot and by plane during deer season to remind hunters to clear the ground around their campfires and to avoid leaving campfires unattended. A checkfire inspection form on campfire condition will be left at campsites where no one is present. The plane will be equipped with a loud-speaker so that fire prevention reminders may be broadcast to hunter campers.
"Wardell expanded the permit system last year, and the cooperation from hunters was outstanding," said Wardell. "There were only five fires reported during the first week of deer season, which is down from our past average of nine or ten. However, our patrolmen did pick up 11 unattended campfires and 18 abandoned campfires last year, and for this reason we feel that patrolling is necessary and important."

Ohio State Ranked No. One In First UPI Coaches' Poll

By JOE SARGIS
UPI Sports Writer
New York — Ohio State's mighty Buckeyes, who lost out to Alabama in their battle for the college football championship last year, started the new season today as the nation's No. 1 team in the first weekly ratings by the United Press International Board of Coaches.
Ohio State, which finished a scant seven points behind Alabama in last year's race — one of the closest in the 12-year history of the UPI ratings — was the top choice of 20 of the 35 coaches on the board following an opening-game 41-7 rout of North Carolina.
Alabama, winner of two straight this season on top of a perfect 10-0 1961 campaign, drew 12 first-place votes, while Texas, Georgia Tech and Georgia drew one vote each for the top spot.
Each week of the season the 35-man UPI coaches rating board — five from each of the nation's seven geographical sections — will pick the nation's top 10 teams with points awarded on a basis of 10-9-8-7-6-5-4-3-2-1 for votes from first through 10th. On this basis, Ohio State drew a total of 318 points while Alabama had 287 points.
Texas, last year's Cotton Bowl champion, with a 2-0 record this year, was pressing the top two teams in the ratings with 235 points while Penn State, with a 2-0 record and currently out front as the East's top team, was fourth with 202, and Georgia Tech fifth with 133.
Rounding out the top 10, in order, were Southern California, Mississippi, Washington, Army, and Miami of Florida.
The "second 10" in this week's balloting included, in order, Arkansas, Iowa, Notre Dame, Purdue, Louisiana State, and Nebraska, then Wisconsin and Northwestern tied for 17th, Georgia 19th, and Missouri and Minnesota tied for 20th.
The UPI football coaches ratings which have become accepted as the most authoritative in the field, are issued each week during the football season, alternately for morning and afternoon newspapers.
At the end of the season the team named by the board as the national champion receives a handsome permanent trophy from UPI.
Another UPI Board of Coaches issues weekly ratings of small college football teams, and the champion in that division also receives a permanent trophy.

Salem Football Game Tickets Now Being Sold

Reserved seat tickets are now on sale for the Medford-South Salem high school football game this Friday at the Medford stadium.
They may be obtained at the senior high office.
Medford Principal Lester Harris announced a change in the ticket plan. He said that the entire west side grandstand will be reserved this week.
Persons who have general admission passes, nevertheless, may exchange them for reserved tickets and sit in sections A and F of the new stand. Tickets to these two end sections will cost $1.
While these two sections will be reserved, the individual seats in them will not be. Individual seats, however, are reserved in the rest of the stand. Prices are $2 per seat, or $2.75 if the seat is in the choice center section among the five-year ticket holders.
Harris said that sections A and F have been set up as reserve areas to control the seating and prevent the rush and congestion which occurred at the Marshfield game.
Students will occupy the center grandstand. There is a general admission area at the south end of this stand.
