Stocks Lose Early Gains In Afternoon Selloff

New York (UPI)—Stocks lost the better part of their morning gains during a light afternoon selloff today.

Gains among the blue chips including Du Pont, American Telephone, Chrysler and Sears had been cut to fractions or eliminated entirely. Kodak turned about 1/2 lower and United Aircraft lost a point.

While the general list still looked firm and some individual issues maintained their early strength, volatile electronics fell.

Foreign Briefs

ITALY PLANS NUCLEAR POWERED TANKER

Turin, Italy—Italy hopes to complete blueprints for its first nuclear-powered tanker within the next year, an Italian scientist said Tuesday.

Prof. Felice Ippolito, secretary general of the National Committee on Nuclear Energy, said that Italy's Fiat and Ansaldo companies, in collaboration with the committee and with Euratom, the European atomic agency, are completing the first stage of study work.

SOVIET SCIENTISTS STUDY 'TOGETHERNESS'

Moscow—Soviet scientists have designed a machine to find out how prospective spacemen will stand the special sort of "togetherness" in a spaceship, the official news agency Tass said Tuesday.

The agency said that because future space flights will be made by whole crews "the demand for the appraisal of the psychological qualities of each of the candidates in his conduct in group situations has assumed a special importance."

RED CHINA'S BIRTHDAY NOT SNUBBED BY RUSSIA

Tokyo—Communist China was not snubbed by the Soviet Union on the 13th birthday of the Chinese Red regime this week, the Communist New China news agency indicated today.

The news agency said in a broadcast that Premier Nikita Khrushchev's wife, Nina, and other prominent Russians attended a reception at the Red Chinese embassy in Moscow Monday night. It said the guests included Soviet Defense Minister R. Y. Malinovsky, astronaut Gherman Titov and government officials A. N. Kosygin and M. A. Suslov.

British Columbia Attorney Jumps To Offensive

Washington—(UPI)—Tariff-hopeful U.S. lumber industry leaders returned to the stand today to face questioning from an opposing attorney who appeared to be trying to make his case in cross-examination attacks.

A group of five witnesses representing the West Coast Lumbermen's association completed their part of the industry presentation Tuesday in the opening day of the tariff commission hearings on softwood lumber.

They said employment and production had dropped while softwood imports from Canada rose. They also said Canadian lumbermen had advantages in production and transportation costs and could trim prices still further, while profits in the U.S. industry were so slim there was no more margin for cutting.

Herbert A. Fierst, attorney for the council of forest industries of British Columbia, took the offensive the first time he got the opportunity Tuesday, challenging the U.S. employment figures submitted by the U.S. industry's opening witness, Mortimer B. Doyle, executive vice president of the National Lumber Manufacturers association.

He also clashed with Robert F. Dwyer, head of the Dwyer Lumber Co., Portland, Ore., and co-chairman of the group that filed the "escape clause" tariff commission proceedings, the Lumbermen's Economic Survival Committee.

Dwyer told the commission that "big, ably managed" lumber mills had closed down because they could not break even in the face of increasing imports from Canada. He said the U.S. lumber industry needed quotas and tariff relief "so that we can find the time to survive" while eliminating competitive disadvantages.

Fierst noted that one of the closed-down lumber companies Dwyer listed, the A. F. Lowe Lumber Co., had been outbid by Dwyer's firm at several government timber sales where the prices climbed far above appraised values.

He suggested that the company actually had been driven out of business by "astronomical" timber prices caused by a timber shortage.

"Doesn't this sound more like Dwyer competition than Canadian competition?" Fierst asked.

"It's American competition," Dwyer responded. Dwyer also denied that there was a timber shortage.

County Report Filed For State Report

Jackson county is the first in the state to file its property tax collection and delinquencies report, according to word received from the state tax commission by Chief Tax Deputy Marjorie Brooks.

State law requires the property tax collections and delinquencies of each county be reported to the commission and be published in the biennial report.

The Jackson county tax roll for 1961-62 was $7,577,063.43 of which $0,642,871.04 had been collected at the end of the fiscal year, June 30. Prior year taxes collected during the current year totaled $785,277.45.

Richard B. Garrett is the full time deputy working on delinquent personal property taxes. During the two weeks he has been working in the tax department, $10,137.29 has been collected on delinquent taxes, Sheriff Paul Bettel said.

AIDS ENTERTAINERS

Washington—(UPI)—The House has approved and sent to the Senate a bill to award $20,000 each to entertainers Jane Froman, Gypsy Markoff and Jean Rosen for injuries they received in a World War II plane crash while on a USO tour.

Machinists Strike at Aerojet; Missile Production Threatened

Sacramento, Calif.—(UPI)—About 8,000 International Association of Machinists members were on strike today at the Aerojet General Corporation's Sacramento and Azusa rocket motor plants in a walkout which could cripple production of the nation's missiles.

The IAM also struck Aerojet work at Vandenberg Air Force Base, Calif., the Titan installation at Chico, Calif., and other projects in Washington, Wyoming, South Dakota and Arizona. Packages were not posted at all sites immediately.

The union said it would picket Cape Canaveral after Walter M. Schirra's orbital flight is completed.

Tuesday's walkout climaxed six months of futile contract negotiations and could vitally affect production of rocket motors for Polaris, Minuteman, Skybolt and Titan II, the nation's most powerful long range missile.

A presidential board has recommended a union shop vote and a 16 to 25 cent per hour package increase over three years as the basis for industry settlement.
