Outsiders Get Welcome, Blast In Oregon Stops

By United Press International
Outsiders who came to Oregon to campaign were given a welcome and a withering blast Tuesday, both from Republicans.

In Portland, Republican leaders conferred with a three-man national campaign team that is seeking to increase the Republican vote in cities. Its members are Grant Reynolds for the Negro vote, Rep. Edward Derwinski of Chicago for the ethnic vote, and Clare Williams for the women's vote.

Reynolds, counsel for the chairman of the GOP National committee and himself a Negro, said former Vice President Richard Nixon lost the presidency by losing the Negro vote in 14 key cities.

Harsh Words by Unander
Republican Senate candidate Sig Unander, however, had some harsh words for out-of-state campaigners at Albany.

Unander predicted Oregon will see an invasion by "smooth-talking medicine men" of the New Frontier during the next month to campaign for his opponent, Democratic Sen. Wayne Morse.

Unander said "the war chests have been flung open" because "the bosses of big labor and the Eastern lobbyists" are worried about Morse. He said a "tide of defeat" is running against Morse.

Democratic office seeker Blaine Whipple told a Hillsboro audience that charges the country is heading toward socialism should be refuted. The Democratic nominee for Congress in the first district said only seven cents of the tax dollar now is spent on labor, health, education and welfare.
