Wiring Shorts - Wiring shorted in a car registered to Melvin Kirkendall, route 3, box 169L, Medford, yesterday, causing insulation on wiring to burn. Firemen, summoned to Sixth st. and Central ave. about 4:35 p.m., disconnected the battery cable and left an explanatory note for the owner.

Backfire - A furnace backfire at McGuire Home Furnishings, 220 North Bartlett st., about 6:15 p.m. caused smoke through the building. Medford firemen reported.

Adjournment by Friday Night Hoped

Washington - (UPI) - Democratic congressional leaders, hard pressed to find a quorum in either House or Senate, hoped today to wind up the longest session in 11 years by Friday night.

The major stumbling block was the effort to get a compromise on the agriculture appropriations bill. But Senate Democratic Whip Hubert H. Humphrey (Minn.) said "things are looking much better" for a quick solution.

The two principal combatants over the bill, Sen. Richard B. Russell (D-Ga.) and Rep. Jamie Whitten (D-Miss.) planned another conference today.

The House had trouble all day Wednesday getting up the necessary 219 members for a quorum. The biggest vote recorded showed 253 members, one of whom spent most of his time in a back row of the chamber with a transistor radio earphone stuck in his ear, presumably listening to the World Series.

The Senate didn't even risk a quorum call.

Truman To Speak At Conclusion of Legion Convention

Las Vegas - (UPI) - Former President Harry S. Truman today was to address the closing session of the American Legion's 44th annual convention.

Truman arrived Wednesday by plane and took up temporary residence in the Sands Hotel on the flashy Las Vegas strip.

Gearing his news conference to this desert gambling city, Truman said he advocated a national lottery controlled by the federal government to pay off the national debt.

"When the federal government gets behind it and everybody knows it is absolutely fair, it isn't gambling," the former chief executive said. "Take a look at the national lottery in Mexico," he said. "It almost pays for running the government - it's not the same as a crapshooting game."

Truman said his speech today would not be a political commentary but rather a minor "state of the union" message on the condition of the country.

To Elect Officers

Following Truman's appearance the delegation winds up its meeting with election of new national officers. James Power, Macon, Ga., and Joseph Matthews, Ft. Worth, Tex., are leading contenders to succeed National Commander Charles L. Bacon, Kansas City, Mo., in the legion's top post.

Possibly the hottest item to come up for discussion before the convention was a controversial resolution requesting Congress to enact legislation allowing spoken prayers in public schools.

There was some heated argument on the subject Wednesday, but action was postponed until today because of the absence of many delegates on the convention floor when the subject came up.

97 Per Cent of Cases Are Closed

The Medford police department closed 97.1 per cent of its cases during September, according to Chief of Police Charles P. Champlin in the department's monthly report.

This is higher than the 92.9 per cent closed during the same month in 1961. The higher percentage was obtained on an increase number of cases last month, the report shows.

The department investigated 3,113 cases during the month and closed 2,947. During September, 1961, the department was called on 2,890 cases.

During September, 1962, the department also issued 2,631 parking violation citations.

Last month the department investigated 21 burglary cases, closing 37.1 per cent; 20 cases of larceny over $50 violation, closing six for 30 per cent; 65 cases of larceny under $50 valuation, closing 42 for 64.6 per cent, and checked seven cases of auto theft, closing three for a percentage of 42.9.

Of the 664 miscellaneous offenses checked by the department a total of 529 were closed for a percentage of 96.5. These offenses included forgery and counterfeiting 4, assaults 20, embezzlement and fraud 49, and numerous traffic violations.

Try and Stop Me

JACK KOFOED swears he saw this happen in the dining room of a swanky Miami Beach hotel. A clumsy waiter spilled a plate of soup on the white jacket of an outraged guest. The manager rushed up immediately and purred, "Give that coat to me, sir. I'll have it sponged immediately and returned to you absolutely spotless before you've finished your meal."

Five minutes later, the waiter who had spilled the soup poked the guest indignantly on the shoulder, and demanded, "Don't you know you're not allowed in this dining room unless you're wearing a jacket?"

An underpaid English professor recently applied for a job of a highly technical nature at General Dynamics. "But you have none of the requirements," demurred the employment manager. "Whatever made you think you could hold down a position like this?" "Because," said the professor with great dignity, "this is probably the only chance you'll ever have of hiring a worker who has read 'Beowulf' twice in the original Anglo-Saxon."

A bragging session at recess in a Clinton, Iowa, school produced this lively exchange: "You've learned about the Pacific Ocean? Well, my pa built the hole for it." "So what? You know about the Dead Sea? Well, it was my father who killed it!"

London - (UPI) - British ship-owners decided unanimously today to oppose restrictions on their trade with Cuba.

British Shippers Oppose Sanctions

The Council of Shipping, which represents shipowners, met here to discuss reports that the U.S. government was planning new measures to penalize ships carrying Communist goods to Cuba.

A statement issued by the council said: "It is a matter of grave concern to owners engaged in trade that they could be involved in sanctions."

The shipowners pointed out that some of their ships were engaged in long-term charter and they would oppose any moves to break the charter contracts.

They also pointed out that there have been long standing trade relations with Cuba.

Assemblywoman Asks Supervisors To Support Dam

Yreka - "Siskiyou county can be California's gateway to the north," Mrs. Pauline Davis, Portola, assemblywoman for the northern California district, told the Siskiyou county board of supervisors Wednesday.

She appeared before the board seeking their opinion on the proposed Box Canyon dam issue. This reservoir, three miles southwest of Mt. Shasta, is one of five recreational projects slated for the Sacramento river watershed.

Mrs. Davis asked the board to "stop their petty disagreements" and to back the proposed Box Canyon 100 per cent.

Considerable Discussion

Following considerable discussion, the board agreed to meet with Mrs. Davis, Gov. Pat Brown and William Warne, head of the department of natural resources, at such a meeting could be arranged between Oct. 26 and 31.

The object of the meeting, Mrs. Davis said, would be to obtain Governor Brown's and Warne's approval of the Box Canyon project before presenting it to the state legislature. Two-thirds of both the state House of Representatives and senate must vote in favor of the project before money will be available for its construction.

There appeared to be some feeling at the Wednesday meeting that Sen. Randolph Collier, Yreka, would oppose the issue if it comes before the legislature.

Senator Collier is now in Madrid, Spain, and was not available for comment yesterday. In a talk two weeks ago before the Mt. Shasta Chamber of Commerce he was in favor of the dam.

Economically Feasible

At that meeting, Collier said the dam, to cost in excess of $3,000,000, is economically feasible and that both the local people and tourists favor development of the area. He stressed that under the existing California Water Bond act, approved by the voters two years ago, there are no funds available for a program primarily for recreation purposes.

He explained that the project based on department of water resources studies. He added that the area should be developed as the demand for camping facilities near Mt. Shasta is increasing.

Two other recreation projects - Feather river, now under construction, and North Coast, currently delayed due to costs - had priority over the Box Canyon reservoir, Mrs. Davis explained.

He has been associated with the post office department for the past 22 years, spending most of that time in Medford. He was stationed at the Eugene postoffice before returning to Medford several years ago.

6.5 Million Tree Seedlings Will Be Available in State

Salem - More than 6.5 million tree seedlings will be available to Oregon forest and farm woodland owners throughout the state during the 1962-63 planting season from the state forestry department's two forest nurseries, according to Assistant State Forester C. D. Maus.

"Order blanks will be mailed upon request starting the last week in October, but processing of the trees will not begin until weather conditions bring about plant dormancy sometime in November," he said.

Production this year includes 25 different tree species, which will provide growing stock adapted to nearly all climatic conditions in the state. They will meet most planting requirements such as windbreaks and shelterbelts, or growing such as Christmas trees and merchantable timber crops on both the woodland and regular forest areas, Maus indicated.

Trees include both the eastern and western Oregon varieties of Douglas-fir as well as the noble, white, grand and Shasta firs, Port Orford and incense cedars, Sierra redwood, Chinese arborvitae, Norway spruce and Rocky Mt. juniper. The pines are represented by ponderosa, sugar, Scotch, Austrian, knobcone, shore, and lodgepole. Hardwoods include Black locust, caragana, green ash, Russian olive, casahra and honey locust (thornless).

Sugar Pine Available

This is the first year that sugar pine has been available and only the second year for Austrian pine, Rocky Mt. juniper and honey locust, so their supply is somewhat limited, Maus said. Chinese elm will not be available for the first time in many years due to a seed crop failure from Canada to Texas. Monterey pine is likewise unavailable because of lack of seed supply.

Individuals wanting to receive tree order blanks can be placed on the mailing list by writing the state forester, post office box 2289, Salem, or they can be obtained starting the last week in October from the department's field offices, or those of the extension service, soil conservation service and U.S. forest service.

Although tree seedlings are in good supply, the demand has increased so rapidly with the Tree Farm movement in Oregon that it is recommended orders be placed immediately upon receipt of the order blank, Maus noted.

Processing will start sometime in November governed by prevailing weather conditions. Applicants are reminded that planting should never be done until the ground to be planted has had sufficient rain to soak it to a depth of at least 12 inches.

Trees received prior to this condition should be "heeled in" as illustrated in the "planting tips." Applications received during the planting season will require about 10 days to process from their date of receipt, Maus said.

DENTIST COSTS

New York - (UPI) - New dental graduates spend more than $30 million a year for dental equipment, office furnishings, air conditioning and other equipment in establishing a practice, according to the American Dental Association.

The potato has not always been highly regarded as a food. A group of Englishmen who did not like potatoes formed the "Society for Prevention of Unwholesome Diet," the initials of which gave the potato its nickname, spud.

Self-Employed Get Deductions On Pension Funds

Washington - (UPI) - Starting Jan. 1, doctors, lawyers, farmers and other self-employed persons will be allowed to claim tax deductions on part of the money they save for retirement.

Treasury - opposed legislation permitting self-employed persons to set up tax-deductible private pension funds became law later Wednesday when President Kennedy signed the measure.

Some advisors had urged Kennedy to veto the bill, even though there was no doubt that Congress would have over-ridden a veto. He signed it only six hours before it would have become law automatically at midnight.

Diluted Version

The legislation provided a much-diluted version of the pension law for which doctors, lawyers and other groups of self-employed have been pushing in Congress for 11 years.

The new law will permit self-employed persons to claim tax deductions on one-half of their contributions to pension funds set up for their own retirement. Contributions will be limited to 10 per cent of their income with a top limit of $2,500 a year.

Thus, the maximum tax deduction will be $1,250 (equal in taxcutting value to the exemptions provided by two extra dependents).

Moreover, self-employed persons who have employees will not be permitted to set up pensions for themselves unless they provide "non-forfeitable" pensions for all full-time employees with three years' service.

Nepal College Aid Program Noted

Eugene - A program to aid the colleges in Nepal has been announced by Dr. Hugh B. Wood, professor of education at the University of Oregon and executive secretary of the American Nepal Education Foundation.

Dr. Wood and other University of Oregon faculty members provided consultant services in education for more than five years to the kingdom of Nepal in order to assist in the establishment of a teacher training program and a national university, including the establishment of three college libraries.

The Nepalese colleges include all of the sciences and liberal arts and most of the professional schools. Textbooks, reference books, reports, bound periodicals and other general books all have value to the Nepalese students, who use English as the medium of instruction in their colleges.

Dr. Wood has asked that persons who have such books send them to him before Nov. 2 at the American Nepal Education Foundation, school of education, University of Oregon, Eugene.

Lt. Col. Albert Schoepper is the director of the U. S. Marine band which will present two concerts in Medford Oct. 18. Col. Schoepper pointed out that the Marine band is an organization that has played an important role in American history and has been praised by the heads of government from throughout the world.

The appearance of the bandmen in full dress uniform is matched only by the faultless execution of its program of marches, light classics and popular music, he noted.

There will be music for every taste when the Marine band plays at Hedrick Junior High school at 2:30 p.m. and at 8 p.m. Adults attending the afternoon concert will pay the general admission charge.

The appearance of the Marine band are being sponsored by the Medford High school band to provide traveling expenses and the uniform fund.

Members of the high school band are selling tickets, which also are available at Mann's, Barker's Swem's John Lusk and Emerald Music company, Parucker Music House and at the high school ticket office on week days from 8 a.m. to noon.

Russian Premier Ponders Visit To UN, Kennedy

Moscow - (UPI) - Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev, just back from a three-week tour of troubled farm areas, was reported thinking hard today about a possible November trip to the United Nations and summit talks with President Kennedy.

Khrushchev returned Wednesday night from a swing through the Soviet Union's central Asian areas to see for himself why farming continues to be a soft spot in the Soviet economy.

It was assumed he now would have more opportunity to concentrate on such international problems as Berlin and Cuba and the capital was filled with rumors that he would go to the United States.

No Confirmation

There was no official confirmation that such a trip is planned but senior foreign diplomats and highly placed Soviet sources said Khrushchev appeared to be giving it active consideration.

One high Soviet source indicated that if Khrushchev does go it would be next month.

In this context, the Soviets recently offered to suspend all negotiations on Berlin until after the U.S. congressional elections. Khrushchev may be thinking about restarting the talks himself in a post-election chat with Kennedy.
