Burning Restrictions Removed in Forest

Klamath Falls — Restrictions imposed by the secretary of agriculture have been removed, according to Klamath National Forest Supervisor J. F. Thornton.

Removal of such restrictions allows camp fires on national forest lands without permits and lifts all smoking restrictions within the forest. However, he urged all people to take normal care with fire since drying periods may occur at any time.

The forest supervisor also warned that California law requires burning permits be obtained before burning slash and other debris or brush, timber or grass-covered lands until Dec. 1. Burning permits may be obtained from any U. S. Forest service ranger station or from the California division of forestry offices at Yreka, Fort Jones and Macdowell.
