Chain Explosion
Levels Building

Memphis, Tenn. — A woman worker in the Pace Corporation ammunition assembly plant Wednesday immediately noticed something different about the incendiary bomb she was putting together. It was spewing fire.

The plant had instructed its 30 employees, mostly women, on procedures to cope with such an emergency.

But "instead of putting it in a specially prepared safety bucket beside her she panicked and threw it aside," said production manager Leonard E. Day. "It landed in a tray containing more bombs," setting off a chain reaction of explosions.

10-Second Delay
"Luckily, the bombs have a 10 second delay before they go off," Day said, and the workers all "managed to get out."

The bombs were "simulator ground bursts" which are used by armed forces for training purposes. They contain two and 2-10 inch flash powder and measure about ten inches in length.

A company official said the bombs actually simulate the sound of shells whistling and exploding. Foreman Robert Floyd said the workers heard a warning whistle the bombs carry and "emptied out of there like the world was about to end."

"I heard one blow, then blam, blam, blam. The ground shook. The windows in the rooms were blowing out, and I saw pieces flying off the roof," Floyd said.

Burned To Ground
The plant, located south of here near the Tennessee-Mississippi line, was burned to the ground. The building was about 100 yards from the rest of the plant. Loss was estimated at about $40,000.

A company official said there were more than 500 of the bombs in the building at the time. Witnesses said pieces of metal and burning debris shot from the flames as one by one the bombs ignited. "Once that sort of stuff starts to burn nothing can stop it," a spokesman said.

One of the women working inside said everyone "started screaming and running for the door."

"It was the most hideous experience of my life," she said.

Abduction Brings
15 Years in Prison
Portland—A federal judge Wednesday gave two men 15 year prison sentences in connection with the June abduction of an Idaho state auditor.

Judge Gus J. Solomon handed the sentences to Raymond F. Peper, 35, and Bailey D. Lake, 33. The sentences were reduced from life. The two men underwent a 90-day observation period at a California correctional institution.

The two men were captured near Hood River, Ore., shortly after Samuel G. Peterson, 37, was robbed and abandoned in a field 17 miles east of The Dalles. Peterson had given the two men a ride near Caldwell, Idaho, and said they forced him to drive them to Oregon.

4-H News
Lake Creek
The Lake Creek 4-H club achievement program and potluck dinner will be held Wednesday, Oct. 24, at 7 p.m. in the Lake Creek Grange hall.

Goody Cookers
The first meeting of the Goody Cookers 4-H club was called to order by President Marcia Dunlap. The 4-H pledge was led by Connie Hukill and Louise Wirth. The flag salute was led by Karen Charley.

We discussed our achievement night. We decided that it would be Oct. 20 at 6:30 p.m. at the cafeteria at the fair grounds.

We also elected officers. They are Marcia Heffner, president; Marcia Dunlap, vice president; Donna Smith, secretary; Dana Dunlap, leader; and Donna Hukill, song leader.

Marcia Heffner made a motion that we bring a dollar with us next meeting to pay for our dues for the whole year because so many forget their dues each meeting. It was seconded by Marcia Dunlap.

Our next meeting will be Nov. 10 at the home of Donna and Patty Glathe. The meeting was adjourned and refreshments were served by the Dunlapes.
