Marlene Dietrich Says Youth Optimism, Trust

By GAY PAULEY
UPI Women's Editor

New York - "Youth is optimism and trust," says Marlene Dietrich.

If she is correct, the fabulous Dietrich is ageless in mental outlook. And certainly she's got nature on her side physically.

The optimistic miasm of the German-born actress, who has become a legendary representative of beauty and glamour, shines throughout her conversation - on everything from kitchen aprons. "A woman in an apron invites hugging" to her thoughts on this nation's preoccupation with retirement.

"I suppose," she said, "if I were doing something I did not like, I would think of

Trends In Development Discussed

Dr. Phyllis Butler, professor of education at Southern Oregon college, was the guest speaker at the Monday meeting of the Rogue Valley Home Economists in Homemaking. She discussed the newer trends in child development, and showed a few of the work tools that are being used by some educators in evaluating the mental and physical growth of children.

Dr. Butler spoke of the four basic personality needs of all children. They are listed as the need for status or recognition, the need for security, the need for affection, and the need for independence. She stated that some of these needs could be met by giving the child some kind of responsibility at every stage of his development.

It was also mentioned that educators are becoming more and more aware of the fact that the chronological age of a child is not necessarily a good yardstick to measure readiness for the first grade. Boys are slower developing than girls and by postponing entry into school a year for some children, the chances for a good adjustment to school activities are much better.

Dr. Butler also mentioned a study that was conducted in 1937 and 1957 to find the most pressing teen-age problems. Money was number one in both surveys. They found, however, that the morals and philosophies were still the same, and still good.

She also touched briefly on the need for helping children to learn self-discipline, and stressed how important it is for children to learn how to get along with others. Ninety-five per cent of the people who consistently lose jobs do so because they cannot get along with others, she said, and not because they are not competent at the job.

The meeting was held at the home of Mrs. Thomas D. MacLeod, 200 Sunrise avenue. Retirement, I was lucky. I like what I am doing and have no intention of retiring.

The actress wore pale lavender stretch trousers and a man's style shirt, lavender also. The figure seemed thinner than in an interview in 1958. Maybe the Las Vegas night club stint she has just finished is the reason - "I just can't eat properly," she once told me. "I can't down a big meal before a performance and I'm not through until sometimes three and four in the morning. . . by then my appetite's gone."

But the face remains unchanged - clear, pale skin, huge blue eyes set in deep sockets, broad forehead, and blonde hair now worn in a short, slightly bouffant bob without part.

Dietrich declares she never diets, has no special secrets for skin care. She's a soap and water girl who "can't stand creams or anything greasy on my face and hands. That is why I have workman's hands."

Which brings up another side of the actress.

If anybody can glamorize housework, she can in conversation. According to friends, she's a notably good cook. And according to her only child, Maria Riva, mother of four, "mommy's" not above scrubbing a kitchen floor either, if she finds one dirty.

Absence to Zippers

"I like everything that has immediate results," said Miss Dietrich. "Cleaning is one - cooking has the same reward. I like anything which has to be done with the hands."

She's a do-it-yourselfer at the typewriter too, she said. She used it and no ghost writer for her first book called "Marlene Dietrich's ABC" - a hodgepodge of opinion on everything from "a pretty and poetic thought that 'absence makes the heart grow fonder,' but quite misleading" to "zippers. Learn to repair them. You will save time, nerves, money."

We asked the actress what ever prompted her to write a book. Came back the quick, candid answer: "Doubleday." She said the publishing company nagged her for a couple of years and she finally found a formula in the dictionary approach in which she has a chance "to cover a variety of thoughts that have accrued . . . some basic rules."

In real life, Marlene Dietrich has been married since 1924 to Rudolf Sieber, whom she met while he was directing a film in which she had a small part. Sieber now runs a chicken ranch in California's San Fernando valley.

Teacher Attends All-Day Workshop At Winchester

Elk - Trail - Mrs. Arthur Hume, teacher-librarian at Elk-Trail school, Eagle Point district, attended an all-city workshop for school and county librarians held in Winchester, Ore., recently.

More than 60 school and county librarians and trustees were at the meeting held in the Oak Tree inn.

The theme of the meeting was "Building and Maintaining a Library Collection." Sponsors were the Oregon State Library, the Oregon State Department of Education and the Oregon Library association.

Donald Wright of Chicago, Ill., director of the Small Libraries project of the American Library association acted as critic.

Omar Bacon, head librarian for the Public Library of Medford and Jackson county, and Mrs. Florence Moberly, Grants Pass, of the Josephine county library, were two of the group leaders and recorders.

In the group discussions the objectives of a good library and how to meet these objectives were analyzed. The symposium on book selection was considered especially helpful to librarians.

Pink party punch uses commercial juice concentrates with home or commercially frozen berries. Mix 1 (6 ounce) can each of frozen lemonade concentrate and frozen orange juice concentrate with 1 pint or 1 (14 ounce) package of frozen sliced strawberries and juice. Just before serving, place ingredients in punch bowl with a large block of ice. Add 2 quarts of carbonated water and mint sprigs to garnish. Makes 3 quarts, or about 20 punch cupsful.

Plan Menus Now For Halloween Party Events

It won't be long until witches and goblins and other eerie figures will be seen scurrying along darkened streets. Already many parties are being planned with Halloween themes.

Favorite fare at Halloween parties for all ages seems to be punch and cookies. The combination can be served after an elegant buffet supper for the adults or served as simple refreshments for the young fry.

Witches' Brew is an easy-to-prepare taste treat that will be just right with Goblin Crisp Cookies.

WITCHES' BREW
Four apples; whole cloves; one-cup water; two cups grape juice; one and one-half cups sugar; three-fourth cup lemon juice; one cup orange juice.

Wash apples, core, and fill with whole cloves. Place apples in low baking pan with a little water. Bake in moderate oven (350 degrees) about 10 minutes, or until slightly soft.

Boil water and sugar together for five minutes. Cool. Add lemon juice, then orange juice and grape juice. Chill.

Place apples in punch bowl with cracked ice; add punch. Serve immediately.

GOBLIN CRISP COOKIES
One and one-half sifted all-purpose flour; three tablespoons sugar; one-half teaspoon salt; one teaspoon ginger; one-fourth cup shortening; three-fourth cup molasses; one-half cup lemon juice; one teaspoon cinnamon.

Sift together flour, sugar, salt, ginger and cinnamon. Cut in shortening with pastry blender or two knives. Blend until fairly smooth. Roll out dough to one-eighth inch thick on waxed paper and cut out with cookie cutters, in Halloween-type forms.

Bake on ungreased baking sheets in moderate oven (350 degrees) from eight to 10 minutes.

College Makes Plans for Party

Sister John Mary, O.S.B., and Miss Geraldine Pearson from Mt. Angel college, Mt. Angel, Oregon, were in Medford over the week end setting up an admissions party for area high school juniors and seniors.

The party will be held at the home of Dr. and Mrs. Fred Burich Sunday, November 18. Invitations are not yet in the mail.

Mt. Angel college has scheduled three "Sundae (or Sunday) Parties" for the coming year. The first will be in Medford, the second in Portland and the third in Seattle.

Miss Pearson is the assistant to the president at Mt. Angel and Sister John Mary is the dean of student affairs.

Idaho Family Visits Hornbrook

Hornbrook - Mrs. E. R. Burtner and daughter, Ann, of Mountain Home, Idaho, spent the past week with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Chapman.

Tuesday, the Chapmans and their guests spent the day in Medford with Mrs. Burtner's sister and her family. Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Dungey and Mary Pat, Christopher, and Jane, of Winchester avenue.

Friday, Mrs. Dungey and Jane spent the day in Hornbrook, and the families took a tour of the Iron Gate project.

Reception Planned For UN Day

One of the observances of United Nations day in Oregon on October 24 will be a reception for which Gov. and Mrs. Mark O. Hatfield will be hosts.

The reception will be held from 4 to 5:30 o'clock at the Portland Art Museum in Portland and the Hon. Robert D. Holmes, former governor of Oregon, is chairman of the event. Members of the consular corps in Oregon will also be honored at the reception.

In his proclamation stressing United Nations' day, President John F. Kennedy declared that the United Nations "is now an effective instrument against hunger, illiteracy, disease and despair; is a main avenue for cooperation in the peaceful uses of outer space; and has a peacekeeping potential which provides a key to world disarmament. He called upon citizens, the communications media and officials of government to hold appropriate observances throughout the nation.

In Medford, Mayor John Snider and a group of citizens will attend a United Nations' day luncheon at North's Chuck Wagon at 12:15 p.m. Wednesday.

Basic Mixes Subject At Lone Mountain

O'Brien - Basic mixes were the subject of Mrs. Edward Michels and Mrs. Robert Bennett, who prepared several dishes for the recent luncheon meeting of the Lone Mountain Home Extension unit.

The November meeting will feature "Social Security" and will be presented by the county agent, Miss Frances Harvey.

The Illinois Valley units will hold their annual Christmas fair on November 9 in the American Legion auxiliary room in Cave Junction.

The taciturn Yankee really may be quite a talker. The U.S. department of agriculture says the percentage of farms equipped with phones is higher for New England than for any other region.

O'Brien OES Session Slated

O'Brien - A practice meeting will be conducted Tuesday, October 23 at 7:30 p.m., by members of the Western Star chapter, Order of the Eastern Star. The session will be held in the Masonic temple and is in preparation of the school of instruction to be conducted by Mrs. Virginia Wright, grand chapter member, at a no-host dinner November 2 at 8 p.m., in the Todelope cafe in Cave Junction.

Announcement of the meeting was made during a recent session of the chapter in the Masonic temple at Kerby when the group also decided to make Christmas awards as in the past. Orders will be taken immediately. Mrs. Edna Cooper, chairman, asked for volunteers to take orders and that members devote some time to construction of swags.

Chapter members will use a birthday penny fund for the OES training award for religious leaders.

The next stated meeting will be November 20 which will focus attention on the ESTAR fund. Honored guest will be Mrs. Fanny Snook, Shary Cove, ESTAR committee member of the grand chapter. O'Brien, Basic Mixes was the subject of Mrs. Edward Michels and Mrs. Robert Bennett, who prepared several dishes for the luncheon of Lone Mountain Home Extension Unit, Thursday, Oct. 11th.

Novembers HEU meeting will feature Social Security and be presented by county home extension agent, Miss Frances Harvey.

Illinois Valley HEU units will hold their annual Christmas Fair, November 9th at the Legion Auxiliary room in Cave Junction.

Rector and Wife Plan Annual Event Sunday

To mark the 13th anniversary of their arrival in Medford, the Rev. and Mrs. George R. V. Bolster will be at home to members and friends of St. Mark's Episcopal church on Sunday, October 28. They will receive guests between two-thirty and five o'clock at the rectory, 203 North Oakdale avenue.

The Bolsters came to Medford from Bend, Ore., September 16, 1949, where the Rev. Mr. Bolster had been rector of Trinity Episcopal church for 10 years. Each year since, the couple has held open house in the fall.

Honored guests at the event Sunday will be Miss A. P. Livingston, sister of the late Major A. Livingston, churchwarden emeritus, and the Rev. and Mrs. L. Cox. The Rev. Mr. Cox has been curate of St. Mark's church for the past 15 months.

Invited to pour and assist Mrs. Bolster will be heads of departments and organizations of the church, and wives of church officials.

Pouring will be Mrs. Thomas C. Bolton, president of Episcopal Churchwomen; Mrs. F. J. Glonning, St. Elizabeth's guild; Mrs. Paul Selby, wife of the senior warden; Mrs. W. D. Jensen, wife of the junior warden; Mrs. Gary King, St. Catherine's guild; Mrs. R. H. Wilcox, St. Theresa's guild; Mrs. Elwood B. Hedberg, Altar guilds; Mrs. Floyd Baker, wife of the clerk of the vestry; Mrs. E. C. Conrad, the choir; Mrs. T. E. Whiteford, Daughters of the King; Mrs. D. Roach, wife of the general superintendent of the Sunday schools; Mrs. Hollis E. Kleff, wife of the church treasurer.

Assisting in welcoming the guests during the first half of the afternoon will be Mrs. C. Barker, acolyte mother; Mrs. J. D. McPherson, church secretary; Mrs. Douglas Harsh, Young People's Fellowship co-advisor, and Mrs. Victor Milnes, wife of St. Mark's key layman.

During the last half of the afternoon, the wives of lay readers will receive guests. They are Mrs. J. A. McDougall, Mrs. George Bruse, Mrs. C. H. Barrell, Mrs. William Duhaime, Mrs. George Brennan and Mrs. Fred Strang.

Basic Training Course To Open

The Rogue Valley Girl Scout Council, Inc. will conduct a Basic Leadership training course for new leaders. This course will be 16 hours long and will begin on Wednesday, October 24 at 10 to 2:30 p.m., at the new Girl Scout headquarters at 431 West Ninth street.

The other three sessions will be November 1, 8, and 14, at the same time and place. Trainers will be Mrs. Donald Quesenberry and Mrs. Bernard Piel. Child care will be furnished.
