West Virginia Foe Of Oregon Staters

Portland – (UPI) – Unbeaten but underdog West Virginia, hoping to erase memories of a defeat here two years ago, tangles with Oregon State and its deadly aerial combination of Terry Baker to Vern Burke Saturday.

Despite five straight West Virigina victories, including a 15-8 win over Pittsburgh, oddsmakers have installed Oregon State as a one-touchdown favorite.

Baker and Burke are the big reasons.

Baker, Oregon State's all-America quarterback candidate, is second in the nation in total offense with 1053 yards, 848 by passing. He has completed nine touchdown passes including seven to Burke. Burke has 37 receptions in all and is second nationally in pass receiving.

Two seasons ago West Virginia brought a young team here and dropped a 20-6 decision to the University of Oregon. Several of the Mountaineer regulars played in that game as sophomores.

The Mountaineers will outweigh Oregon State about 20 pounds per man in the line. They also possess good backfield speed with the likes of Tom Woodeshick and Jim Moss, the latter returning to action after three weeks on the sidelines with a knee injury. Jerry Yost of the visitors has completed 28 of 55 pass attempts.

West Virginia was to fly in this afternoon and go stright to Multnomah Stadium for a workout. Oregon State will come to Portland from Corvallis by bus Saturday.

Redskins Will Find Out Just How Good They Are

United Press International

This is the Sunday when the undefeated Washington Redskins find out just how good they really are.

The amazing 'Skins, whose record of four victories and two ties is the surprise of the National Football League, take on the New York Giants at Yankee Stadium.

And the Redskins are seven-point underdogs.

Sunday's schedule also includes two games involving four of the top teams in the NFL's Western Division. The champion Green Bay Packers, with six straight victories, are the choice by 13 points over the Colts at Baltimore and the Detroit Lions are favored by seven points at home over the Chicago Bears.

Other Games

In other Sunday games the Dallas Cowboys are picked by seven points at home over the St. Louis Cardinals, the Cleveland Browns are the choice by four over the Steelers at Pittsburgh; the San Francisco 49'ers are favored by 13½ over the winless Rams at Los Angeles, and the Minnesota Vikings and Philadelphia Eagles are rated even at Minneapolis-St. Paul.

The Redskins (4-0-2) cannot drop out of first place in the Eastern Division whether they win, lose or tie the game against the second place Giants (4-2). Ties are not counted in computing the won-lost percentages in NFL standings.

This game, however, will be the toughest test of the season for the Redskins. The only "upper crust" team they have beaten thus far is Cleveland.

The acquisition of Bobby Mitchell has made Washington a powerful air threat. And other players obtained in trades-like Billy Barnes, Bob Pellegrini, Bobby Freeman and John Nisby-have instilled a winning spirit.

Tennis Officials Discuss Panties

London – (UPI) – The eyes of British lawn tennis officialdom have frowned on ladies panties – as worn at Wimbledon.

The London Daily Express reported that the 12-man Lawn Tennis Championship committee met in secret session on Wednesday night in a room over a London restaurant and reached a "major decision" about next year's Wimbledon championships.

"Pink panties will not be allowed," reported the newspaper. "Nor blue panties, nor green panties considered by the committee to be of 'extravagant design'."

Selection of Estes Jury Nearing End

Tyler, Tex. –(UPI)– Attorneys in the Billie Sol Estes theft and swindling trial today try to bring jury selection to a close before the week end.

Thursday's proceedings were highlighted by the qualifying of 18 prospective jurors, a wrangle between Estes' chief counsel, John D. Cofer, and Dist. Judge Otis T. Dunagan and Billie Sol's politicking in the courthouse coffee shop.

A panel of 32 jurors was needed because both defense and prosecution attorneys have 10 peremptory challenges, which would cut the panel to the required 12.

Cofer heatedly accused Dunagan of playing prosecutor in the trial and later clashed with Tyler Dist. Atty. Weldon Holcomb over the type of questions that may be asked prospective jurors.

WITH CLOWNS AT EP—Art Smith, 6-8, is center for the Harlem Clowns basketball team. The famous funsters will play at Eagle Point high gym at 8:15 p.m. on Wednesday, Oct. 31, against John Wheeler Logging of Medford. Eagle Point Lettermen's club is sponsor and net proceeds will go to its scholarship fund.

Minor Accident Is Reported To Police

State police reported a minor accident at the intersection of Stewart ave. and Peach st. last night.

A car driven by Mabel Elizabeth Parker, 68, of 801 Marshall st., Medford, went into a ditch and struck a power pole, state police said. No injuries were reported.

Mrs. Parker told officers she thought a car behind her was approaching too fast and she speeded up to avoid a possible rear end collision, officers said.

SUBS FOR JACKIE

Washington –(UPI)– Mrs. Jacqueline Kennedy's mother will present the President's Cup tonight at the International Horse Show in behalf of the First Lady. Pamela Turnure, Mrs. Kennedy's press secretary, said the First Lady had asked her mother, Mrs. Hugh D. Auchincloss, to stand in for her. Mrs. Kennedy has cancelled all social engagements because of the Cuban crisis.

Red Raiders Tackle Oregon Tech at KF

Ashland– Southern Oregon college's football team will travel to Klamath Fals to take on the Oregon Tech Ows on Saturday at 1:30 p.m. The encounter will be the second Oregon Collegiate conference game for the Raiders and the third loop outing for the Owls.

"This will be an especially tough contest for the Raiders," stated Southern Oregon mentor Al Akins. The reason for this statement is the ball game is the Oregon Tech homecoming. Akins further reported to the best of his memory, "that we have never beaten Oregon Tech in a homecoming gome over there."

Although the Owls are presently 1-1 in conference play, Akins looks for a much tougher game than the records indicate. Akins recalls past Raider-Owls encounters. In 1958, 1959, and 1960 the Owls beat Raider teams quite handily by scores of 40-0, 14-6, and 21-19. Last year the Raiders squeaked by the Owls in the Southern Oregon homecoming, 6-0.

Ron Pheister, head coach of the Owls, reports a roster of only 29 players. Of these 29 team members, only two are seniors. The two seniors are in the person of big Claire Hawkins, 250 pound fullback, and Bill Ransom, letterman quarterback. Pheister lists 11 players at over 200 pounds. There are six returning lettermen.

Southern Oregon will carry a 4-1 season record and a 1-0 conference record to Klamath Falls this Saturday. Akins revealed that this "would be the big contest for the Raiders to win." They must get by the Owls to stay in conference crown contention.

Donovan, Drysdale Top Hurlers

New York –(UPI)– Don Drysdale and Dick Donovan, two strong right-handers who worked under difficult conditions in 1962, were honored as the National and American league pitchers of the year today by the United Press International.

Drysdale, who had a 25-9 record for the second-place Los Angeles Dodgers, received 21 of the 24 votes cast for the NL's top pitcher while Donovan, who posted a 20-10 mark for the sixth-place Cleveland Indians, got 15 votes in the AL balloting. A 24-man board of UPI baseball experts conducted the post-season balloting.

Dodger strikeout artist Sandy Koufax and Cincinnati Red righthanders Joey Jay and Bob Purkey divided the other three votes in the NL. Ralph Terry, 23-game winner of the New York Yankees, was second with seven votes and Dick Radatz of the Boston Red Sox and Hank Aguirre of the Detroit Tigers had one each.

Long Beach, Calif.–(UPI)–The Long Beach Chiefs of the American Basketball league trimmed their roster to 12 men Wednesday with the release on waivers of Govoner Vaughn. The Oakland Oaks immediately claimed the veteran guard.

Medford Youth Hurt In Accident Today

An 11-year-old Medford boy, Robert Torheim, 228 Bradford Way, was slightly injured when the car in which he was riding collided with another vehicle this morning, according to city police.

The youth was a passenger in a car driven by Martha Helen Donahue, 42, of 209 Girard st. The accident occurred about 8:15 a.m. as Mrs. Donahue was backing out of her driveway to take the boy to school.

Driver of the other vehicle was Bessie Moore Ford, 41, Central Point. No other injuries were reported, police said, and no citations were issued.

Mrs. Donahue, a registered nurse, applied first aid to the boy. He did not require hospitalization, police said.

Woods, Water, Wildlife

By Hank DeVoss

Last week's prediction that the fishing would be good in the Klamath and Rogue rivers was a little optimistic and a little too early. The waters of both streams were high and muddy, and fishing luck was scarce. Present evidence indicates that this week end will be what last week end should have been.

BUZZARD ROOST

This project has been mentioned in this column before and has to do with the dam the Coos-Curry Electric coop proposes to build on the Illinois river. The site is about five miles up from the mouth of the river where it meets the Rogue. A study has been made of the engineering data that was compiled under the preliminary permit obtained from the federal power commission. The following facts should be of special interest to those concerned:

1. The main reservoir at full level could be approximately 4.5 miles longer than earlier indicated, meaning more loss of stream bed habitat. The main reservoir pool length is about 23 miles long.

2. A serious discrepency appears concerning the location of the reregulating dam as shown by the engineering map when compared with the notice of application. The notice of application designated the reregulating dam as being approximately 1.5 miles downstream from the main dam site, while the engineering map locates the reregulating dam as approximately 1.5 miles from the mouth of the Illinois.

3. Approximate length of the reservoir plus the pool behind the reregulating dam will be 27 miles, inundating and destroying a larg portion of the stream bed used for spawning purposes by migrating salmon and steelhead.

4. The maximum drawdown is indicated as 200 feet. According to approximation by use of quadrangle sheets and river profile sheets, this indicates a fluctuation exposure at the upper end of the reservoir pool of approximately 8 miles of stream bed.

NO RIVER, NO FISH

A 27-mile piece of the Illinois river is a big piece of river to lose for a power dam that has little to justify its being built at that particular place. The exchange of values is questionable in that there are other sources of power that would not destroy salmon and steelhead runs of the size found in the Illinois. It is a safe bet that the proposed project would virtually wipe out the runs of fish before a way could be found to get them around such an obstacle.

WHOSE CONCERN

At the present time the Coos-Curry Electrical coop has no solution to the problem of maintaining the salmon and steelhead runs in the Illinois river. It is content to pass the buck to the fisheries agencies involved and disregards the fact that the proposed project by its very nature makes any solution unworkable at this time. Its attitude is, "We'll build the dam, for this is our concern; you take care of the fish, for this is your concern." It would make more sense to say that the dam and the fish are the concern of all until there is no problem.

THE ANGLER'S LOG

The steelhead are scattered along the Rogue from Gold Ray Dam to the mouth and from the latest reports aren't too particular about what they want to hit. The size picture is uniform in that the fish closest to the ocean are the biggest, and the fish farthest up the river are the smallest.

Chetco River—The salmon are hitting bait and lures trolled in the lower river. A few fish are being taken in the upper river. Not a run of steelhead as yet.

Klamath River—A report from the mouth says that the river has just cleared up enough for fishing. Steelhead are being taken on fresh roe. Size isn't much over three pounds.

Rogue River—Single eggs in the upper river, worms and lures in the lower river will take a limit of steelhead any day. The average size in the upper river is 14 inches, and in the lower river it's six pounds.

Smith River—The mouth of the river was hotter than a pistol last week, but things have cooled considerable since then. There are a few salmon still being taken in the deep holes on up the river.

Diamond Lake—The fishing is excellent with limits. The game commission planted another 50,000 rainbow to insure plenty of fish for next year. That makes 500,000 rainbow planted since last May.

Fish Lake—Is providing excellent fishing for brook trout up to 2½ pounds. The rainbow are just as big and meaner yet.

Howard Prairie—Is almost ashamed to admit there are plenty of limits coming out every day. These are all big fish that aren't too particular until lunchtime when they prefer FF&W.

THE OPTIMIST'S CORNER

Someday progress may wait for the solutions to problems already existing before creating more of the same, but when that happens, people might not be people.

GOOD LUCK!

Linfield, L-C Clash

Powerful Lewis and Clark meets defending champion Linfield in a Northwest conference football crucial at McMinnville Saturday night.

The Pioneers and the Wildcats are tied for second place in the NWC with 2-0 records. Willamette is in the lead with a 3-0 mark.

In other conference play, Whitman faces Pacific at Forest Grove. Willamette is at home at Salem against British Columbia in a nonconference game.

Defending champion Southern Oregon plays Oregon Tech at Klamath Falls and Oregon College of Education takes on Eastern Oregon at La Grande in Oregon Collegiate Conference contests.

CARRY BACK LEADS

New York – (UPI) – Carry Back maintained a lead over Kelson in the handicap division of the Thoroughbred Racing association's latest weekly balloting, but the 1962 championship may be settled Saturday when the archrivals meet in the $100,000 Man O' War Stakes at Belmont. The racing secretaries composing the TRA board of selection gave Carry Back 291 points to 285 for Kelso, who is aiming for his third straight Horse - of - the - Year designation.
