

PEO Board Discusses Loan Fund

The educational loan fund of the PEO sisterhood was the major business discussed when members of the Oregon State board of the PEO sisterhood met Monday at the home of the state president, Mrs. E. L. Bartholomew, 2635 Hillcrest road.

The loan fund of the sisterhood dates back to 1907, and for the first time in 30 years, members are now being asked to contribute to the fund. This has become necessary because of the increased demand of the last fiscal year, officers report. Every PEO chapter in the United States and Canada is now being asked to contribute so that further loans may be granted.

Since the beginning of the fund, $6,619,308 has been loaned to 13,815 young women to further their education. It is a revolving fund, and it now totals $974,889.

Owens College
In addition to the loan fund, the sisterhood owns Cotley Junior college in Nevada, Mo. The institution has come to be known as "the college of world friendship." In addition to its program for international students, Cotley is also a member of the Reid hall third-year-in-Paris plan.

In 1949 the International Peace scholarship was established, and since that time 720 scholarships have been given to 458 students from 61 countries for a total of more than $579,500 to attend colleges and universities.

Other state officers at Monday's meeting were Mrs. J. T. Longfellow, Corvallis, first vice-president; Mrs. Fletcher Fish, Phoenix, second vice-president; Mrs. E. R. Quinn, La Grande, organizer; Miss Pauline T. Shaw, Portland, corresponding secretary; Mrs. E. V. Duncan, Portland, recording secretary; and Mrs. A. C. Fries, Ashland, treasurer.

Dried Flower Show Will Feature Nature's Gifts

Central Point—For the past several months Central Point Garden club women have been gathering materials for use in their Dried Flower show which is scheduled for Tuesday, October 30 from 12 noon to 8 p.m., and Wednesday, October 31 from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m.

The event will be held in the Jackson county extension auditorium at the fairgrounds in Medford, and members point out that this is a new location for their annual shows.

The public is invited to enter arrangements in all classes.

Mrs. Fred C. Shere, chairman of the show, may be contacted by calling telephone 664-2015.

From the fields, along the roadside and at the seashore the women have collected items such as seaweed, kelp, fungus, shells and driftwood, and from the woods they have gathered branches, cones, nuts, acorns, leaves and mosses.

From their gardens and those of friends they have selected choice flowers, vegetables, berries and plants, anything which they can dry, cure, treat with glycerine, preserve or spray.

Members explained that just as persons improve their own personal appearance with beauty aids, they do their best to make the most of nature's gifts in vegetation.

Many have found the work to be a form of therapy, both physically and mentally, as they create their original arrangements and in landscaping their own gardens.

An added feature of this year's show is an exhibit of all the native cones, each one labeled with its correct botanical name. The collection has been loaned to the club by Dr. and Mrs. Lewis G. Gentner, who have made an extensive study of native cones in Oregon.

Another display will be of dried and cured materials such as the members use in their work and hostesses will explain the methods of curing and drying them.
