Morse Says U.S. Military Force Poised To Remove Bases in Cuba

By United Press International
Sen. Wayne Morse said in Salem Wednesday that if any hitch develops in removal of Russian missile installations in Cuba the United States has its military forces poised to do the job.

Morse told a Veterans of Foreign Wars meeting "there is no doubt that this move by us is still very possible. And I favor it and shall urge it upon our President and upon our administration if the prompt and inspected removal of the Soviet bases does not commence within the next few days."

American forces into battle to attain an objective which can still be won without sending them into battle. That has been my position for 18 years and it will be my position today, tomorrow, and on election day, and . . . it will be my policy after election day, too."

Mock Election Held By College

Ashland - It will be a close election for U. S. senator in Oregon Tuesday, if the votes cast in the mock election at Southern Oregon college are any prediction.

The election, held Wednesday, showed Sen. Wayne Morse only two votes ahead of his opponent, Sig Unander, who tallied 184.

Other candidates and their votes included: for congress, Robert B. Duncan 215, Carl Fisher 150; governor, Mark Hatfield 298, Robert Y. Thornton 76, Robert H. Wampler 9; labor commissioner, Alfred Blair 176, Norman O. Nilson 164; state senate, L. W. Newberry 230, Henry F. Padgham Jr. 87 and state representative, John R. Dellenback 294, A. A. Dumas 169, Edward Branchfield 168, Alva N. Bradford 137, James A. Redden 129, Charles W. Cray 88.

All measures were approved by the students except Number 10 which would repeal the school district reorganization law. Vote on this measure was 182 no, 161 yes. Of the other measures Number 6 (daylight saving time) was approved by a margin of 221 yes, 142 no.

Dr. Marshall E. Woodell, professor of political science, conducted the election. Some 385 students voted. Dr. Woodell reported that in the past the student mock elections have been 87 per cent accurate on measures and 70 per cent on offices.

Temperatures To Be Above Normal in West

Washington - (AP) - The weather bureau said Wednesday temperatures will average below normal in the eastern half of the nation and the southern plains in November. It predicted above normal temperatures for the next 30 days west of the Continental Divide and in the northern plains.

Sig Unander, Morse's Republican rival, spoke in Beaverton Wednesday and said Morse supporters are misleading in asserting Morse can accomplish more in Washington because of his 18 years in the Senate.

"Under the parliamentary system of our government," he said, "a senator's or a congressman's seniority dates only from his seating in Congress as a representative of one political party. Wayne Morse, because of his switching party labels . . . does not have 18 years seniority in the Senate, but a mere eight years."

Morse was elected twice as a Republican before switching to the Democratic party.

Unander said Morse "flittered away 10 years when he switched political parties" and added he does not hold one committee chairmanship.

Gov. Mark Hatfield was accused by Rep. Al Ullman (D-Ore.) of "playing politics" with the lumber issue in saying President Kennedy had authority to impose a quota on Canadian imports under the 1937 agriculture act. Ullman said the President had no legal authority under the act to do so. Hatfield replied the White House had not denied the possibility of using Section 22 of the 1937 act.

Democratic Rep. Edith Green, seeking her fifth term, said the most important legislation that failed in the 87th Congress were bills for federal aid to universities and colleges and for health care for the aged under Social Security.

Ballot measure 9, which would apportion the Oregon House by area as well as population, came under attack in Portland by attorney Norman Wanick, representing the Bipartisan League to Retain Equal Representation. He said the measure would be a "backward step."

Assistant Secretary of the Interior John A. Carver Jr. told the conference that an area as large as the state of Pennsylvania was hit by the storm. He said about 4.4 billion board feet of lumber was felled in Oregon, Washington and California.

Lumbermen estimate that about 70 per cent can be salvaged.

"Japan may be one market to absorb a portion of the increased production resulting from salvage of the wind thrown timber," the conference suggested.

Storm-Damaged Timber Seen as Market Threat

Portland - (AP) - West Coast lumbermen expressed worry today their industry may face a "significant price decline" when the massive amount of timber blown down by the Oct. 12 windstorm reaches the market.

Russell E. Getty, Oregon director of the Bureau of Land Management, estimated value of the timber at nearly $125 million. He said this was based on the value of the standing timber before it was knocked down.

In addition, he said, perhaps that much more green timber must be removed in salvage logging in the three Pacific Coast states.

Nearly 300 timber operators and state and federal government officials ended a two-day meeting on salvage plans here Wednesday.

The conference adopted a statement which said, "The domestic market cannot absorb additional quantities of softwood lumber at this time at present prices."

"For conservation reasons," the statement continued, "downed timber must be removed, even though it produces an impact on the market."

Lumbermen and conservation officials fear the downed timber will become a breeding ground for bark beetles and a fire hazard next summer unless it is removed immediately.

Assistant Secretary of the Interior John A. Carver Jr. told the conference that an area as large as the state of Pennsylvania was hit by the storm. He said about 4.4 billion board feet of lumber was felled in Oregon, Washington and California.

Lumbermen estimate that about 70 per cent can be salvaged.

"Japan may be one market to absorb a portion of the increased production resulting from salvage of the wind thrown timber," the conference suggested.

Medford-Phoenix Plan On State Board Agenda

Salem - (AP) - The State Board of Education meets in Astoria Friday and will consider creation of a community college district in Douglas county.

The proposed district would take in all school districts in the county except Reedsport union high.

An election would be necessary if the board approves the proposed district.

The Astoria meeting is in conjunction with dedication of the Clatsop community college Friday afternoon.

The board also will consider a revised school district reorganization plan from Jackson county which would merge the Phoenix district with Medford.

Recommend that the state's migrant education summer program be expanded, with the appropriation enlarged from $50,000 to $60,000 for a two year period, and made continuous.

Consider agreements with nine schools for migrant education programs in the regular school year this year. The schools are at Pioneer, Woodburn, St. Paul, North Marion, North Plains, Adrian, Vale, Culver and Hood River.

Consider an application for federal funds to conduct a pilot science youth program, offering youngsters a chance to meet with scientists, mathematicians and engineers. The state would be divided into 27 regions, with students from 1,400 schools invited to take part.
