Halfield Silent on Inmate Use Case

Salem — Gov. Mark Hatfield declined comment today on a statement by Secretary of State Howell Appling Jr. and State Treasurer Howard Belton that the cost of running the state's institutions would be $10 million greater if lawsuits prevent the use of inmate labor on state projects. All three make up the State Board of Control, the agency which runs the institutions. Organized labor has filed a suit seeking to prevent the board from using inmates to build the new women's prison.
