Nearly All Stock Groups in Sharp Upturn in Prices

New York — Stocks resumed their frantic pace today with nearly all groups sharply higher.

Tickers ran behind floor transactions from the outset with such favorites as American Telephone, IBM, Du Pont, Union Carbide, U. S. Steel and Procter & Gamble up as much as 3 points in some instances.

Electronics, motors, steels, chemicals and aircrafts paced the rally followed by many utilities, metals, drugs, oils, tobacco, and cosmetics up a point or more.

Addressograph, Max Factor, Magma Copper, Merck, Norfolk & Western, Polaroid and Texas Instruments rose 2 or better. American Home Products rose more than 1 after announcing merger negotiations with Ecolab Products. Ecolab, one of the few losers, fell about a point.

Police Attempting To Locate Two Men

Medford city police today are attempting to locate two men believed to be in the area.

Authorities in Betanay, Okla., have asked local officers to assist in determining the whereabouts of Tom C. Walley, 35, a mason-tender by trade. Walley has a slightly crippled left arm.

Also being sought is Norman Eugene Morgan, 42. Relatives in Paragould, Ark., are anxious to contact him, police said.

Franklin, Ohio — FBI — Deputies sped to the scene where a Brinks armored truck was reported abandoned on Thursday. Finding no signs of life, they banged on a window wherein appeared the surprised face of the driver who was eating his lunch.

Moscow Reports All Equipment Functioning

Moscow — (UPI) — Soviet Russia's newest space venture hurtled toward Mars today at the beginning of a seven-month voyage to try to photograph the mysterious "canals" and icecaps that have fascinated scientists for centuries.

Soviet astronomer Nikolai Barabashov, writing in the Communist party newspaper Pravda, predicted the space probe would find the "seas" of Mars are "full of vegetation," explaining why they appear green in spring and summer, brown in autumn and gray in winter.

First for Soviets

Russia launched the unmanned interplanetary probe last Thursday night, saying it was the first Soviet shot toward Mars.

U. S. space administrator, James E. Webb, said in Washington last September that the Soviets had failed on two attempts in October, 1960, to send probes to Mars.

Officials announced that by 11 p.m. (PST) Thursday the nearly one-ton, instrument-laden automatic station was some 210,000 miles from earth. Initial Moscow reports said all equipment aboard was functioning normally.

There was no indication how close to Mars the probe is supposed to go.

Parking Orbit

The "Mars I," more than four times heavier than America's Venus-bound Mariner-2, was launched from a heavy satellite in a "parking orbit" around the earth, according to the official news agency Tass.

The United States has used "parking orbits" on its Ranger shots to the moon.

In a special, post-midnight announcement of the launching, Moscow Radio said the probe carried an automatic interplanetary station weighing 1,965.7 pounds. Mariner-2 weighed 447 pounds.

Action Planned Against Pilots For 'Sky-Larking'

Chicago — (UPI) — Disciplinary action will be taken against several Eastern Air Line pilots charged with "sky-larking" while at the controls," according to Najeeb E. Halaby, administrator of the Federal Aviation Agency (FAA).

Halaby said Thursday the FAA will announce the action next week in Washington "after we inform the pilots involved." They will be given an opportunity to appeal, he said.

The decision to discipline the pilots, most of whom have denied the charges, came after the Federal Bureau of Investigation verified photographs taken by members of the flight engineers' union, he said.

Sworn Testimony

The pictures were presented with sworn testimony before a congressional committee recently.

"One pilot photographed in an apparent sleeping position claimed he was momentarily resting," the administrator said. The pictures also showed among other things, stewardesses sitting on pilots' laps during alleged indoctrination flights.

Halaby said none of the incidents occurred on jetliners and none happened within the last two years.

"I am convinced that sky-larking practices are not prevalent because of greater control by the carriers and the FAA, and because modern aircraft demand closer attention," he said.

Plant Head Returns From Convention

R. S. Fish, superintendent of the Medford sewage treatment plant, was among the 400 persons who attended the 29th annual meeting of the Pacific Northwest Pollution Control association recently in Salem.

Among subjects discussed was the present status of air pollution control, water pollution and new developments in waste-water treatment.

Field trips were made to the Wah Chang Corporation plant in Albany to view gas, fume and dust control installations.

CUBAN PEOPLE LEARN OF MISSILE BASES

Havana — (UPI) — The Cuban people, listening to Premier Fidel Castro's nationwide radio-television speech Thursday night, learned for the first time that:

—Cuba has missile bases.

—The bases belong to the Soviet Union and are operated by Soviet personnel.

—Cuba will not pay for Russian arms it has received because "the Soviet Union decided several months ago to cancel the debt on all arms shipped us."

—Russian officers have been training Cuban soldiers.

TASS REPORTS CASTRO'S SPEECH IN FEW WORDS

Moscow — (UPI) — The official news agency Tass reported today the 90-minute speech of Cuban Premier Fidel Castro in Havana Thursday night in a few words.

Tass said from Havana that Castro set forth the Cuban position "in connection with the crisis in the Caribbean."

PRESENCE OF U2 PLANES DEPENDS ON TESTS

London — (UPI) — The presence of American U2 high altitude planes in Britain depends "to a large extent on how long the Soviet Union continues its present series of (nuclear) tests," according to British Secretary of State for Air Hugh Fraser.

Fraser made the statement Thursday in answering questions in the House of Commons. He said U2 planes now based in Britain are engaged solely in "atmospheric sampling and high altitude weather research."

INGRID BERGMAN'S DAUGHTER IN PARIS

Paris — (UPI) — Jenny Lindstrom, 24-year-old daughter of actress Ingrid Bergman, has taken an apartment in the left bank district here, according to reliable sources.

They said Miss Lindstrom, who recently was divorced from a young American and has been living in Italy, had "just arrived" in Paris.

DUTCH PRINCESS ENDS PAKISTAN VISIT

Karachi — (UPI) — Dutch Crown Princess Beatrix ended a 10-day official visit to Pakistan early today and flew to New Delhi.

Churchill Takes Night Out With Old London Cronies

London — (UPI) — Sir Winston Churchill, 87, back on his feet and smiling happily, wine and dined with old cronies Thursday night in his first time out since he broke his thigh bone four months ago.

It was a night of cigars and brandy for Churchill at the exclusive Other Club he founded 31 years ago as a place for distinguished men to eat, drink and speak their minds.

The clock was nearing midnight when the former prime minister lit his last cigar, adjusted his Homburg and let himself be wheeled into the elevator.

Attendants began to roll him across the lobby. But 30 feet from the door, he said firmly: "I will walk to my car."

Members of his staff helped him to his feet. As he shuffled across the lobby, leaning heavily on his cane, the hotel's door swung open and Sir Winston walked into a blaze of photographers' flashbulbs.

The old warrior doffed his hat to the photographers, waved his huge cigar and growled, "Goodnight, goodnight, goodnight everybody."

Then he walked slowly, helped by his staff, to his waiting car and went home to the bedroom where he has been convalescing from his broken leg.

It was Churchill's first outing since he fell while on vacation on the Riviera June 26. On hand for the occasion were Prime Minister Harold Macmillan, Foreign Secretary Lord Home, the Marquess of Salisbury and 37 other guests.

Foes of Reapportionment In Agreement on Importance

By United Press International

Key opponents on Oregon's ballot measure on reapportionment agreed today it is one of the most important measures to go on the ballot in years.

Each side predicted victory — if the voters took the trouble to learn what the measure is about.

Speaking in favor of the measure was State Sen. President Harry Boivin of Klamath Falls. Speaking against it was Myron Katz of Portland, state coordinator for the Bipartisan League to Retain Equal Representation.

"People who understand Ballot Measure Nine are overwhelmingly in favor of it," Boivin said.

"I am absolutely convinced if the voters understand it, it will be defeated," Katz said.

Could Change Method

The measure would change Oregon's method of apportioning the legislature, currently based only on population. It would leave population alone as the factor in handing out Senate seats. But in the House, 30 seats would be allocated to districts drawn up on the basis of area. The rest would be apportioned on a population basis.

Jackson Opposes More Road Bonds

Newport — (UPI) — Glenn L. Jackson, Medford, chairman of the Oregon Highway Commission, said Thursday he hopes the Legislature doesn't authorize any more highway bonds, because the interest payments eat into regular highway funds.

The 1963-65 budget approved by the commission Thursday includes $17.8 million for bond retirement, the third largest item in the overall budget.

Jackson said Oregon at present has sufficient matching money for federal aid projects "but this situation could become critical if more bonds are authorized by the legislature."

The 1961 legislature, against the Highway Department's wishes, authorized $8 million in highway bonds.

"This is one of the most important measures we have had on the ballot for years," Boivin said. "It's not an Eastern or a Western Oregon measure — it's a measure that gives fair representation to all of Oregon."

"Measure Nine is the most important issue or office to be voted on in Oregon in years because, if passed, it will adversely affect the character of government for generations to come," Katz said. "It would repudiate the cherished principle of one man, one vote. It would be a step backward."

Katz said Oregon now "is in first place, having the fairest representation of any state in the nation."

Slogan Misleading

Boivin replied, "The slogan, 'one man, one vote' is misleading. To carry this out, we would have to elect the entire legislature at large."

At Klamath Falls, GOP Congressional nominee Robert Chandler challenged his second district opponent, Rep. Al Ullman, to "tell us what he plans to do about the current condition of the lumber industry."

"As near as anyone can tell, he wants to wait and see, just as he did on the Cuban problem until a couple of weeks ago," Chandler said.

Chandler said he challenged Ullman "to point out one single instance where he has tried to do anything about the two biggest problems of the industry — high shipping costs and stumpage costs on the one hand, and low priced Canadian lumber on the other."

At Astoria, Sen. Wayne Morse (D-Ore.) said he was working toward some federal use for the abandoned Naval station at Tongue Point. He said possible uses were a Peace Corps base or a fishery research center.
