

Clarinetist, Children On Program for Concert

Ashland — Gerald Jensen, freshman clarinetist from Klamath Falls, and a group of children from Briscoe school, Ashland, will be the featured performers in the fall concert of the Southern Oregon Little Symphony orchestra, which will be presented at 3 p.m. Sunday, November 4, in Churchill auditorium.

Speakers To Meet

Medford Toastmistress club will be hostess to Council No. 4 of the Northwest Region of International Toastmistress on Sunday, November 4. Council No. 4 is made up of clubs from Klamath Falls, Grants Pass, Crescent City and Medford.

The business meeting, as well as the luncheon and program, will be in the Regue room, Medford hotel. Registration begins at 9:45 a.m., followed by the business meeting. The assembly will adjourn shortly before 11 a.m. to permit attendance at church.

Grandmother Clubs Convention Reports Given at Meeting

Central Point — Reports on the seven-day convention of the National Federation of Grandmother Clubs of America, held recently in Portland at the Sheraton-Portland hotel, were given at a meeting of the Crater chapter of the club which recently convened in the home of Mrs. Homer Jeffries. The reports were given by Mrs. W. J. Gebhard, Mrs. May Korner and Mrs. Royal Greenman.

Mrs. Richard Larson presided. Two delegates, Mrs. Charles Jantzer and Mrs. Alma Malery, will report at the next meeting to be held November 19 in the home of Mrs. Roy Kelly.

Mrs. Carl Hoover and Mrs. George Johnson were co-hostesses with Mrs. Jeffries. Committees appointed at the meeting were Mrs. Millie Johnson, program; Mrs. Gebhard, publicity; Mrs. Jantzer, ways and means; Mrs. Kelly, hostesses; Mrs. O. T. Wilson, year book; Mrs. Hazel Pittman, scrap book; Mrs. M. J. Stark, sunshine; Mrs. Arthur Foote, chaplain.

Jensen will play two movements of Mozart's "Clarinet Concerto in A Major" and the boys and girls from Briscoe school will play the toy instruments in Haydn's "Toy Symphony."

"Toy Symphony" was written as a musical joke or novelty by the composer sometime around 1790. There are parts for the strings of the orchestra and, in addition, there are parts for toy trumpets, drums, cuckoo, bird whistle, rattle, and other toy instruments.

In addition to the two featured works the orchestra will present performances of "Entrance and March of Peers" from Sir Arthur Sullivan's opera "Iolanthe," "Prelude and Fugue in D Minor" by Handel, "El Relicario" by Padilla, and "Die Fledermaus Overture" by Johann Strauss.

There will be no admission charge although an offering will be accepted for the benefit of the music scholarship fund. Coffee will be served at intermission by Alpha Sigma chapter of Beta Sigma Phi. The public is invited to attend.

The speaker returned earlier this fall from a lengthy tour and observation trip to important Southwest nations and to Africa. He is considered especially well-informed and has talked at Cleveland Hall nine times, for the Tucson Forum seven times and will return to speak again this year at San Francisco Town hall.

The Twirlers announce that the first Saturday dance of November will be canceled due to the fact that the club caller, Arthur Shoemaker, will serve as a guest caller at Myrtle Point that night. The group suggests that members able to do so travel to Myrtle Point for the dance there.

The Twirlers' fall square dance class registration began Monday, October 29, and will remain open November 5 and 12. Classes will be conducted on Mondays at 8 p.m. in the Wilson school gymnasium in Medford. Now that the fruit season is over, larger class turnouts are expected according to George Ray, club president.

Mrs. Ray reported that the crowds drawn by the Moonlight Street Dance last Friday night seemed interested in both the skill and fun involved in square dancing.

Japanese Home Described By Student Living Abroad

A description of the Japanese home in which he is living, and of a theatrical performance are contained in a letter from Stephen Eichelberger, Medford student spending several months in Japan as an exchange student. Young Eichelberger, Lewis and Clark college freshman, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Sharon Eichelberger, 3367 Forest avenue.

The student wrote: The Hirono's house is a mixture of east and west. Instead of being of wood and paper, it is made of concrete and sliding glass doors with shoji (paper doors) inside the glass doors and inside the house dividing the rooms.

There are two rooms with furniture and other western conveniences, and the other eight or 10 are eastern. My own room is typically eastern. On the floor are tatami (straw mats); one wall is all shoji; no furniture except for a transplanted chair that I don't use and a low, floor-level desk; sliding door closets; a futon, (Japanese bed that is put on the floor) which is put out at night by the maid; and one picture, a calligraph (a painting composed of Japanese letters).

This morning, my okasan (Japanese mom) and I left for Takarazuka to meet the rest of the experimenters and go to the theater.

See Plays You see, our Freshman group is spread out in six cities in the same area. The plays we saw were put on by an all-girl troupe. The two musical comedies were big-time Broadway stuff and I began to formulate some ideas for writing a paper on this aspect of Japanese theater. Mr. Okuyama, a secretary to the local government, is getting me backstage for another performance.

After the theater, we went to Takarazuka hotel for a reception and dinner. Every government official and reporter for 20 miles around must have been there. Anyway, we ate dinner, listened to speeches and music and left quite happy.

Japanese girls like tall Americans. Whenever I have gone, there have been girlish giggles. So, on the train home from Takarazuka, I was seated with Okasan across from two 12-year-old girls and the usual staring at the Gaijin (foreigner) commenced. I had a slight case of heartburn and there was an awful long ride to go, so I had to amuse myself. One stared at me. I winked. She giggled and whispered to the other. The other looked again. I winked again. Both giggled. And so on.

Disorderly Our end of the train car was getting pretty disorderly, when two girls of about 20 got on at a stop. One sat down beside me, but there was no room for the other. I stood up and gave her my seat. Let me explain: All semblance of courtesy is lost on Japanese trains and the usual rule is survival of the pushiest. What I had done was seen only in commuter's wildest dreams.

Needless to say, the car was one big giggle all the way to Ashiya. My okasan was pleased when I told her about American good manners, requiring such acts, winking not included.

When we reached home, my okasan, (Japanese father) and his two youngest sons and I watched Sonny Liston win the world championship on a television replay of the fight. Okasan likes sports, in fact he owns a race horse, his sons play a variety of sports, and he is the avid fan that my American father is.

In clipper ship days, American seamen ate fresh cranberries to prevent scurvy. British seamen used limes for the same purpose.

Mrs. George V. Hartness, Portland, will be in Medford Saturday, November 3, for a meeting of the Southern Oregon district of the American Home Economics association at Rogue Valley Country club. Mrs. Hartness, associate professor in education and psychology, Lewis and Clark college, Portland, is also working towards her doctorate in family life at Oregon State university. The session here is sponsored by the Rogue Valley Home Economists in Homemaking.

Bridge Session Slated Tonight

Master point play will be conducted by Camp White Veterans Bridge club this evening. It has been announced.

At the October 26 regular session Mrs. Fred Rehling and Paul A. Hutton won first place with 47 points. Mr. and Mrs. C. M. Crews took second with 40 1/2 points, and third place was tied by Mrs. Dickey and Mrs. Jenkins of Ashland, and Mr. and Mrs. Berg Marten.

Montague Women Hostess for Club

Montague — Mrs. Gerald Bonneau recently entertained her pinocle club at her home in Montague. Halloween decorations were used in the rooms and on the tables.

Prizes were won by Mrs. Marion Johnson, high; Mrs. Dean Egeline, second; Mrs. Raymond Callahan, low; Mrs. Virgil Hagedorn, pinocle.

YOU KNOW WHERE CARL FISHER STANDS!

ON THE LUMBER INDUSTRY...

CARL FISHER SAYS:

"Northwest congressional delegations (Idaho, Washington, Oregon and northern California) should form a 'lumber bloc' and meet in Washington, D.C., on a regular basis to solve legislative problems of the lumber industry as they arise. These delegations must set aside their political differences — forget they are Democrats and Republicans — and concentrate on finding solutions to the problems of the lumber industry."
