

Distribution of Trees By Hoovers Reaches 70,000

By DOTIE HARBISON
Mail Tribune Correspondent
Eagle Point - Some 8,650 small trees were given to school youngsters last week by Mr. and Mrs. Charles C. Hoover to bring their total to about 35,850 trees given away this year.

When the Hoovers give the remainder of what is presently in their yard, they will have totaled about 70,000 trees.

Mr. and Mrs. Hoover started out with the Primary school at Eagle Point Tuesday morning and gave each youngster in the First through Fourth grade a potted Colorado Blue spruce. During the afternoon they distributed White and Norway spruce and juniper trees to all youngsters in the Fifth, Sixth and Seventh grades at the elementary school in Eagle Point.

Since Eagle Point had never had a queen representative of the tree program, Hoover selected a queen complete with her court to serve as Miss Colorado Blue Spruce at Eagle Point. Hoover selected Miss Beth Castor, as the first red haired queen.

As princesses he selected Gretchen Ousterhout, Karen Flury, Debby Grissom, and Dolores Beebe. Ky Hopewell, Alan Ousterhout, Greg Walch and Dan Osterman were selected as dukes.

Blend Colors In Community
Hoover showed the youngsters a large colored picture to demonstrate how he hopes to blend the colors throughout the community by giving the older youngsters white and Norway spruce and juniper trees.

He told the youngsters that this project could never have been possible without the help and cooperation of the Eagle Point schools. Many children aided in the wrapping of the trees that were distributed throughout the valley. They also helped in various stages of the experimental program from the start and commented, "You are just as enthusiastic over the project today as the first day I came."

"We feel sure, and have every reason to believe that the tree program will be a thorough success in southern Oregon."

He went on to add, "Both Mrs. Hoover and myself are very pleased with the results over the past four years. We have worked with and made various experiments and improvements in our tree program."

Mr. and Mrs. Hoover started their project under the sponsorship of the Eagle Point Grange, but are now giving trees to all organizations or groups working with trees for public service projects only. They are working with churches, garden clubs, schools, and kindergartens in Klamath, Jackson, Josephine, and Douglas counties. They plan to travel with the tree project until next spring.

Wednesday, Mr. and Mrs. Hoover distributed 350 trees at Shady Cove and 300 trees at Elk Trail to children, teachers, and employees of the schools.

Thursday morning they left for Klamath Falls where they distributed 7,000 more trees to add to the 6,200 trees already given to the Klamath Falls city and county school children and teachers earlier this year.

Nov. 4 the couple gave a Colorado Blue spruce to everyone who bought a ticket to the Harvest Festival being sponsored by the Rogue River Grange. They will repeat this offer for the Central Point Grange next Saturday at their annual dinner.

Hoover pointed out how well the trees look that the Central Point Garden club planted and are caring for at Central Point school grounds.

Distributed Trees in Kansas
Last month Mr. and Mrs. Hoover flew to Kansas and gave 21,000 trees to residents of Mrs. Hoover's home county as a token of her memories and a gift of friendship. Mr. and Mrs. Hoover each made separate deliveries to complete their distribution before having to return home.

People in Kansas were "overwhelmed" with the tree project and told the Hoovers that "while the 21,000 trees are growing and gaining in stature they will also stand as a testament of the project. Your gift of greenery and its motive will become more evident with their growth and significance to the community in years to come."
