

Federation Officers Hold Institute in Grants Pass

Grants Pass — Fifty members and guests of First district, Oregon Federation of Women's Clubs, attended an institute held November 1, at the First Christian church in Grants Pass. They heard the state president, Mrs. Melford M. Nelson, Monmouth, outline the work of the federation departments.

Mrs. Nelson was accompanied by other state officers. The group has visited all of the eight districts to present the program of this administration to the clubs. Mrs. John S. Tyler, Jr., Salem, first vice-president and dean of departments, was moderator for the institute.

Mrs. Nelson reported on her attendance at the General Federation board meeting held in September in Washington, D.C. and New York. In her talk, "Respite from Responsibility," Mrs. Nelson gave highlights of the trip which she referred to as "frothing on the cake" in describing the entertainment planned for the delegation which included a White House tour, a visit to the Stock Exchange, one entire day at the United Nations headquarters, a concert by Rise Stevens and the show "The Sound of Music."

In keeping with the theme of General Federation of Women's Clubs, "To Strengthen the Arm of Liberty" the departmental work was coordinated by discussion groups conducted by the state officers.

Events Set By Dancers; Party Held

Buckles and Bows Square Dance club announces beginner's square dance lessons to start Monday, November 12. Lessons will be held in Talent at a new hall, Country Square, built especially for square dancing. The hall is located one mile west of Talent junction on Colver road.

The first two lessons will be free, with no obligations to continue, it is stated. Instructors will be Floyd Workman and Mrs. Workman. Lessons will be in at 8 and continue until 10 p.m.

It is pointed out that square dancing is an inexpensive type of family recreation and an excellent way of becoming acquainted in the valley. The classes will be for all ages from the teens.

If there is enough response from teenagers, a night will be set aside for their instruction. Those wishing further information may call the Workmans at 535-1150.

Buckles and Bows will hold a dance Saturday, November 10, at Country Squares. Mr. Workman will call, beginning at 8:30 p.m. and refreshments will be put out.

Nite Owl Dance
Dancers from all parts of Oregon and northern California attended the fifth annual Nite Owl dance held at the new hall October 27. As many as 30 squares danced at one time, and it is reported that probably a total of 40 squares of dancers were on hand for the annual party.

Star Promenaders Square Dance club and Buckles and Bows hosted a breakfast beginning about 2:30 a.m. and 175 were served. Dancing then continued until 5 a.m.

Among the guest callers were Ed Slot, Ralph Jones and Dick Howe, all of California; Lyle Steers, Ralph De Jarnett, Mac Bacon, Stan Ferris, Laura Lee Stalkler, Karlie Hutchins and Alice Johnson, all Oregon callers.

About 100 dancers won the little black badge with yellow moon and black owl which goes to those who "last out" the night-long party.

Plans have already been made for the 1963 dance. It will be held October 26 and in view of the large turnout this year, probably in a larger hall.

The evening was marred by the collapse and death of Fred Foust, known throughout the area for his devotion to square dancing. At the suggestion of Mrs. Foust, the program continued.

Kindergarten Will Benefit From Carnival

Tiller — Drew Parent Teacher association meeting October 30. Mrs. Robert Clausen reported that $170 was derived from the annual association carnival held October 29. The amount is to be given to the kindergarten, it was reported.

Winners of the costume prizes were Johnny Wright, Ann La Fontaine, Patty Hunter, Ellen Johnson, and John Woolsey. Judges were Avery Greenman, Hillard Lillgren, and Mrs. Ira Poole.

A committee was selected to revise and bring up to date association by-laws. They are Mrs. Gershon Roy, Mrs. Richard Williams, and Mrs. Ralph Martin.

Volunteers for the annual Tiller Variety show were asked to get in touch with Mr. Greenman in the very near future, for rehearsals will start immediately after the Christmas holidays.

Mrs. John Wilson reported a school open house will be held Wednesday, November 14, in conjunction with Lights On for education. Coffee and pie will be sold by the association.

Skating will begin in the school gymnasium Saturday, November 3 with Argyle Matthews and Mrs. Clifton Hughes in charge.

Charles Porter, member of the school board, explained Measure 10 which has to do with repealing the School District Reorganization law.

Child Guidance Is PTA Topic

Eagle Point — Thomas L. Goff was guest speaker at the October meeting of Eagle Point Parent-Teacher Association at the Eagle Point grade school.

His subject was "Child Guidance and Family Counseling." A panel discussion and questions from the audience completed the program. The panel consisted of Mrs. Roberta Hill as a parent and teacher and Mrs. Darrell Stanley as a parent. Mrs. Keith Krambeal was moderator.

E. Theodore Lindberg, director of Rogue gallery, 227 West Main street, is shown here with a casein painting, "Hunting Cat" which is part of the current gallery exhibit. The exhibit is made up of the work of Richard and Beverly Hackett, a husband and wife team of artists from Nevada City, Calif., and the picture here was done by Mrs. Hackett. It has been purchased by Dr. and Mrs. Roland M. Mayer of Medford.

There's duck and then there's duck. Domestic ducks aren't cooked in the same fashion as the wild kind. Potpourri's experience in cooking ducks is limited (we've cooked lots of pheasant, chicken, turkey, etc.) so the directions which accompanied a recent recipe in the women's section sounded all right. However, a friend who has cooked many wild fowls bagged by her husband, decided that it would be a tragedy if some young and inexperienced wife ruined the first batch of ducks brought proudly home by hubby if she cooked them in the fashion described in the recipe. The recipe was fine for domestic ducks, she pointed out, which are apt to be quite fat, but not for the wild kind which have no fat.

After an interesting conversation about the whole matter, we decided it would be a friendly act if she wrote something about proper cooking of fowl, which she did. Here are her instructions:

Since there are many young housewives as well as newcomers to our valley who are unfamiliar with the preparation of game birds, I offer these suggestions gleaned from many years of experience and rules of reliable cook books.

First, wild ducks, pheasant and quail are always dry pickled and then baked (roasted) or broiled. Never skin a game bird, or fry it. The skin holds in the juice and frying ruins the flavor.

The largest of the ducks, mallards and canvasback, may be plucked and dipped in hot paraffin which when cold will peel off bringing the down with it. Wipe the duck dry inside and out, stuff with celery, onion, chopped apple. Do not salt the skin. Rub with butter and a squeeze of lemon juice, or strip with bacon.

For the large ducks, roast 30, 40 or 50 minutes in a pre-heated oven at 500 degrees, according to taste. At 30 minutes the duck will be very rare; well done at 50 minutes.

Teal ducks are small and are done at 15, to 20 minutes at 450 degrees, or they may be split and broiled.

Pheasants are very dry and may be stuffed with onion, apple, celery, striped with bacon and roasted at 450 degrees for 30 to 40 minutes, according to size. Place a cup of water in the bottom of the broiler to keep the bird moist. A bread sauce such as those found in any cook book is served with pheasant. Never pierce the skin of a duck or pheasant until carving.

Quail are roasted whole, unstuffed, for 20 minutes at 450 degrees or split and broiled for 15 minutes and served on toast.

My favorite recipe:
Heat an eighth of an inch of bacon fat in a dutch oven or heavy skillet. Braise the quail on all sides until brown. Pour over four to six quail, two cups of cream or half and half. Cover tightly and simmer gently for one hour.

Remove the quail to rounds of hot toast and pour over the juice. Add a squeeze of lemon juice. This is gourmet eating.

Pappy is apt to be more original about cooking than his frau, so it was the man of the house who decided to make some dill vinegar. He filled a gallon jug with dill seeds—he just picked the ripe seed heads and stuffed a quantity into the jar, and then filled it with plain vinegar.

Sunday we tried it in a salad made out of iceberg and romaine lettuce, some celery leaves and a bit of green pepper. It was delicious. O.S.

Art Gallery Will Hold Show, Sale

E. Theodore Lindberg, director of the Rogue Gallery, 227 West Main street, is out of the city on one of several trips which he is making to gather prints and crafts for the forthcoming Rogue Gallery Invitational Prints and Crafts exhibition and sale scheduled for November 27 through December 24 at the gallery.

The director will meet with artists in Eugene, Portland, Seattle and San Francisco.

Four large original lithographed prints have arrived at the gallery for the sale and exhibit. The work was done by June Wayne of the Los Angeles Tamarind Workshop and is in modern designs though done in the age-old art of inscription on stone.

A committee from the board of directors of the Rogue Valley Art association met last Thursday evening at the home of Eugene Bennett in Jacksonville to complete a series of study they have been making to establish concretely a philosophy and policy of direction for the association.

This has been necessitated because of the forthcoming membership drive, the director pointed out. Already established is the fact that the purpose primarily is education and this is to be elaborated on at a later date, he explained.

Play Cast Includes Dog

A member of the cast for "Bernardine," to be presented November 15, 16 and 17 at Medford High school by the Thespians troupe will be a white fox terrier. The dog, belonging to Dave Smith, plays the role of an animal which is supposed to be a substitute for a glamorous woman in "Wormy" Welda's life. Dave Smith plays "Wormy."

The play is in the "polishing stage" of rehearsals under the direction of Mrs. Lenore Zapell.

As is often the case in staging a play, the properties crew has had a number of difficult assignments. In one hotel scene, a bit of action takes place "behind the potted palm." After some trouble, the props crew found a leafy palm which seems to be satisfactory.

Heather Rode, in charge of sound, has collected numerous records which will be put on tape to provide the musical accompaniment for the mood and action of the play.

Season Thespians tickets are still available and may be purchased from any member of the troupe or by contacting the troupe sponsor, Mrs. Zapell at the high school. Single tickets may be purchased for "Bernardine" from any member of the cast, crew, or business staff. Tickets will also be available at the box office on production nights.

'Mikado' To Be Given

"The Mikado," one of the most popular light operas ever produced in this country, will be presented later this month by the Philharmonic Society of Southern Oregon.

The Gilbert and Sullivan opera is set for November 20-21 at Medford High school auditorium, with Richard D. Werner directing.

Director Werner states that rehearsals are going well and that he is extremely pleased with the stage settings and costumes. New, imaginative scenery is being designed and made by Mrs. Dean Smith and Verne Goodrich. The costumes are being made from designs supplied by Mrs. Richard Doi. Since Mrs. Doi is both a Japanese and an artist, it is anticipated that the costumes will be unusually beautiful as well as completely authentic.
