Winners, Losers Look at Reasons Behind Vote Results

Washington—(UPI)—Winners and losers in Tuesday's Senate and governorship races tagged everything from Cuba to big campaign spending as the reasons for the outcome.

One defeated candidate, former Philadelphia Mayor Richardson Dilworth, simply blamed his own mistakes for failing to win Pennsylvania's governorship. The Republican who won, Rep. William W. Scranton, agreed that Dilworth's "explosive" performance on a television debate was a factor in the outcome.

But as in most off-year elections, when a presidential contest is not shaping national results, plain hard work and good party organization were the victory ingredients most often cited in post-mortem statements by contestants.

Former Vice President Richard M. Nixon, who lost in his bid for California's governorship, was "hurt materially" when the Cuban crisis turned attention away from the campaign, reported Nixon Press Secretary Herbert G. Klein. Klein also said Gov. Edmund G. (Pat) Brown's organization "outspent" the GOP.

Brown countered that the Cuban situation had nothing to do with his victory—that he won because he "discussed state issues" and his four-year record on state improvements. He also said "smear" pamphlets, one of which was disowned by Nixon, backfired on the former vice president.

Hard work in normally Republican rural areas of Indiana was credited by Democrat Birch Bayh for his upset victory over Sen. Homer E. Capehart, veteran Republican. Capehart also said Republicans "failed to develop adequate margins in the old-time rural Republican counties," but added that "free spending" by Democrats was the major factor. He did not think that the Cuban crisis cost him any votes.

Capehart had advocated strong action against Cuba before President Kennedy imposed an anti-missile blockade of Castro's island.

Pennsylvania's Democrat Sen. Joseph S. Clark, who won reelection while Dilworth was losing to Scranton, cited "support of President Kennedy" among his strong points. Clark said national issues, records of the candidate and conduct of the campaign also played a part.

In Texas, where Republicans also tried to enlarge a southern two-party base, defeated Republican gubernamen-

Brown Disagrees With Statements Made By Nixon

Sacramento—(UPI)—Gov. Edmund G. Brown was back behind his desk in the Capitol today, assured of the same seat for the next four years, and trying to get enough paperwork done to take off on a post-campaign vacation this week end.

The governor, on returning to Sacramento Wednesday night, expressed sharp disagreement with his defeated Republican opponent, Richard M. Nixon, on statements made by the former vice president Wednesday. Brown also said the public had not seen the last of Nixon.

"I got no satisfaction from retiring Mr. Nixon," Brown said. "He is still a public figure."

"I think we'll hear more from him in the political arena, but where I can't tell you."

The governor watched a rerun on television of Nixon's concession speech and became irate when Nixon said he had not let personal considerations enter into the race.

"I think he was awfully rough on me," Brown said. "He almost called me a Communist several times; he called me an ignoramus; he said he wouldn't talk about my family, but he did. I certainly think personal considerations did enter into the race and it was one of the roughest campaigns of my life."

Papers Said Fair
Brown also disagreed with Nixon's contention that press coverage of the campaign had been unfair.

He said he found that "the papers were fairer this year than any year since I have been in politics." He specifically cited the San Francisco Chronicle, the Los Angeles Times, and the McClatchy and Hearst papers.

"Mr. Nixon took the defeat a little bit hard," he told newsmen. "I think in retrospect he'll feel a little differently."

Brown said that after clearing up the backlog of work, he and his wife, Bernice, will leave Friday or Saturday for a vacation in Palm Springs.

General Dynamics Named in Lawsuit

Washington—(UPI)—The Justice Department today filed an antitrust suit against General Dynamics Corp., the nation's largest defense contractor, asking that the company divest itself of its carbon dioxide division.

The suit, filed in U.S. District Court in New York, charged that General Dynamics used its purchasing power as a lever to require firms which sell to it to buy from it in violation of the Sherman Antitrust Act.

Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy, who announced the suit, said the government asked the court to require General Dynamics to cease forcing its suppliers to buy carbon dioxide and other industrial gases from it. The suit also said the corporation's acquisition of the Liquid Carbonic Corporation in 1957 tended to lessen competition and to create a monopoly in violation of the Clayton Antitrust Act.

Walker To Have Psychiatric Test

Dallas, Tex.—(UPI)—Former Maj. Gen. Edwin A. Walker, 52, will enter a hospital later today for a court-ordered psychiatric examination to determine whether he is capable of understanding the rebellion, insurrection and seditious conspiracy charges against him.

Charles W. Webster, attorney for psychiatrist Dr. R. L. Stubblefield, said Walker would be admitted to Parkland hospital in Dallas as an in-patient.

Walker, his mother from Center Point, Tex., and his attorneys met with Webster and Stubblefield Wednesday and agreed to begin the long-delayed examination.

The World War II and Korean War hero, who resigned his Army commission to campaign for what he called a "pro-blue" brand of Americanism, was arrested by federal officers at Oxford, Miss., during the anti-integration riots on the campus. He was sent to the federal prison at Springfield, Mo., for mental examination, a move which caused charges that his civil liberties had been violated.

Cabaret Operator Gets Prison Term

Pantley pleaded guilty to two counts of a 14-count tax indictment in connection with failure to pay back cabaret taxes.

Federal Judge Gus J. Solomon dismissed the other 12 counts. Pantley now lives in Bellevue, Wash.
