Movement Among Blue Chips Fractional; Chemicals Up

New York—(UPI)—Buyers and sellers fought each other to a standstill today as the stock market churned nervously around its summer high.

Two Coos Jail Escapes Caught

St. Helens—(UPI)—Two Coos county jail escapees were cornered and captured here late Monday, but a third dashed away and eluded police.

Officers pressed a search for Orville Laverne Stewart, 29, of Woodland, Wash.

Caught were Charles A. Logan, 27, and Paul R. Muns, 26, of North Bend. Muns's wife also was booked on a charge of aiding the men.

The capture of Logan and Muns came after the trio was spotted at Scappoose, and shortly afterwards, entering St. Helens. Police gave chase, pursuing the men into an alley. Logan was caught under a car. Muns and Stewart made a break for it, splitting apart. Soon afterwards Muns was caught. Stewart disappeared.

The men fled the jail at Coquille Sunday after overpowering a matron, locking her in the jail, taking her keys, and ripping a telephone from the wall.

Movements among the blue chips were mostly fractional but chemicals showed selective strength with Kodak up a point and Du Pont ahead 2 at its high. Chrysler and United Aircraft were down nearly 1 apiece.

Steels, most autos and the international oils were trendless along with utilities, foods, stores, drugs, finance shares, and tobaccos. Among the met-

Network Offers Equal Time To Present Reply

New York—(UPI)—Richard M. Nixon remained silent today amid the storm of protest caused when Alger Hiss was among those selected to comment on the former vice president's political career.

The American Broadcasting Co. said Nixon could have equal time, if he asks for it, to reply to statements made by Hiss and others on the program "The Political Obituary of Richard Nixon," beamed to a nation-wide television audience Sunday night.

Messages of Protest

ABC and many of its affiliates were deluged with messages of protest both before and after the telecast. Hiss, convicted of perjury 12 years ago after a relentless congressional investigation headed by Nixon, said on the program he felt Nixon's part in the probe was politically motivated.

"We gave both sides a fair presentation on this show," an ABC spokesman said here.

Herbert G. Klein, Nixon's former press secretary, replied from Los Angeles that the program reached "a new low in undistinguished reporting." He said the show "set out to kick Richard Nixon and accomplished its goal by substituting innuendo for fact."

Investigation Urged

Sen. Thomas J. Dodd (D-Conn.) urged the Federal Communications Commission to investigate the network "because of my own feeling of personal disgust, and because of the countless objections made to me by Connecticut citizens."

Hiss' conviction in 1950 came after he denied any connection with a 1938 Soviet spy ring. Nixon, then a congressman from California, spent two years as chief investigator of Hiss' activities.

Klein said Nixon would not comment on the program, although James C. Hagerty, ABC vice president in charge of news, said the recently defeated California gubernatorial candidate could have equal time "any time, of course."

Atrocious Gesture

Robert H. Finch, Nixon's 1960 presidential campaign manager, said in Los Angeles the equal time offer was an "atrocious, pathetic gesture." He said it "has the effect of placing Alger Hiss, a convicted perjurer who appeared on this show, on the same footing as a former vice president of the United States."

Howard K. Smith, who served as moderator for the program, said he thought it was "a little over-balanced in favor of Nixon."

Television stations in Columbus and Cincinnati, Ohio, and New Haven, Conn., and Philadelphia did not carry the show.

State Republican Chairman Attacks Hiss Appearance

Salem—(UPI)—Oregon Republican Chairman Phillip J. Roth, Portland, today called last week's ABC-TV show "Political Obituary of Richard Nixon" a "brutal hatchet job" on the former vice president.

Roth objected strongly to the appearance of Alger Hiss, ex-State department official, on the program, moderated by Howard K. Smith.

"Using Alger Hiss to give an opinion on Nixon's political tactics would be like using Lucky Luciano after Tom Dewey's defeat whether Dewey's prosecution of him and other racketeers was politically motivated," Roth said.

Roth, an attorney, said that "in using a convicted perjurer like Alger Hiss, a man whose influence and advice undermined the position of the Western world at the Yalta and Potsdam conferences, is to seek to do a brutal hatchet job on Nixon, instead of an objective analysis of his entire political career."

Alger Hiss's Remarks About Richard Nixon Via Television Program Result in Storm of Protests

New York—(UPI)—The American Broadcasting Co. received hundreds of protests Sunday night for allowing Alger Hiss to give his views on Richard M. Nixon to a nationwide television audience.

Hiss, former State Department official convicted of perjury in 1950 after a relentless congressional investigation headed by Nixon, appeared on a half-hour filmed show called the "Political Obituary of Richard Nixon."

ABC was deluged with telephone calls and telegrams, most of them against the network for interviewing Hiss on his feelings toward the former vice president.

Hiss said he believed his prosecution by Nixon, then a congressman from California, was politically motivated.

"I think that he was politically carried along," Hiss declared. "Whether the initial motivation was political, I certainly don't think that he was unaware of the political boost, the political soaring up into outer space that the hearings and subsequent trial provided for him."

Friends on Program

Also appearing on the program were Jerry Voorhis, five-term congressman from California defeated by Nixon in 1946; Los Angeles attorney

Murray Chotiner, who managed Nixon's first campaign; and Rep. Gerald Ford (R-Mich.), a longtime friend of Nixon.

The ABC vice president in charge of news, James C. Hagerty, said most of the protests came from California and the New York City area. He handled a number of calls and said he told those objecting: "Won't you please do me the favor of reserving your criticism until after you've seen the program?"

Hagerty said the network at no time considered cancelling the program.

"The American people owe a great deal to Dick Nixon for his dedication to finding out all of the possible facts that the committee could find out about the Alger Hiss case and its ramifications," Ford said after Hiss spoke.

Walter H. Annenberg, president of Triangle Publications, Inc., ordered his organization's two ABC affiliations in New Haven, Conn., and Philadelphia not to carry the program. He said he did not feel a convicted man should "comment about a distinguished American."

Pickets in Los Angeles

About a half dozen pickets paraded Sunday in front of ABC's Los Angeles outlet. A spokesman said "the switchboard has been going rather well, both pro and con. I have no idea how many calls." The show was aired on Hiss' 58th birthday.

Hiss, now a New York salesman, was convicted and jailed on perjury charges in connection with his association with the late Whittaker Chambers, who at one time was a Soviet spy courier. Hiss has said since the charges were first lodged that he is innocent.

He said his "impression of him (Nixon) as an investigator was that he was less interested in developing the facts objectively than in seeking ways of making a preconceived plan appear plausible." Hiss said he had neither feelings of "hostility" nor "any feelings of great personal warmth or affection" toward Nixon today.

Chotiner said Nixon, who lost his bid for the California governorship last week to
