

1,105 Students Enrolled in OSU's Graduate School

Corvallis - A record 1,105 students are enrolled in the Graduate School at Oregon State University this fall, 2½ times more than 10 years ago and 4 times more than 15 years ago.

One out of every 10 students attending OSU this fall is working for a master's or doctor's degree, according to a Graduate School report prepared by Dean Henry P. Hansen. The great growth in graduate study is one of the significant advances made at OSU in the past decade, university leaders emphasize.

Almost half of the graduate students this year, 547, are majoring in school of science fields, and almost half of them are working for doctor's degrees.

Chemistry has the most master's and doctor's degree candidates enrolled, 128. Mathematics, which has made the most spectacular gains in Graduate School enrollment, is next with 70. Other science departments with sizeable numbers of graduate students are physics, microbiology, general science, zoology, botany and plant pathology, oceanography, entomology and meteorology.

School of Agriculture

The school of agriculture has 164 graduate students; engineering, 104; education, 85; home economics, 41; forestry, 32; and pharmacy, 10.

Departments in these schools with largest advanced student enrollments include electrical engineering, food and dairy service, agricultural economics, general education, mechanical engineering, civil engineering, forest management, clothing and textiles, farm crops, animal science, chemical engineering, fish and game management, soils, and family life.

The 1,105 Graduate School total includes 930 men and 175 women; 408 doctor's degree candidates and 697 master's degree candidates.

Graduate work at the master's level is given in nearly 100 different fields of study at Oregon State, Hansen noted. The doctor of philosophy degree is available in 70 fields of study in 30 different departments. The doctor of education degree is offered in guidance and personnel work, general education, and elementary and secondary education.

Homecoming Set At Oregon State

Corvallis - Oregon State University's traditional Homecoming Week End will draw thousands of former students back to the campus Saturday, Nov. 17.

Reunions of the classes of 1947, 1952 and 1957 will be among the highlights of the annual weekend, along with an alumni-student stage revue.

Other events will include campus tours and reports on OSU academic advances and building plans, open house in the various living groups, a Noise Parade, and football game with Colorado State University.

Grant Watkinson of Newport, junior in the school of science, is student Homecoming chairman.

Coebs selected as members of the Homecoming court include Kathryn L. Crawford and Kaaren M. Johanson, Portland; Carolyn S. Proctor, Seattle; Terese A. Rogers, Kailua, Hawaii; and Susan Ann Swenson, Sitka, Alaska.

Performers on the alumni-student stage show will include George Bruns, Los Angeles, assistant music director for Walt Disney Inc., and composer of a dozen song hits including "Davey Crockett"; and Homer Welch, CBS executive, who is the "Friendly Clyde" on a well-known San Francisco morning television show. Both were graduated in 1936.

Americans Grow Beyond Bed Size

New York - (UP) - Americans have grown beyond their bed size - and most of them don't know the fact.

That observation comes from a trade group which said that "since 1900, the average height of both men and women has increased two inches. At the turn of the century, one of every 25 American men reached the six foot mark. Today one of every five men is six feet tall."

The gain in average height for women is similar. Eighteen per cent of the girls now are five feet, seven inches tall, compared to four per cent in 1900.
