

National Business Picture Receives Tinge of Optimism

Personal Income, Factory Orders Show Increase

Washington—(UPI)—Government reports showing gains in personal income and factory orders in October put a tinge of optimism in the business picture today.

The reports diminished the likelihood of an economic recession early in 1963 and enhanced the possibility that the economy would continue to expand. There remained the chance it would merely level off.

Labor Secretary W. Willard Wirtz and President Kennedy's Labor-Management Advisory Committee called for a prompt $10 billion tax cut in 1963. They said it was needed both to give the economy a short-run lift and to put it on the long-run track to faster growth.

Two members of the 21-man committee favored limiting a tax reduction to $4 billion to $5 billion. Several members of the majority felt the $10 billion cut should be spread over two or three years, presumably to minimize a federal budget deficit. A $10 billion tax slash would mean "appreciable deficits," the committee said.

Of three reports from the Commerce Department, one citing a 3 per cent spurt in new orders placed with manufacturers of durable goods gave most encouragement to government economists. The gain, a strong one for one month, also was spread among most major industries.

It raised the possibility that industrial production, which leveled off from July through October, might resume expanding. That probably would mean overtime work for those employed and perhaps some new factory jobs.

Another brightener in the business situation was a sizeable $2.1 billion advance in personal income from September to October. Although partly due to some special, non-recurring factors, it meant extra purchasing power for the Christmas shopping season.

A third report showed housing starts rebounding from a September dip. Although welcome news, it was not considered particularly significant. The decline and the recovery were attributed chiefly to differences in the number of working days in September and October.

Strong in Steel
The widespread advance in factory orders was especially strong in iron and steel. One expert expressed the view that steel users had begun rebuilding depleted inventories, a development for which the industry long had waited.

Autos and electrical and non-electrical machinery also posted unusually good one-month gains. Also up were furniture and ceramic products. A rise in orders for electronics and communications equipment was attributed to Defense Department buying.

Aircraft was the only major industry reporting a dip in orders. It may have been merely a letdown from a good September performance. Fabricated metals orders were unchanged.

Monaghan had 22,104 votes to Groener's 22,047 in the official count certified by County Clerk Robert Schumacher.

'Instant' Rockets In Montana Silos Soon To Be Ready

Cape Canaveral, Fla.—(UPI)—Nuclear-tipped Minuteman "instant ICBM" rockets are on station in the northern United States and will be officially declared war-ready within a few weeks, it was learned today.

The new rockets, each capable of pounding an enemy target with destructive power equivalent to about one million tons of TNT, are concealed in underground launching silos in Montana, informed sources said.

The Minuteman, America's third family of intercontinental ballistic missiles, is expected to become formally "operational" when one of the rockets makes a successful flight from Vandenberg Air Force Base, Calif.

The date of this milestone shot has not been revealed. But one spokesman said "it could come before the end of the year."

The way for that launching was made by the successful 3,500-mile flight of a Minuteman on a "research and development" mission from Cape Canaveral Monday.

Missile experts hoped the success indicated problems which had plagued the rocket.

Logging Truck, Train Collide
A logging truck and freight train collision yesterday resulted in no injuries, but heavy damage to a Southern Pacific locomotive and the logging truck trailer, state police said.

James Linder Frank, 20, of route 4, box 374, Medford, was driving westbound on Glenwood dr. and started to cross the railroad tracks when he saw the train coming. He sped up, but the engine hit the loaded trailer. The truck and trailer are owned by Steve Wilson Lumber company, White City.

Minor damage occurred when a car left the road on Corey dr. and struck a camp trailer parked in the driveway at 2775 Corey dr., state police said. The driver, Clinton Ashvord Kissinger, 61, of route 2, box 197, Medford, said he was momentarily distracted by a dog on the seat beside him.

Glenn Augustus Casey, 74, an employee at the White City Veterans Administration Dispensary, suffered minor abrasions and bruises when the outside rear-view mirror of a passing car struck his shoulder as he was walking along Crater Lake highway.

The car, driven by Charles Clifford McCaslin, 52, Central Point, was passing a logging truck when the accident occurred. Casey was treated at the White City infirmary.

Ike Didn't Want Nixon on GOP Ticket For Second Term, Article Declares

New York—(UPI)—Former President Dwight D. Eisenhower is quoted as telling an aide at the 1956 GOP National Convention that he did not consider his vice president, Richard M. Nixon, as "presidential timber."

Emmett John Hughes, who was Eisenhower's speech writer at the time, reported in the current issue of Look magazine that Eisenhower earlier in the year urged Nixon to leave the national ticket for a cabinet post so he "could get some executive and administrative experience."

Hughes quoted the former president as declaring during the convention at San Francisco: "The fact is, of course, that I've watched Dick a long time, and he just hasn't grown. So I just haven't honestly been able to believe that he is presidential timber."

The Eisenhower-Nixon team was renominated Aug. 22, 1956.

Hughes, in an article entitled "The Eisenhower I Knew," said Eisenhower "candidly acknowledged the concern that lay beneath all his signs of reticence" about including Nixon on the GOP ticket.

According to Hughes, Eisenhower wanted former Minnesota Gov. Harold Stassen as his running mate. Stassen at the time was making a public attempt to drive Nixon off the ticket.

"I told Harold he should feel entirely free, so long as he did not purport to speak in my name, and I meant it," Hughes quoted Eisenhower.

Eisenhower had suffered a heart attack in 1955 and was stricken in 1956 with an attack of ileitis. Hughes quoted the former president as saying after Nixon had decided to run again for the vice presidency: "The thing Dick may have figured was that 1960 didn't matter too much, and in the event of my disablement, he'd take over and at least have the presidency for that long."

Hughes last week announced his resignation as speech writer for New York Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller and as public relations adviser to the Rockefeller family. The Look article represents excerpts from a book by Hughes, "Eisenhower: A Political Memoir," which will be published in February.
