

Applying Orders Probe of Oregon Voter Lists

Many Pamphlets Not Delivered, Survey Indicates

Salem—(UPI)—A probe of voter lists was ordered today by Secretary of State Howell Appling Jr.

Appling announced the probe after revealing that in Benton county nearly one of every five voters pamphlets sent for the Nov. 6 general election did not get delivered.

Benton county had been picked by Appling as a test area to determine the status of voter lists.

Results of the probe are expected to result in recommendations to the coming legislature for law changes.

Appling said the present situation gives an unrealistic high indication of the number of registered voters. He said voter turnout percentage would be much higher if registration accurately reflected the number of persons eligible to vote.

Economics Seen

Appling also indicated economics could result if pamphlets were not mailed to persons ineligible to vote.

The Benton county study is the first of its kind ever held. Benton is one of 11 counties where the voter list is now maintained by the state rather than in the individual courthouses. The program began this year for counties which wanted to participate.

In Benton county, Appling explained, 3,370 of the 18,179 information booklets sent out were not delivered. Twelve were sent to dead persons, and 907 persons now have different addresses within the same communities where they are registered.

May Ask Death Notices

Another 136 moved elsewhere in the same county, 758 moved to another part of Oregon, and 874 left the state.

Appling is expected to ask the legislature to have official death notices forwarded to county clerks so the names of dead persons will be removed.

He will again ask lawmakers for permission to send only one pamphlet to a household where all residents are registered in the same party. This plan was rejected by the 1961 legislature.

Grants Pass Man Hurt In Freeway Accident

Francis Dean Bollinger, 26, of 308 southwest I st., Grants Pass, was reported in fair condition this morning at Josephine County general hospital in Grants Pass after being injured in a one-car accident last night on Interstate 5.

Bollinger is being treated for head and chest injuries suffered when his car went off the highway near Rogue Rivera, state police said.

URGES WAGE LAW

Tokyo—(UPI)—United Auto Workers president Walter Reuther told Japanese Labor Minister Takeo Ohashi today Japan could reply to charges of cheap labor by passing a minimum wage system. Japan has no minimum wage law.

In an hour-long talk with Ohashi, Reuther urged one and called for further U.S.-Japanese exchanges of labor leaders.

Religion Vital Force

Mr. Asehnbrenner recalled that religion was a vital force in the establishment of the Pilgrim settlement in 1620 and was emphasized in the Mayflower Compact. The first Thanksgiving Day observed by the Pilgrims, a day which has since become the only recognized U.S. religious holiday, found the tiny colony with only half of 104 men, women and children. Despite the fact that death and hardships had beset the group, the initial observance was a joyous occasion.

Today, when we must decide if Thanksgiving is to be a relic or force, we must recognize that social changes dictate the expanding of human equality, he said. It is an issue the nation has tried to evade for more than a century, he added.

Mr. Asehnbrenner was introduced by Dr. George Roseberry, minister of the First Methodist church of Medford.

Sides Taken on Order Barring Discrimination

By United Press International

Integration leaders today praised President Kennedy's order barring racial discrimination in federally assisted housing, but strong opposition to it shaped up in the South.

Sen. John Stennis (D-Miss.) called the executive order "an audacious usurpation of power by the executive branch."

"I shall do all within my power to rally the friends of constitutional government in the Congress to secure the rescission of this order," Stennis said.

Lauded by King

On the other hand, the Rev. Martin Luther King Jr., long-time integration leader, said the order "carries the whole nation forward to the realization of the American dream."

"This is the kind of leadership from the White House that the Negro community has waited for so long," the minister, who heads the Southern Christian Leadership Conference, said.

These two views roughly outlined the camps of reaction.

Sen. A. Willis Robertson (D-Va.) attacked the order on legal, economic and political grounds.

Said Unconstitutional

Robertson, chairman of the Senate Banking Committee, said the order was "absolutely unconstitutional," and described its issuance as "political expediency aimed at winning support" of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People.

Robertson warned the order would cut housing construction "by anywhere from 25 to 50 per cent" and bring losses that probably will "run into the billions."

Roy Elkins, executive secretary of the NAACP, said his organization "was gratified that the order has been issued."

Eugene Minister Addresses Local Rotary Club

"No religion has a monopoly on truth. There is too much arrogance, conceit and exclusiveness in all religions."

This view was expressed by the Rev. E. J. Asehnbrenner, Eugene, supervisor of southern Oregon Methodist churches, in a Thanksgiving address here Tuesday before the Medford Rotary club.

Speaking at a luncheon meeting at the Rogue Valley Country Club, Mr. Asehnbrenner said that only vital religions can perpetuate the freedoms we now enjoy.

There is need, he said, to spell out the relationship between religions and government in view of the recent hue and cry over prayers in public schools. To clarify the confusion in people's minds today it is essential that there be thinking at grass roots level. Good government cannot be maintained without a real moral code.

Damages for Injured Football Player Reversed by High Court

Malheur County Judge Reversed In $25,000 Case

Salem—(UPI)—The Oregon Supreme Court today reversed a $25,000 damage award given to a high school football player injured in a football game.

The court reversed Malheur County Circuit Judge Jeff D. Dorroh Jr., who gave the award to Louis Vendrell, a student of Malheur County School District No. 26C.

Attorneys for the boy argued that he was an inexperienced football player and therefore he shouldn't have been sent into the game, where he was hurt when tackled by two other players.

Experience Indicated

The supreme court, with Justice George Rossman writing the decision, said that on the contrary, evidence indicated that the boy was experienced — having played football in junior high, in the same position as the team on which he was hurt.

Rossman said the boy had three years of football experience, had undergone extensive training, practice and play.

Neither did the fact that the boy was tackled hard by two boys on the opposing team establish any negligence on the part of the school district, Rossman said.

The boy's attorneys further charged that he had not been furnished with proper football gear, but the court said evidence showed that all equipment had been regularly inspected. Rossman noted that the boy did not mention to the manager, coaches or any school representative that he found any fault with any of his gear.

Also, the boy had the option of selecting new gear, but he failed to do so, the decision said.

In a prior decision, the high court ruled that a school district is liable for damages if a student is hurt in sports activity—but only those districts which carry insurance. Districts that don't carry insurance aren't liable. That ruling had no relation to the Vendrell case except that it was part of the precedent. Vendrell's school was insured.

Proclamation for Thanksgiving

By United Press International

Following is the text of President Kennedy's Thanksgiving Day proclamation:

Over three centuries ago in Plymouth, on Massachusetts Bay, the Pilgrims established the custom of gathering together each year to express their gratitude to God for the preservation of their community and for the harvests their labors brought forth in the new land. Joining with their neighbors, they shared together and worshipped together in a common giving of thanks. Thanksgiving Day has ever since been part of the fabric which has united Americans with their past, with each other and with the future of all mankind.

It is fitting that we observe this year our own day of thanksgiving. It is fitting that we give our thanks for the safety of our land, for the fertility of our harvests, for the strength of our liberties, for the health of our people.

It is fitting that we give our thanks for the safety of our land, for the fertility of our harvests, for the strength of our liberties, for the health of our people.

Thanksgiving Day, do hereby proclaim Thursday, the twenty-second day of November of this year, as a day of national thanksgiving.

I urge that all observe this day with reverence and with humility.

Let us renew the spirit of the Pilgrims at the first Thanksgiving, lonely in an inscrutable wilderness, facing the dark unknown with a faith borne of their dedication to God and a fortitude drawn from their sense that all men were brothers.

Let us renew that spirit by offering our thanks for uncovenanted mercies, beyond our desert or merit, and by resolving to meet the responsibilities placed upon us.

Let us renew that spirit by sharing the abundance of this day with those less fortunate, in our own land and abroad. Let us renew that spirit by seeking always to establish larger communities of brotherhood.

Let us renew that spirit by preparing our souls for the incertitudes ahead — by being always ready to confront crisis with steadfastness and achievement with grace and modesty.

Let us renew that spirit by concentrating our energy and our hope with men and women everywhere that the world may move more rapidly toward the time when Thanksgiving may be a day of universal celebration.

Let us renew that spirit by expressing our acceptance of the limitations of human striving and by affirming our duty to strive nonetheless, as Providence may direct us, toward a better world for all mankind.

In witness whereof, I have hereunto set my hand and caused the seal of the United States of America to be affixed.

Deputies To Check On House Trailers

Jackson county sheriff's deputies will start checking house trailers for current registration and licenses. Sheriff Paul Bettiol said today.

Trailer owners not having the required registrations and licenses will receive citations. Many house trailers in Jackson county do not meet the requirements specified by state law, Bettiol said. The law requires all house trailers, except those held by dealers, be currently registered with the department of motor vehicles. A license plate also must be displayed at all times on the rear of the trailer. This is required regardless of use, he said.

"For a house trailer to qualify for real property assessment it must be made immobile, wheels and axle removed, foundation enclosed and have fixed pipe, water and sewer connections," Bettiol explained.

After registration becomes due all registration and license fees, plus added penalties, result in a lien on the house trailer. This is collectible by seizure and sale of the house trailer as provided by law, he noted.

Additional information on registration regulations may be obtained by contacting Richard Garrett at the sheriff's office or by calling 773-6211, extension 238.

Americans Making Final Preparations For Thanksgiving

By United Press International

Americans at home and abroad made last-minute preparations today for celebrating the Pilgrim feast of Thanksgiving.

President Kennedy's proclamation marking the holiday urged "that all observe this day with reverence and with humility."

"It is fitting that we give our thanks for the safety of our land, for the fertility of our harvests, for the strength of our liberties, for the health of our people," he said.

Much of the activity will center around dinner tables laden with such traditional fare as turkeys, cranberry sauce, sweet potatoes, mince meat and pumpkin pies.

The Defense Department said military cooks will roast some 112,000 turkeys to give the 2,600,000 servicemen in this country and throughout the world a traditional feast.

Others should have no trouble laying in provisions, as the turkey flock this year numbers up to 92 million birds, with another 113,500 tons in cold storage.

And the cranberry crop is estimated at a record 70,000 tons.

Throughout the nation steps were taken to provide the needy with bountiful meals.

Shut-Ins Remembered

In Massachusetts, some 50,000 shut-ins, including more than 29,000 patients at state mental hospitals and 4,000 prisoners, will share 85,472 pounds of turkey.

Thanks to Mr. and Mrs. Bill Sargent, about 1,000 old people and welfare recipients in Des Moines, Iowa, will have a turkey dinner with all the trimmings.

For the 16th year in a row, the owners of Sargent's Cafe, in Des Moines have saved enough nickels and dimes to give the dinner.

Students at New Trier High school in Evanston, Ill., collected thousands of cans of food to distribute to Chicago-area charities for their wards.

Johnson Completes Monitoring Course

Buford Johnson, deputy director for civil defense and sheriff's safety officer, has completed a course in radiological monitoring for instructors, according to Maj. Gen. Joseph H. Hicks, Jackson county civil defense director.

He took the course at the civil defense training center, Alameda, Calif., recently.

It included basic concepts of nuclear science, characteristics of nuclear explosions, radiation effects upon man, principles of radiation detection, fallout plotting, types, use and maintenance of instruments and radiological monitoring.

Johnson participated in field exercises in locating simulated contaminated areas using radioactive material.

"Radiological monitoring is an indispensable service to all civil defense organizations and their operations," General Hicks said.

"Monitoring services will be required in case of an attack from a period shortly after the attack until the radiological hazard from the fallout diminishes and normal activities can be resumed," he noted.

Johnson will conduct courses in radiological monitoring for personnel of the local civil defense organization and the Jackson county sheriff's reserve.

The civil defense training center in Alameda is one of three in the United States conducting a continuous program in training civil defense personnel. The other two are at Battle Creek, Mich., and Brooklyn, N.Y.
