

Outlook Brighter For Yreka Plant ARA Loan Effort

Yreka — An effort to get a $4,300,000 federal Area Redevelopment Administration loan to establish a plywood plant in the Yreka area appeared to have a chance this week end despite opposition by the Siskiyou County Board of Supervisors.

The supervisors voted 3 to 2 recently not to approve the loan application by Siskiyou Hardwood company.

The loan is sought to aid in financing construction of an $8,600,000 particle board, plywood layup plant and lumber mill operation.

The supervisors voted against the proposal principally in an effort to protect existing lumbermen in the county "from outside competition," it was reported. The plant would create new jobs in the Yreka area, but the supervisors argued that its creation would merely "switch" jobs by putting other county plants out of business.

But numerous Yreka area residents and organizations, including State Sen. Randolph Collier of Yreka, announced support for the loan application. Last Thursday evening the Yreka city council gave its full support to the hard-wood company's application.

The loan application is now being sent on to regional ARA offices in the state and to the California Economic Development commission for study. Eventually the application must go to Washington for a final decision.

Backers of the proposed plant are hopeful that the support voted by the Yreka city council will serve as sufficient local endorsement since the county board of supervisors would not go along with the project.

NOT FOR SALE—Mrs. Ora Freeman, left, and Mrs. P. A. Williams display the $500 Confederate war bond which Mrs. Williams' father, Charles E. Davis, bought to aid the cause of his cousin, Jeff Davis, president of the Confederate states.

Mt. Shasta Family Still Has $500 Confederate Bond

By J. O. McKINNEY
Mail Tribune Correspondent
Mount Shasta — Mr. and Mrs. P. A. Williams, who live at 303 Ski Bowl dr., have a souvenir which cost $500 on Feb. 20, 1863.

Despite the fact that it is worthless on money markets today, they would not exchange it for a far greater sum. It is a Confederate States war bond.

It was about that time when Jeff Davis, Southern president, saw what he thought was a golden opportunity to win the civil war. But money was short. He appealed to his cousin, Charles E. Davis, of Texas to invest in a bond.

Charles E., father of Mrs. Williams, wanted to help Cousin Jeff, and he had $500 that was not working. He bought the bond—sat back to clip coupons and then get back his investment. It didn't work out that way.

The bond carried 12 coupons for $20 each, payable every six months. Number 1 was clipped, but the $20 was never forthcoming. The other 11 are still attached.

The Williams family still sympathize with the lost cause and dislike being on the losing side, and this old bond shows that a personal appeal from a kinsman did not fall on deaf ears. They have no regrets for the investment shrinkage, but glory that Charles E. proved his mettle, and did the right thing by his cousin.

Also, after these years, the old bond, with one coupon missing, could be peddled for a sum far in excess to its face value. It is a collector's item that cannot be reproduced again.

Despite its age, the paper is still unstained by time. Glass covering protects from deterioration. No. It is not for sale.

Airman To Enter Hearing Monday

Mountain Home, Idaho—UPI—It was eight months ago today that a Hill City, Minn., Air Force wife was knifed to death in a bloody scene that has developed more dramatics than a Perry Mason mystery.

Monday the airman who contends he was the victim of "brainwashing" goes into a military article 32 investigation, the counterpart of a civilian preliminary hearing, to answer charges to the deaths of the woman and her child after being freed from eight months of civilian captivity.

It will be exactly a week more before the blond Boise laborer, who says he did the killings, goes into a civilian court to enter a plea to a later murder.

Airman Gerald M. Anderson, 24, San Diego, Calif., was freed by an Idaho third district judge after Theodore Thomas Dickie, 21, voluntarily confessed he killed Mrs. Nancy Joy Johnson, 22, and her baby, two-year-old Daniel.

The woman's husband, Airman Alec Johnson, and a three-year-old daughter, have returned to the Mountain Home strategic air command base in the desert near here. Johnson was transferred from here last summer to a Florida air base.

Deputy Cleared Of Blame In Killing

Portland — UPI — Dist. Atty. George Van Hoomissen has cleared a Multnomah County deputy sheriff in the fatal shooting of a burglary suspect here last Sunday.

The deputy Willard MacGregor, earlier was cleared by Sheriff Francis Lambert. Van Hoomissen sent a letter to Lambert following an investigation by his office and said MacGregor was "justified in his action" and "should be commended."

American Cancer society office in the Leverette building. Wolfe is being held in the Jackson county jail on the charges.

Liz, Burton Dance At London Club

London—47—Elizabeth Taylor and Richard Burton showed up at a new gambling spot here and danced cheek to cheek.

They were accompanied by their friend, British actor Stanley Baker.

Miss Taylor wore a massive fur coat and black woolen stockings, and had her hair drawn up in a chignon at the Friday night appearance.

Miss Taylor and Burton arrived in London by train from Paris Thursday morning. They had spent some time there after coming from Switzerland, where both maintain chalets in different parts of the country.

Burton played Marc Antony to Miss Taylor's Cleopatra in the film of that name that was in production for nearly a year in Rome. They were a familiar nightclub twosome there.

The two are in London in connection with other films. Burton is married to a Welsh former actress.

Miss Taylor is separated from her fourth husband, singer Eddie Fisher. They plan a divorce.

Hornbrook Burglary Under Investigation

Hornbrook—The office of Siskiyou County sheriff Al Cottar reported Friday morning that it had nothing new on the burglary of the Hornbrook school, but were still working on the case.

The theft was discovered Wednesday morning by school principal Charles Price who reported $73 was missing from an office desk. At the time, Price stated he was unable to determine how the thief had entered the school.
