

County Court To Prepare for New Business Year

The Jackson county court yesterday started to clean up odds and ends of business before the new court takes over in January.

Only new court member, however, will be Donald Faber, Central Point Republican who replaces County Commissioner Chester Wendt. Medford Republican who did not seek reelection. Faber has been attending all of the county court sessions in recent weeks and visiting various county facilities such as the juvenile detention home and county farm.

The court, minus Commissioner Edwin Taylor who was attending a public lands meeting in Las Vegas, Nev., voted to notify the bonding company that the Emigrant Lake concessionaire has not made a final settlement with the county.

Closes Concession

John Schmitt, Portland, closed his concession after Labor Day but still owes the county 10 per cent of his gross receipts for July, August and September, or at least a financial statement, Commissioner Wendt said. No new concessionaire has been found yet.

The county court noted it has a number of appointments to make before the end of the month. They include reappointment of Kenneth Pickens, Andrew Stephens and Walter Gardner to the county salary adjustment or review board. Arnold Bohner to the county budget committee, Robert J. Carstensen as county engineer, Elmer Donahoe as veterans service officer, William Manning as constable, William Cochran as purchasing coordinator, Henry Owens, Homer Jeffries and W. H. Arnold to the county dog control board.

Road Crews Work On County Projects

Jackson county road crews are grading and graveling 1 1/2 miles of the East Side rd. in the Applegate area, Robert Carstensen, county engineer said today.

Other projects under way include the widening of Laurelhurst rd. near McLeland. Carstensen said this project includes working in heavy rock.

He noted that all bridges on county roads are open, but crews are still repairing some of the storm damage throughout the county.

'Flea Market' Set In Ashland Friday

Ashland — Friday afternoon and evening, Dec. 14, Ashlanders are invited to attend the "Flea Market" in the Armory, a holiday mart sponsored by Gamma Zeta chapter, Beta Sigma Phi sorority. Proceeds from the sale will go to the YMCA for its repair program.

All clubs in the community have been invited to join in the Christmas project and many groups and individuals are setting up special gift tables, food booths and holiday greenery displays. General chairman of the event is Mrs. Keith Garrett. Doors will be open between 4 and 9 p.m.

HEAVIEST PAYLOAD—C133-B Cargomasters at Travis Air Force Base are making aviation history by delivering the heaviest aircraft payload, the Minuteman missile. The project will involve delivery of 800 missiles, a task that will take an estimated nine months. The aircraft was specially designed for missile delivery but in this particular case there is but 1/16th of an inch tolerance between the plane and the load in its erector-trailer. One such loading job is shown here. (UPI)

Medford Man Fined For Possessing Mash

Fred S. Jones, 4345 South Pacific highway, Medford, was fined $150 and sentenced to 60 days in Jackson county jail after pleading guilty in district court yesterday to charges of illegal possession of mash.

Jones was arrested Dec. 5 at his home where sheriff's deputies found several items which formed a liquor still. Parts of the still were concealed in the house and the premises, deputies said. They found a barrel of mash in a closet, they said.
