

Colts Now In Middle Of Probe

By TIM MORIARTY
New York —UPI— The owner of the Baltimore Colts wound up in the middle of the National Football league's fast-spreading gambling investigation today while Commissioner Pete Rozelle presumably was considering fines or suspensions against the Detroit Lions' organization.

The Miami Herald said in a front page story that sealed testimony in an ex-gambler's unsuccessful lawsuit against Carroll D. Rosenbloom, owner of the Colts, has been turned over to Rozelle by federal court order.

Michael J. McLaney, one-time casino owner in Havana and now an investment broker in Miami, brought the suit against Rosenbloom in 1960 and it was subsequently dismissed.

In his suit, McLaney made certain charges against Rosenbloom pertaining to his betting on football games.

Rozelle summoned teammates Alex Karras and Wayne Walker of the Lions to his office for a top-secret hearing here Thursday. Although the commissioner declined even to admit he met with the players, Karras and Walker confirmed they had been called on the carpet shortly before flying back to Detroit.

Agree On Meeting
"Yes, we did meet with the commissioner," Karras said, in answer to a direct question. Walker nodded affirmatively also.

"I think the investigation is just about over as far as we're concerned," said the 260-pound Walker, a linebacker and placekicker with the Lions.

But is it? A Detroit newspaper said Thursday night that Rozelle was "considering" fining the Lions' management, or head coach George Wilson, for failure to enforce player contract clauses dealing with off-field activities.

This report naturally led to another question. If the Detroit club and/or Wilson is facing a possible fine, what sort of punishment is being prepared for Karras and Walker?

Rozelle wasn't talking aside from repeating his now time-worn statement that "an announcement will be made when the entire investigation of rumors has been completed."

CONTRACTS SIGNED
Chicago —UPI— Two pitchers, southpaw Dick Ellsworth and right hander Paul Roth, returned signed Chicago Cub contracts today to leave only 11 players yet to sign on the 30-man roster.

Eagle Pointers Play Phoenix, IV Cougars

"We think we're ready," declared Dale Bates of the Eagle Point High school basketball team.

His club has tuned for two games in the Class A-2 Rogue league.

The defending league and District 6 champs vie at Phoenix this evening and oppose Illinois Valley at Eagle Point on Saturday night.

Other games tonight are St. Mary's at Lakeview; Rogue River at Illinois Valley (Cave Junction) and Henley at Sacred Heart (Klamath Falls). The Saturday fare includes St. Mary's at Henley and Sacred Heart at Phoenix.

Rogue River steps outside the circuit to play at Class B Prospect.

"We're looking forward to this week end," stated Bates. He said the Eagles feel "it is the most important week end" with both games crucial so far as league standings are concerned. Bates further reported a "real eagerness" on the part of his Eagles for both games.

Interest Heightened
Eagle Point (3-1) is tied for second place in the loop with Lakeview while Illinois Valley (1-2) and Phoenix (1-3) are fifth and sixth in the standings. The IV Cougars and the Phoenix Pirates each suffered two losses on a road trip last week end.

Heightening the interest in the EP games this week was the outcome of games in the holiday Rogue Classic tourney. Eagle Point nipped Phoenix by one point in that rivalry but lost to IV by 14.

The close EP-Phoenix fracas is expected to make for a spirited effort this time on the part of both clubs. And against the Cougars, the Eagles wish to show that they are a better ball club than the 14-point difference.

Results of the past two seasons and this one in action between the Eagles and Phoenix and IV also adds fuel to the fire. EP has topped Phoenix five times in six games, and the Eagles and the Cougars have divided with each winning three.

Rated Teams
The Eagle-Cougar struggle will be one of rated teams. Eagle Point was accorded seventh position and Illinois Valley eighth in one A-2 prep poll this week. In the other poll the positions were reversed.

Phoenix is unranked but will have the incentive of trying to bowl every one of the top 10 teams.

Bates indicated that he may start Richard Short, Charles Pomeroy, Duane Whaley, John Linder and Wilbur Boatwright with Jack Straus and Frank Charley first line reserves.

For Phoenix Coach Eldon Durham is expected to have Jon Granby, Dave Johnson, John Barker, Rick Bolz and Jim Construk. IV tutor E. M. Anderson may open with Charles Versteeg, Roger Martin, Ron Thornhill, Darryl Gellert and Terry McNaught, the Klamath Falls Herald and League scoring compiled by News shows Henley's Kent Gooding the leader with 123. Eagle Point's Pomeroy is next with 81.

Crater, Klamath To Battle at CP

Central Point-Crater High's Comets, short on height but full of fire and fight, aim to go for broke here this evening against a team of giants.

The Firebells take on the Klamath Falls Union High school Pelicans in a Southern Oregon conference basketball conflict. Tipoff is set for 8:15 p.m. after a 6:30 junior varsity prelin.

This fracas between the second place teams of the circuit will be the initial hoop meeting of the schools this season. Each has a 2-1 record in the loop, in which Klamath is the defending champion. A victory will be a big stride for either team.

Speed Versus Height
The entanglement is billed as one of Crater speed against Klamath height. Lineup of the visiting Pelicans may be all six footers with one at 6-3 and two at 6-3. Crater has 6-1 starters. It's others are 5-8 and 5-9.

Tonight's hassle will be one also of rated teams. Crater has been ranked seventh in one poll and Klamath Falls 10th in another.

The Comets will engage in their only tussle of the week end. Klamath will host Ashland on Saturday when the second of four times around in the loop gets under way.

A positive attitude will be taken onto the court by the Crater aggregation. "We plan to win," Coach Lloyd Hoffine said. "We're going out there with that attitude. We need this one pretty bad."

Hoffine pointed out that the Comets "threw everything we had" at the Medford team last week and brought out that "we'll try everything we have," if necessary, against the Pelicans.

It is anticipated that Klamath Falls chargers of Coach Al Keck also will shoot the works. In recent years the Pels have found the going hard against the Comets on the Central Point floor.

Victor here tonight has the opportunity to assume the leadership in the conference, depending on how Grants Pass fares at Medford and how Klamath goes against Ashland in the Saturday night combats. Grants Pass 3-1 is just a half-game in front of the Pels and Comets.

Hoffine is expected to call on his usual combination of Paul Branson and Howard Tomlinson, each 6-1. Pat Pepper, 5-9, and Mike Gilines and Lew Alvarez, each 5-8. If Keck calls on his tall players they will be Fred Kelley, 6-4, Wayne Chamberland and Terry Ash, each 6-3. Hal Holman, 6-2½, and Dick Scott, 6 feet. If he wants more mobility, he could have Grover Dahn, 5-10, or Lanny Guyer, 5-8, in the lineup. The two are the only Pels under 6 feet.

Klamath works at controlling the backboards against its foes by combining its height and a zone defense. One of the Crater objectives in drills this week was to find ways "to crack the zone."

Los Angeles —UPI— Olympic track star Parry O'Brien said that he will come out of "retirement" to compete in Saturday night's fourth annual Los Angeles Invitational indoor track meet. Coach Bob Bennett feels his team has made tremendous advancement since their loss to Portland State and feels the Raider grapplers will meet a very worthy opponent this week end.

Tornado, Ashland Scuffle Tonight; GP Here Saturday

The Medford high school basketball team, operating on the knowledge that "every win helps now," and the Ashland Grizzlies, starving for just any victory in the circuit, are opponents this evening in a Southern Oregon conference joust on the Hedrick maplecourt here.

Medford enters the fracas in fourth spot in the District 6 A-1 standings. Ashland is the winless celticite.

Tonight's conflict will be one of two this week end for each team. Medford takes on the loop-heading and defending state champion Cavemen of Grants Pass on Saturday while Ashland travels to Klamath Falls. Grants Pass has only the one game.

Varsity games at Medford are scheduled for 8:15 p.m. after 6:30 p.m. junior varsity curtain raisers. Sophomore teams will vie at 8:30 p.m. at the senior high boys' court.

First Game
Medford engages Ashland for the first time this season and Grants Pass for the second time. GP nipped the Tornado 62 to 60 in overtime in the conference starter.

Medfordites take to the court with seventh and 10th place ranking in the polls. Grants Pass was tied for fourth and rated fifth in this week's tabulations.

Medford with a 1-2 record in the circuit seeks victories as a means of remaining in the conference running. Ashland, 0-3, in the loop this year, seeks to end a 53-game conference losing string which overlaps five seasons. The Grizzlies dropped their last two games in 1950 and failed to win in the circuit in 1960, 1961 and 1962.

Ambitions for the Grizzlies for a comeback in this campaign were hardest hit last Saturday when Grants Pass whipped Ashland 67 to 39. But, there is indications that the Bruins do not intend to stay down. "We're coming back, but it's a slow process," reported Coach George Keil.

The Bruins have shown enough potential that the Medford Black Tornadoes are giving them stern regard and are looking to their week end assignment as two rugged games. Klamath had a narrow escape from Ashland and the Lithia city lads gave Crater a good go for most of three quarters.

Along with pulling themselves up and together, the Ashlanders have strived this week to bolster their basic defense and to get their offense moving.

Probable Starters
Keil indicated a likely starting combine of Rick Pierce, Tod Hess, Mike Cotton, Dale Tepper and Jim Lamb. Top reserves could be Greg Lindley, Gale Tepper, Howard Jonson and Jeff Trost with order of substitution depending "on what Frank (Roelandt, Medford coach) decides to run."

Coach Roelandt has pronounced his Tornado team "already to go, I think." He said, "I think they are all set mentally and physically. It's just a matter of hoping we end up on top."

The tutor named Jim Hill, Jack Forde and Dan Miles as starters for tonight. Players for the other two spots are to be named from among Dick Deffley, Mike Neathery, Mike Barnes and Larry Vowell.

Earlier this week Roelandt reported hustle and life among the Tornadoes. He said his squad was working on a few different things each day which, it was hoped, would help them. But, he did not elaborate.

Over at Grants Pass, Coach Gordon Prehm has his Cavemen "working on trying to score." Despite the fact that the Cavemen pace the circuit, Prehm declared, "I don't feel we're scoring like we should." He wants more punch in the attack.

At the same time, Prehm indicated that he is pleased with GP defense and feels that it is as good as that of his state titular crew.
