Bill Casper Victor In Crosby Tourney

By HAL WOOD

Pebble Beach, Calif. – (UPI) – It's on to the Lucky International in San Francisco this week–and some of the golfers are hoping they can be a bit luckier than they were in the Big Crosby.

They admittedly were lucky to get good weather. And Billy Casper was lucky when he sort of backed into the $5,300 first place jackpot while some of the other lads failed to carry rabbits' feet with them.

But some of the rest of the boys were moaning today about things like these:

–Arnold Palmer, who took a nine on the final hole of the fourth round, was disqualified for something he did in the third round.

–Bob Duden, he of the pendulum putter, had a chance to tie for the championship by sinking a 20-foot putt on the last hole, but instead he threeputted and ended up in seventh place.

–Jack Nicklaus, National Open champion, had a chance to win the crown by birdieing the last hole. Instead, he got behind a tree, then three-putted from 20 feet and finished in a five-way tie for second place.

Watches On TV

And so it went through a whole list of challengers while the calm Casper sat in the press room watching television. All those with a chance fired and fell back without making a dent in his composure.

Casper had come in early with a two-over-par 74, not too happy about the whole thing.

He had posted a 285 score for the 72 holes. His other rounds were 73-65-73.

First Bob Rosburg came in with a 71 for 286. He had been upset by a scorekeeper that cost him a stroke. Then along came Davey Hill, also with a 286, losing a stroke when his ball landed in the footprint in a trap. Art Wall posted a 286 with no complaints. Gary Player had a 286, and then Nicklaus had his chance.

Palmer was disqualified because he played a provisional ball on the 17th hole of the third round when he had no right to.

Vikings Even Series With SOC's Raiders

Ashland — Oregon Collegiate conference basketball returns here Tuesday night. Southern Oregon college will oppose Oregon Tech at 8 p.m. It will be the second tussle between the two clubs this season, OTI won last week 96 to 92.

Ashland — Portland State college evened its week end basketball series by sneaking by the Southern Oregon college Red Raiders 57-55 Saturday night in Portland.

The home town Vikings came back after a thorough trouncing Friday night and capitalized on SOC's cold night. The defeat gave Southern Oregon a 4-3 record in Oregon Collegiate conference play. This was Portland's first league win. The Vikes are 1-4.

The Vikings started the game with a number of quick buckets to gain an early advantage on the Raiders. Gary Linn, a surprising freshman, and Mike Schrunk led the Viking attack in the first half. Linn entered the game in the latter part of the period and immediately began to hit with a long set and jump shot from beyond the key. This surprised the visitors and helped take the Vikings to a half time lead of 33-28.

Collapse on Hughes

Through the entire game PSC had two men collapsing on SOC's high scoring forward Dave Hughes. This held Hughes to a season low of six points for the game but left Jerry Schults open to score a game high of 27 points.

In the second half Portland couldn't hold the Raiders completely down. Jerry Shults began to hit for the Raiders but couldn't get sufficient help from his teammates.

With seven seconds left in the game the SOC men had gained all but one point of their deficit back. As they brought the ball down the floor, it was passed to Brad Flanary who was ruled out of bounds. This gave the Vikings the ball. A foul was committed by Southern Oregon and Portland added another point. The Raiders had just seconds in which to score, Dave Hughes took a direct pass from the man out of bounds and went in for the tying point but missed.

Charlie Powell To Let Rhythm Out in Punches

Pittsburgh – (UPI) – Charlie Powell may have to concede to Cassius Clay in poetry, but the Los Angeles slugger has come up with a bit of prose which clearly outlines his feelings about the talkative former Olympic champion from Louisville.

Powell, who meets Clay in a 10-round bout here Thursday night, has been working out before sellout crowds along with his opponent in special quarters in a downtown hotel.

Both hope to use the fight as a stepping stone in the heavyweight rankings. But Clay has been getting most of the headlines with such dogerrell as:

"Listen, my friends, this no five,
"Charlie Powell must bow out in five."

Only One Man

Powell, who says he will let his rhythm come out in his punching Thursday night, was asked Sunday night why he switched from football to boxing.

Replied Powell, "In football you have to play against 11 men. In boxing, it's only one. And I don't think Cassius Clay is as tough as the Green Bay Packers."

Powell is a former defensive end for the San Francisco Forty Niners. He also had a tryout with the Harlem Globetrotters and played professional baseball with a St. Louis Browns farm club.

Pittsburgh Teams' Futures Threatened

Pittsburgh –(UPI)– The possibility of this city losing its major league baseball and football franchises loomed ominously today as the controversy over a municipal sports stadium boiled unabated.

The proposed $23 million stadium, part of a $45 million redevelopment plan announced for the North Side district, was to serve as the future home of the Pittsburgh Pirates and Steelers.

But an avalanche of activity was touched off Saturday night when Allegheny County Commissioners William D. McClelland and John E. McGrady announced they were opposed to the present method of financing, which calls for a $5.7 million contribution from the county.

Forbes field, which has housed the Pirates for more than half a century and the Pittsburgh Steelers since they entered the National Football league in 1933, is now owned by the University of Pittsburgh. Both clubs lease from the university but, Brown said, the day may soon come when the institution razes the area as part of its expansion program.

Miami Beach – (UPI) – Tom Bolan announced that two Miami Beach meetings, scheduled for today, should definitely set the return Sonny Liston-Floyd Patterson heavyweight title fight for the Miami Beach Convention Hall

President Says Athletes Real Winners in Dispute Settlement

By MILTON RICHMAN

New York – (UPI) – Despite President Kennedy's personal praise for a job well done, old soldier Gen. Douglas MacArthur remained at his post today ready for further duty in the event the AAU - NCAA truce proves to be merely another temporay ceasefire.

The 82-year-old MacArthur assured the President he would be available to arbitrate any differences that might crop up between the two amateur athletic groups such as did after Atty. Gen. Robert Kennedy thought he had effected a permanent settlement last November.

President Kennedy telephoned MacArthur from the White House to thank him for the settlement he brought about Saturday night, then issued a public statement which said:

"I wish to express my gratitude to Gen. Douglas MacArthur for undertaking one more assignment and for mediating the dispute so effectively and successfully.

"His willingness to remain on duty to settle any further points of controversy which may develop should assure the highest caliber of American amateur athletic participation both home and abroad."

The President added that the "real winners" in the settlement of the dispute "are the athletes."

MacArthur brought about peace between the two warring groups with a four-point plan that called for an immediate amnesty for all athletes who have been disqualified by either group, a liifting of the ban on use of athletic facilities by either group and the formation of a six-man board.

The board, to be composed of three AAU members and three representatives of the NCAA-backed U.S. Track and Field Federation, will pass on the qualification and elegibility of every candidate for the 1964 U.S. Olympic team.

And if the board fails to reach agreement on any particular issue, the matter will be brought before MacArthur and his decision will be final.

Urges Athletic Congress

MacArthur's fourth proposal in his plan was a recommendation to President Kennedy that he call for the formation of an "athletic congress . . . to devise a permanent plan" under which all amateur athletic organizations would "pool their resources."

The AAU, which has been recognized internationally as the sole governing body for track and field in this country during its 75 year history, had to compromise a bit on MacArthur's third and fourth points.

The third point in the agreement gives the colleges equal say in passing on the eligibility of Olympic candidates, and the fourth point, calling for an athletic congress, could result in increased power for the colleges where the AAU previously had the last word.
