

Numbing Cold, Snow Leap More Misery on Midwest States

More of Same Forecast for Next Five Days

By United Press International
One of the country's worst winter onslaughts numbed the Midwest with record cold and up to a foot of snow today and headed south, leaving death and misery in its wake. The Weather Bureau forecast more of the same for at least five more days.

Nearly 100 deaths were blamed on the series of Arctic-like outbreaks of cold since the week end.

Low temperature records toppled in many areas. Chicago had its second coldest day since 1900 when the temperature reached 18 below zero.

Elkader, Iowa, had an unofficial low of 32 below zero. Waukon, Iowa, had a Jan. 23 record of 30 below. It was 29 below at International Falls, Minn., 28 below at Minneapolis, 27 below at Bozeman, Mont., 20 below at Princeton, Mo., 26 below at Green Bay, Wis.

Scores of schools closed in Iowa, Missouri, Illinois, Indiana, Ohio and Kentucky.

A four-inch snowfall in southern Ohio fanned into two-foot drifts, creating traffic jams a mile long. The snow pushed into West Virginia late in the morning with the cold close behind.

The temperature dropped 22 degrees in seven hours at Cincinnati. It fell 21 degrees in an hour at Jackson, Miss.

Indiana counted 23 deaths due to the cold; New England 15, Illinois 12, Texas 10, Oklahoma 8, Michigan 7, Colorado 5, Missouri, Iowa and Wisconsin 3 each, Minnesota and Montana 2 each, and New York 1.

Three mammoth ice jams on the Mississippi river isolated four towboats and 20 barges. One of the gorges was about three miles long just upstream from Cairo, Ill.

Another ice jam was located two-thirds of the way north between Cairo, where the Mississippi joins the Ohio river, and St. Louis, Mo.

Agriculture Department experts in Washington said the severe frost damage to citrus and vegetable crops in this country could cause repercussions in international trade.

They said Mediterranean countries were likely to increase their shipments to Europe to take up the slack left by the absence of U.S. exports.

The temperature dropped into the 20s again Tuesday in California, but the Weather Bureau said there appeared to have been little if any crop damage the past five days.

Redden Proposes Immunity Plan

Representative James A. Redden (D-Medford) has introduced legislation providing for immunity from malpractice suits arising from emergency medical care given by physicians, surgeons, nurses, dentists and chiropractors.

The legislation, referred to as the "Good Samaritan law," would allow those in the medical and associated professions to care for emergency first aid cases, without pay, at the scene of an accident without fear of an action for malpractice being brought by the accident victim, Redden said.

Redden stated that physicians were reluctant, and rightly so, in offering first aid treatment at accident scenes because of the threat of ending up in court.

The Jackson county attorney pointed out that no such case has been brought in Oregon, to date, and expressed the opinion that one would have little jury appeal. He urges passage of his proposed legislation, however, because it would remove all doubts from the mind of a physician who might be faced with an emergency situation.

OSU Specialist to Serve as Advisor

Corvallis—An Oregon State university staff member has been named to a six-month assignment as a top advisor in the U. S. Department of Agriculture.

Dr. Leon Garoian, marketing management specialist for OSU Extension Service, will be one of four key economic advisors on farm programs for the office of the Secretary of Agriculture.

Garoian will be on leave from OSU from Feb. 1 through July, serving on the staff of Willard Cochrane, director of economics for the USDA in Washington, D. C.

Salem Police Rush To Aid of Willamette University Women During Noisy Panty Raid

Salem—UPI—Four Salem police officers were rushed to Doney Hall on the Willamette University campus here early today when a noisy group of male students staged a panty raid on a women's dormitory.

Salem police said when the officers arrived at 12:05 a.m. they found "a large number of male students—about 50 or 75—east of the hall."

The crowd scattered as officers arrived, although one student was turned over to the dean of men, Dr. Walter Blake, after throwing a firecracker.

Mrs. Mildred Mead Hall, house mother at Doney Hall, told police "there were no injuries."

She admitted, however, that some "women's underclothing" had been taken. Mrs. Hall said 77 women students are housed in Doney Hall.

Officers left the campus at 12:30 a.m.

Meredith Gets Push in Leaving 'Ole Miss' Campus

Oxford, Miss.—UPI—Negro student James H. Meredith Tuesday left the University of Mississippi, possibly for good, with students and newsmen literally pushing him off the campus in a broken-down auto.

Meredith, 29, departed in an atmosphere of boisterousness but there was none of the bloody violence that marked his admission four months ago.

The Korean War veteran was delayed in his departure when his car would not start. He called several service station attendants to recharge the battery. The car still would not start when he was ready to leave and he had to be pushed off by students and a few newsmen.

He refused to say whether he would return.

Nothing To Say

Meredith drove to Memphis, Tenn., 80 miles north of here, after taking his last semester examination, and then drove on to Jackson, Miss., where he moved into his newly rented apartment. An attorney at Memphis, A. W. Willis, said Meredith would have nothing to say about his future plans until Jan. 28, the official end of the current semester.

Meredith is reported in serious academic difficulty at the university. He skipped a mathematics examination Monday, presumably failing it by default.

About 40 students gathered around Meredith's car as he prepared to leave, taunting him with shouts of "There's the nigger." They were dispersed by campus police.

Later, a caravan of 30 cars followed Meredith off the campus and out of town until he reached an interstate highway leading to Memphis.

Four accidents involving seven vehicles, were investigated by Medford police Tuesday. Two citations were issued.

Gerald Eldon Chris, 21, of 400 Fourth st., Phoenix, was cited for violation of basic rule after the vehicle he was driving was involved in a collision with a dump truck operated by James Thomas Sanders, 38, of 147 Meador ave., Medford. According to city police reports the accident occurred at the intersection of Riverside ave. and Main st. about 4:50 p.m.

Naveta Darline Harris, 39, of 4238 South Pacific highway, was cited by police for failing to obey a traffic sign after her car was involved in a collision with a pickup truck operated by John David Shaw, 42, of 495 Beach st., Ashland. The accident was reported to police shortly after 11 a.m. and occurred at the intersection of 11th and Front sts.

About 2:45 p.m. Tuesday on Bartlett st. between Main and Sixth sts. vehicles operated by James Latham Clafin, 52, of Oswego, and Donna Jean Graham, 39, of 817 South Peach st., collided, according to police. No citations were issued.

In another accident, a truck, operated by Arnold Wade Paradis, 38, of 922 Whitman ave., hit a parking meter on Bartlett st. between Ninth and Eighth sts. about 8 p.m., police reported.

BEEF RETURNS TO BUTCHERS' SHELVES IN RIO
Rio de Janeiro—UPI—Beef appeared on butchers' shelves here Tuesday for the first time in nearly a month when the government abandoned efforts to enforce a 25-cent-a-pound price ceiling on the meat.

Restaurant owners and housewives able to pay high prices had been buying beef from black marketeers, but most dinner tables had been featuring canned meats or fowl.

LEBANON INVESTIGATES ALLEGED SHOOTING
Beirut—UPI—Lebanon began a formal inquiry today into an alleged shooting incident involving Syrian troops within Lebanese territory.

A Syrian army patrol was reported to have fired on Lebanese civilians about five miles inside the Lebanese border. Syria has not commented on the report.

STEELS, CHEMICALS, RAILS LEAD STOCK PRICES UP SLIGHTLY

New York—UPI—Steels, rails and chemicals led the stock market a short distance higher today.

Strength in the steels and rails was apparently triggered by surprisingly high fourth quarter and annual earnings for Youngstown Sheet and Atlantic Coast Line, both of which gained over a point.

Auto shares remained active but made little progress. The leading oils were small fractions higher and chemicals showed gains ranging from fractions to as much as 1 3/4 in Du Pont.

Wide movements were few.

Two Oregonians Receive Carnegie Heroism Medals

Pittsburgh, Pa.—UPI—Two Oregonians were honored, one posthumously, by the Carnegie Hero Fund Commission.

Bronze medals were awarded to Everett P. Evenson, 15, Eugene, and to Ingauld S. Johnson, 49, Salem. The award to Johnson was posthumous.

Evenson saved Paula S. Reed, 16, from drowning in Oregon's McKenzie river July 7, 1960.

His citation said he entered the water, although tired from an extensive swim, and went to her aid. When both submerged he stood on the bottom and thrust her to the surface, guiding her to shore.

In addition to the bronze medal Evenson received $500.

Dies in Attempt
Johnson, a civil engineer, died in trying to save Stephen S. Kelley, 19, and his brother, Samuel Kelly Jr., 30, from drowning in the ocean near Delake on July 16, 1961.

The citation said Johnson went to the brothers' aid but became tired while 160 feet from shore and 80 feet from them. The brothers and another man who went to their aid finally reached shore but Johnson, who said nothing when the other man passed close to him, perished.

In addition to the bronze medal, his widow will receive death benefits of $40 a month.

HAS ATOMIC DEVICE
Washington—UPI—The State department said Monday that Red China may be able to explode an atomic device "to ward the end of this year or next year." But, said department press official Lincoln White, there would be a "long gap" between explosion of a nuclear device and development of usable nuclear weapons by the Red Chinese.

Compensation Bills Introduced In California

Sacramento—UPI—Organized labor's major bills on the unemployed and injured worker were before the 1963 California legislature today.

They would set up two nearly identical programs—one paid by the worker and the other by the employer.

Assemblyman Robert W. Crown (D - Alameda) introduced a series of 20 bills liberalizing disability compensation payments with the backing of the California Federation of Labor, AFL-CIO.

Last week, Assemblyman Edward Elliott (D - Los Angeles) proposed 33 bills making sweeping revisions in unemployment compensation.

Under both programs, it would be possible for an injured or unemployed worker to collect as much as $107 a week while off the job.

The Crown measure would repeal an obsolete section of the law recently involved in action by the State Supreme court. The high bench upheld a decision of then - Employment Director Irving Perluss that private insurance companies could not take the low risk disability cases and leave the state the others.

"The private carriers were taking the cream of the crop," said Thomas Pitts, executive secretary of the labor federation.

Pay Check Deduction
A disabled worker now can collect up to $75 a week - paid for by a 1 per cent deduction from his pay check up to $4,600 a year - in disability benefits.

One of Crown's measures makes it possible for the worker to collect an extra $7 for the first dependent and an additional $5 for each dependent up to a total of six.

Another measure would increase the maximum amount of time a worker can collect disability insurance from 26 to 39 weeks - to put it in line with the proposed maximum for unemployment compensation.

Grants Pass Bank Plans Construction

Grants Pass-The Southern Oregon State Bank of Grants Pass, plans to construct a new building in downtown Grants Pass this spring.

The building will be between Sixth and Seventh sts. Plans, which have been drawn up by architects McLelland and Osterman of Seattle, call for a 9,000 square-foot main floor and 5,000 square - foot mezzanine. Driveways will flank two sides of the building, and parking space will be provided for 31 cars. There will be a drive-in deposit window.

The bank's executive vice president, Howard Hanson, said specifications for bids are expected to be completed by March, and that construction will follow as soon as possible after bids are awarded.

Discrimination Said Ended At Oregon, OSU Fraternities

Portland—UPI—The State Board of Higher Education claimed Tuesday it "appears" to have ended racial discrimination in fraternities and sororities at the University of Oregon and Oregon State.

However, Wallace Priestley, member of the executive board of the Portland chapter of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, said the board will not achieve that objective until two fraternities remove discriminatory clauses from their national charters.

Chancellor Roy Lieuallen read letters from University of Oregon President Arthur Flemming and Oregon State President James Jensen which indicated there is no discrimination on either campus.

Lieuallen admitted that two fraternities which have chapters at both schools still have racial clauses in their national charters, but said their chapters in Oregon have waivers.

Priestley identified the two as Alpha Tau Omega and Sigma Nu.

He called the waivers irrelevant.

"What self-respecting Negro would want to belong to a group which has discrimination written into its charter?" he asked.

In other action the board approved an increase in out-of-state tuition at three schools, and an increase in dormitory fees.

The dormitory fee increase is expected to be about $40 a year at all state schools except Oregon Tech. The figure is about $55 at the latter.

Lieuallen recommended a $60 a year increase each of the next two years for out-of-state students at Oregon, Oregon State and Portland State. It would raise the tuition from the present $630 a year to $750.

The board recommended reduced tuition fees for Oregon students at most institutions. Fees would drop from $100 to $90 per term at Oregon, Oregon State and Portland State, and from $88 to $78 at Southern Oregon, Eastern Oregon and Oregon College of Education. Oregon Tech fees would remain $100 per term.
