Expense Limit Proposal Favored

Salem - (UPI) - Senate President Ben Musa (D-The Dalles) and House Speaker Clarence Barton (D-Coquille) favor the 120 day limit on expenses that has been made a part of the legislative pay bill.

Both said they did not believe the limit would speed the sessions, but both agreed the limit would keep the public from believing the legislature was staying in session just to get the daily expense money.

Barton said he believed the limit "improves the bill," and Musa commented he doubted if the higher pay would result in professionalism, "not at today's prices."

Barton said he expected the pay bill to reach the House today or Thursday.

The joint Senate-House committee Monday approved by a 10-4 split vote a $3,000 annual salary for legislators, and $20 a day expenses while the legislature was in session. It added a 120 day limit to the expense period.

Professor Proves Set of Equations

Eugene - A university of Oregon professor has proved a set of equations in physics which describes the movement of electrons in crystals when placed in an electric or magnetic field.

Dr. Gregory H. Wannier, professor of physics, reported on his mathematical formulas today before the meeting of the American Physical Society in New York.

He delivered the paper by invitation. Although many papers are contributed to the Society's annual meeting, only a few scientists are invited each year to present their research findings. Dr. Wannier is the first member of the University's physics department to be so honored.

The scientist's findings, which resulted from laboratory and paper rather than laboratory work, provide a theoretical underpinning for ideas about electrons which have been current for some time. The equations, which were hypothesized by other scientists some time ago, have been used extensively in practical and basic scientific work for the past decade, but have never before been proved.
