New York Able To Attract Visitors Without World Fair

New York—UPI—This city is pounding away at preparations for its 1964 World's Fair start but in the meantime it has released some figures which help show how it is able to attract visitors year-round without a fair as a drawing card.

It expects far more travelers than usual in the fair span, as witness the recent lively growth of new hotels and motels, aiming for some big occupancy.

Some idea of what kind of crowds it may greet can be obtained from the 1962 statistical guide for New York City. The sixth annual edition has just been issued by the Department of Commerce and the city of New York.

$1 Billion Spent

In 1961, the latest full year for which figures are available, the city welcomed a total of 14 million visitors—business, tourist and convention delegates. According to the New York Convention and Visitors Bureau, a billion dollars dropped into New York's pocketbooks from these sources in the one year.

More than $176 million of this total came from more than three million delegates and guests of 789 conventions and expositions. The remainder came from other business and touring visitors.

YOUR CAR and the LAW

MOTOR VEHICLE LAWS of OREGON

OREGON DEPARTMENT OF MOTOR VEHICLES

Editor's note: The following article is provided as a public service by the Oregon State Bar. It is not intended to be legal advice for a particular case since even a slight variance in facts may change application of the law. Persons having legal problems should present the facts to an attorney.

YOUR NAME

Not until the Fifteenth century did Europeans put much stock in last names. Most had none. If need be, they used their given names, and now and then their fathers' given names (like John, John's son) or their home towns' or neighborhoods' (like Thomas of Aquinas).

But mostly they went by their given or baptismal names. Some churches today still call their members by their first names (Sister Joan and Brother Albert) like royalty (e.g. Queen Elizabeth). In certain European countries you can register a child's name if it is one of an approved list. High nobility goes by its last name (de Medici, Marlborough), but knights take their given names (Sir Winston).

Little Property Interests

Since people had little property interests in their last names, English and American law gave them little or no protection. Trade names, of course, are another matter.

But in France and Germany the law gives one a property interest in his name; you may get a court to keep somebody from adopting your name by showing it would harm you. But not as a rule in America or England.

For instance, on the ground that by his writing he had earned a property right in his name, Samuel Clemens (Mark Twain) once sued a man for printing a work called "Sketches by Mark Twain." But the court ruled that Mark Twain had no sole right to use either his own or his pen name, except on his own books.

As a rule you can change your name at will without going to court.

Saves Endless Trouble

But a court action to change your name puts the public officially on notice that you have a new one, and it saves you endless trouble in collecting debts, identifying yourself, getting credit, inheriting property, selling your home, getting insurance, Social Security benefits, etc.

Some people change their names too much for their own good by using nicknames, middle names, and various ways of spelling the same name. It may cost real money to prove that John Jacob Smith is the same as Jack Smith, Jake Smith, J. Smith or J. ake Smythe.

Decide on a good name to put on legal papers, checks, contracts, auto licenses. Stick with it unless you have good reason to change it.

Injured Fish Warm Others of Dangers

Menlo Park, Calif. —UPI—An injured fish broadcasts a special alarm to warn others to stay away from it, according to a study by Stanford Research Institute.

Injured fish are special prey for predators, scientists said, and warn other fish to keep away lest they also become prey. The alarm substance apparently is in the skin of salt water fish and is based on the highly sensitive sense of smell of fish.

CALLS ON PRESIDENT—The National March of Dimes poster boy for the 1963 25th anniversary fund-raising campaign, six-year-old Jimmy Bogges of Coy, Ark., calls on President Kennedy at the White House. Standing behind Jimmy is his mother, Mrs. Bogges. The poster boy was born with an open spine, known medically as spina bifida, and water on the brain, hydrocephalus. (UPI)
