Black Tornadoes Take on KF Pels

Medford high's basketball Tornadoes go east Saturday night to fight the battle of the altitude.

They'll engage the tall Klamath Union Pelicans in Klamath Falls' higher elevation. Game time is 8 p.m. after 6:30 p.m. junior varsity preliminary action. Sophomore teams vie at 5 p.m.

The Black Tornado has been able to concentrate on Klamath this week in practices because the Saturday night tangle is their only one this week. Klamath Falls will have a tough assignment this evening at Grants Pass.

This will be the second meeting of the Pelicans and Black Tornado in the Southern Oregon conference this season. Medford won at home 44 to 35.

For the Black Tornado the game will mark the return of Rich Benner. He will be in uniform for the first time since he broke his wrist in mid-December play. He is all right to play, said Coach Frank Roelandt. The 6-1 cager will wear a short plaster cast, which is due to come off next week.

Depends On Game

"I am going to get him in there," declared Roelandt. "The quicker we get him into a game the better it is for him and for us."

However, the amount of duty Benner sees will depend on how the games go. He has taken part in drills throughout this week, working in the units, but has not scrimmaged so much as the other players.

Both teams are ambitious to fight their respective ways into the forefront in the circuit. Klamath (3-2) and Medford (2-3) are now third and fourth running in the standings. With two games this week end the Pels have the bigger opportunity. Klamath is the league's defending champion.

And, Medford will go against an adversary which reportedly has improved much since the previous meeting of the schools. Coach Al Keck has indicated that his KF team played its best of the season last week in an overtime loss to Crater, which also holds a win over Medford.

Klamath Falls utilizes its good overall height and a tough zone defense which Medford was able to crack sufficiently in the early meetings. The Pels are expected to take measures to hinder the Black Tornado running game. For while the Tornado does not utilize all-round height as KF does, Medford has the edge in speed.

For starting assignments Keck may call on Fred Kelley, 6-4, Wayne Chamberland, 6-3, Hal Holman, 6-2 1/2, Dick Scott, 6 feet and Terry Ash, 6-3, or Grover Dahm, 5-10. Dahm's recent improvement may give him the assignment.

Roelandt may call on Jack Forde, 6-4 1/2, Jim Hill, 6-2 1/2, Dan Miles, 5-7, Dick Dextley,

RETURNS TO TORNADO - Rich Benner, above, sidelined since mid-December by a broken wrist, is slated to see service for the Medford High school basketball team on Saturday night. The Black Tornado has a Southern Oregon conference game at Klamath Falls, Benner, 6-1 senior, who played on Grants Pass' state titular crew last season, currently is wearing a short cast on his left wrist.

5-9 and Larry Vowell, 5-8 for starting roles.

The Tornado has gone through three tough workouts this week after taking Monday off. Roelandt indicated that yesterday's drill was sloppy. He attributed it to the hard work.

Drill has included tactics to score against zone defense and work on the pressing game. Attention has been cast also on being prepared for whatever the Pels may come up with in an effort to surprise.

Corvallis Bills Globetrotters

Oregon State University, Corvallis - The world-famous Harlem Globetrotters return to Gill Coliseum on Thursday night Jan. 31, to take on a star-studded Oregon State alumni team.

That game will start at 8 p.m., following a 6 p.m. preliminary between Truax Campus Service of Corvallis and the San Francisco All-Nations team which travels with the Trotters.

Among the alums expected to play are Jay Cart, Bob Jacobson, Karl Anderson, Bill Wold, Jim Woodland, Jimmy Anderson, Ken Nanson, Tex Whitman, Bill Toole, Ron Robbin and Tony Vlastelica. It was hoped that Lee Harman would be present, but he is now in Hawaii and will be unable to make the trip.

SO Matmen Wrestle UO

Asland - Southern Oregon college's grapplers travel to Eugene Saturday afternoon to meet the University of Oregon Ducks.

Doug Smith and Jim Grush are still undefeated for the Raiders. Smith, 130, is up from the 123-pound class and still has held his own with the heavier men. Grush, an ex-Marine heavyweight, has spotted opponents up to 70 pounds and still defeated them.

Coach Bob Bennet feels, "The men are in top condition and we are looking forward to giving the university a good match."

Some of the entries are just getting started. Persons

The coach said that guard John Linder is recuperating from a bout with flu but likely will see considerable duty.

Crater At Ashland Tonight, Host To GP Quint Saturday

Central Point (Special) - "Still looking for our first one."

"A mighty important week for us."

That's the viewpoint of the basketball adversaries the Crater Comets oppose this week end in the Southern Oregon conference.

Crater goes to Ashland this evening. On Saturday night the Fireballers host the Grants Pass Cavemen at Central Point.

Tonight the Comets (3-1 in the loop), reaching the halfway point of their full regular season, take on the cellarite team. Not only has Ashland (0-5) gone winless so far in the 1963 conference race but the Grizzlies have not tasted victory in the 55 games since they last beat Crater in 1959. They would like to end that losing streak.

Big Week End

Grants Pass (4-1) entertains Klamath Falls (3-2) tonight before coming to Central Point tomorrow evening. GP Coach Gordon Pehrm termed it "one of those big week ends - one of four during the season."

He continued, "This is a mighty important week end for us."

The Comets look at the two nights the same way the conference leading Cavemen do. They have a golden opportunity to take over first place. Crater's cagers, who will aim at sweeping both contests, can do it if both they and Klamath whip the Cavemen.

But, the Comets got some bad news yesterday. Paul Bransom, one of their tall men and the team's stellar rebounder, went home from school ill. "If I know Paul, he'll be there tonight," said Crater coach Lloyd Hoffine. The chief concern was whether Bransom would have the stamina for Saturday night service, too.

Crater enters the week end series with the idea that it can't be overlooking Ashland despite the fact that the Grizzlies are at the bottom of the heap and that they have whipped the Bruins once. With GP coming up, the Comets are guarding against a natural tendency to be thinking ahead too much.

Ashland Flu, Too

Possible starters for Crater are Howard Tomlinson, Pat Pepper, Mike Gilnes, Lou Alvarez and Bransom. If Bransom is too much under the weather, it will be Darryl Summerfield or Willie Jones in the spot.

Ashland Coach George Keil indicated that the flu bug also may result in some handicap to the Grizzlies. Greg Lindley missed three days of practice because of illness this week and Tod Hess one day. The coach said that limited action is probable for each.

Pehrm indicated that the Cavemen contemplate little change for the week end action. He said that the Climate city club will try to play ball like it has been playing. He declared that the Cavemen "have been playing real good ball and have been real aggressive scrappers." There have been a lot of Cavemen around loose balls, he said, and his charges have done good rebounding.

Cavemen Dedicated

The GP mentor opined that the scuffle with Crater is "going to be tough" and "going to be a big challenge for us."

Crater had a cold night

SCORING COMET - Howard Tomlinson, 6-1, above, will be seen in action when the Crater high Comet basketball crew plays at Ashland this evening and entertains Grants Pass at Central Point on Saturday night in the Southern Oregon conference. He is second high scorer among conference players with 150 points and leads the loop in free throws with 70. His free toss average is .787.
