Tax Exemptions

Dick West Comes To Kennedy's Aid With 'Equitable Relief' Suggestions

By DICK WEST
Washington—(UPI)—By and large, tax deductions fall into two categories. They are classified either as "equitable relief" which includes the deductions I am entitled to, or as "loopholes," which are the deductions granted to some of our President Kennedy's tax message last week contained some of each. His proposals for equitable relief were not, however, as extensive as they could have been.

I regret that the President did not embrace a bill introduced by Rep. Frank J. Becker (R-N.Y.) to provide a deduction for transportation to and from work.

In view of the fact that many types of exemptions are allowed to different people, why not for transportation? Becker asked. I don't know to whom he was directing the question, but my answer was "Why not, indeed?"

If such a deduction would cause too sharp a drop in revenue, then perhaps Becker's proposal could be modified to apply only to those who drive to and from work.

For that matter, I wouldn't object if it were restricted to newspapermen who drive to and from work. Or make it just those whose last names begin with "W."

There are a number of other ways that the President's program could, in my view, be improved. Areas in which tax reforms are needed include:

-A tax write-off to cover the cost of repairing small ice crushing machines that children have used for cracking pecans.

-A hair oil depletion allowance. This would permit men

Three accidents were investigated by Medford city police over the week end, one Saturday and two Sunday, according to reports. No injuries were reported or citations issued.

A car driven by Freda Alvina Lorton, 35, of 2338 Sunnyside st., and a motor scooter operated by Arthur Roy Deckard, 18, of 904 Summit st., collided about 1 p.m. Saturday at Main st. and Central ave., police said.

In the first of two accidents Sunday police said, vehicles operated by William Elmer Han, 29, Turner, Ore., and Mary Carolyn Whittle, 15, of 1121 North Riverside ave., collided about 3:02 p.m. at Barnett rd. and Stewart ave.

Mary Lynn Carry, route 4, box 470, reported to police that her car had been struck and damaged by an unidentified vehicle prior to 12:30 p.m. Sunday while it was parked near Ninth and Ivy sts., according to city police.

'Ole' Olsen of Comedy Fame Dies

Wichita, Kan.—(UPI)—Friends and admirers gathered here today to pay final respects to John (Ole) Olsen, half of the Olsen and Johnson comedy team which began in vaudeville and later starred on Broadway, in motion pictures and on television.

Funeral services will be held Tuesday for Olsen, 66, the taller of the two zany comedians, who died Saturday at Albuquerque, N.M., eight days after undergoing an operation for kidney stones.

His sidekick, Harold (Chic) Johnson, died less than a year ago of a kidney ailment in Las Vegas, Nev.

Olsen and Johnson struggled for 24 years before hitting the big time with "Hellzapoppin'" in 1939. The comedy team starred in the Broadway show for nearly three years.

Highest Per Capita Car Ownership Here

with depleting hair to deduct 27 1/2 per cent of the cost of scalp lotions. Its purpose would be to encourage exploration for new anti-baldness preparations.

-A home entertainment expense deduction. This would permit couples who entertain in their homes to deduct the cost of new comedy records so that their guests won't have to keep listening to "The First Family" album.

-A broadcasting folk song tax. This would require radio stations to pay a tax equal to 200 per cent of the retail price of the record each time they play a folk song over the air.

Sick pay. This would double the income tax rate for comedians who get paid for telling sick jokes.

A television program repeat tax. Repeated programs would be taxed an amount equal to the cost of the original production.

I am not certain what the economic effect of these tax reforms would be, but if they accomplished the desired purpose they certainly would bring a lot of relief.

Pickering Welcome To Pursue Projects Births

Portland—(UPI)—The director of the Oregon Medical Research Foundation says Dr. Donald E. Pickering has lost his job as principal investigator at the Oregon Primate Research Center, but that he is welcome to remain there to pursue scientific projects.

Director Amby Frederick made the statement Sunday following Dr. Pickering's announcement Saturday he had been removed from the investigator's job.

On Jan. 5 Dr. Pickering resigned as director of the center in a dispute over its administration. He said he hoped to remain as principal investigator and that he believed the person in this position should have power to direct scientific activity at the center.

Frederick said the term "principal investigator" was chiefly an administrative title. He said Dr. Pickering "has complete freedom to pursue his scientific work along normally accepted channels without the administrative difficulties to which he continually refers."

For a satisfactory job, stick to the same brand, advises the National Paint, Varnish and Lacquer association.

Paint Association Offers Suggestions

New York—(UPI)—Always use the undercoat or primer recommended by the manufacturer of the top coat you plan to apply when painting. Occasionally, one producer's primer will not be compatible with another company's topcoat, or vice-versa.
