Need for Study on Two Problems Noted By Condon Lecturer

Eugene – In a world where there is "no limit to what we can do" scientifically, there is a crying need for intensified study of two problems that affects everyone's lives – population explosion and environmental pollution.

"Our society can no longer afford to neglect the problems of man's relationship to his environment," according to Dr. Rene Dubos, an eminent microbiologist from the Rockefeller Institute.

Speaking at his second Condon Lecture last week at the University of Oregon, Dr. Dubos said that science has advanced to the point where "we can prolong life, eliminate disease, create industry, and if we so decide, blow up the world."

To Formulate Goals

With this in mind, scientists are faced with having to formulate goals far more difficult to define than those in the past. "These goals must be aimed at furthering man's social progress," he said.

Dr. Dubos described the population explosion and environmental pollution as two problems which need profound study. In both areas there is a deplorable lack of facilities for scientific analysis. "Nowhere in this country will you find a laboratory or equipment for large scale, long-range studies (of this type)," he said.

Regarding the population problem, Dr. Dubos said most people only visualize two definite problems: the need to develop techniques of family control and the concern over an adequate food supply.

Goes Much Deeper

But it goes much deeper than this, the lecturer stressed. "Numbers of people do not described the problem," he said. He illustrated the need for a more sophisticated kind of demographic analysis so as to differentiate between mere increase in population density and between the increase due to deserts and other formerly uninhabitable areas having been made pleasant for man.

"Another problem that needs badly to be studied is the biological phenomenon involved in natural population regulation. Anyone who studies it knows that in the wild animal, population has a way of being regulated so all the food supply is not used." Research is vital, but facilities also are needed.

Discussing smog, insecticides and other pollution situations, Dr. Dubos said "we know that constant exposure to small doses can be dangerous, but study on the subject is limited." It is even difficult to interest Congress, he added.

The direction which science takes involves the "judgment of values and decisions on the part of the community," he said.

INTRODUCE BILL

Salem – (UPI) – Rep. John D. Mosser (R-Beaverton) has announced he will introduce a bill to increase the state's share of school costs and to revise the financial structure of the program.

Training Classes Set for Census Takers in Area

Five training classes will be conducted this week in Medford in preparation for the greater Medford area church census scheduled Feb. 16 and 17.

Conducting the classes will be the Rev. Donald Klein. The training classes, for census takers, will be held Jan. 29 through Feb. 1 at 7:30 p.m. and Thursday, Jan. 31, at 2 p.m. at Medford High school.

Final plans for the census were discussed last week at a meeting of the committee, headed by Dr. D. Kirkland West. More than 35 persons representing 21 churches in Medford, Central Point, and Jacksonville, attended.

Added to Committee

Added to the committee at that time were the Rev. John A. Ilg, Sacred Heart Catholic church, and Maj. William Ricken of the Salvation Army.

Each participating church will appoint a census chairman, who will, in turn, recruit approximately 20 per cent of their church's membership for census takers.

Dr. West said it was important for census takers to attend one of the training classes to learn how to properly fill in the information and receive an identification tag.

Census takers will work in pairs, taking the census Feb. 16 and 17, and a follow up Feb. 23 and 24.

Cards will be sorted by church preference and no preference cards will be left with the census committee, it was explained. Dr. West added that no information as to the census results will be given to any commercial or outside interests.

Dr. Klein is expected in Medford Monday and start making block assignments for the census teams.

Two Area Finalists In Brand Name Event

Among the retail firms selected this year as finalists in the brand name retailer-of-the-year competition are Lea Motors Inc. and Acme Hardware company, both Medford.

The awards are given each year by Brand Names foundation to honor leading merchants for their presentation of manufacturer trademarked products.

Finalists will now submit full presentations of their 1962 advertising, merchandising, sales training and other brand promotional activities with the final presentation made in April in New York City.

East German Guards Escape to West

Berlin – (UPI) – Two East German border guards in uniform and carrying their weapons fled to West Berlin across the snow-blanketed death strip today, West Berlin police reported.

The Communists send their border guards to duty in pairs, so each can keep an eye on the other. Hence one guard rarely trusts his companion enough to admit he wants to flee.

However the two who reached West Berlin today apparently had agreed to flee together. They made their way across the wide strip which the Communists had cleared to give guards a field of fire at refugees, and then crawled through barbed wire into a northern district of West Berlin.

Kennedy Spends Week End at Estate

Washington – (UPI) – President Kennedy returned to the White House by helocopter today after a week end with his family at his Glen Ora estate near Middleburg, Va.

The President, who went to Middleburg Saturday, returned without his family. Despite frigid temperatures, he carried his overcoat as he walked briskly from the helicopter to his office.

Kennedy had been scheduled to return to Washington Sunday to attend a Roman Catholic "red mass" but cancelled the trip because of poor weather conditions.

SINGER AIDS CHURCH

Laurel, Miss. – (UPI) – A segregated sellout crowd of 1,800 jammed Oak Park school here Sunday night to hear Negro soprano Leontyne Price of the Metropolitan Opera in a benefit performance for her hometown church. The performance was Miss Price's second to help St. Paul's Methodist church in this deep south mill town where she spent her childhood. She performed once before in 1960.

Medford Boy Named To College Dean's List

Among the students at California State Polytechnic college, San Luis Obispo, who have been named to the dean's list for outstanding academic accomplishment is Larry G. Hammond, 423 Beatty st., Medford, a major in animal husbandry.

Students are recognized for achieving an overall fall quarter grade average of B or better.

Donovan, Castro Confer on Release

Miami – (UPI) – New York attorney James B. Donovan returned here Saturday night from a conference with Cuban Premier Fidel Castro in Havana and said that he was "most optimistic" that about 25 Americans held prisoner in Cuba soon would be released.

Donovan said the basis for the release of the Americans would be "entirely different" than the ransoming of 1,113 Cuban invasion prisoners whose release last month he arranged.

But Donovan indicated that completion of delivery of the $53 million worth of prisoner ransom goods to Havana would be a factor in freeing the Americans, held at the Isle of Pines.

Donovan flew to Cuba Saturday morning and returned last night.

Youth Allegedly Admits Stabbings

Pawtucket, R.I. – (UPI) – A husky, high school athlete, who allegedly admitted hacking two married women to death because of an urge, was to appear in court today for a 13-month-old slaying.

Thomas R. Knott, 17, captain of the Tolman High school football team and a track star, confessed Sunday to the knife slayings of Mrs. Nancy Ann Frenier, 19, and Mrs. Edith Martin, 38, of Attleboro, Mass., police said.

Authorities were to seek a waiver in East Providence Family Court today to have Knott tried as an adult in the slaying of Mrs. Frenier here Dec. 22, 1961.

Mrs. Martin was killed in her home last Friday.

Knott, son of a steamfitter, was arrested Saturday night after authorities linked his car to one seen leaving the Martin residence Friday.

"I knew I had to kill someone," Pawtucket police quoted the youth.

"I'm glad you caught me because I would have done it again. All I hope is that they put me away for life."

About 75 per cent of all the sugar cane produced in the United States is grown in Louisiana.

No Subsidies for Potatoes Planned

Washington – (UPI) – The Agriculture Department said today that it will not subsidize exports of potatoes.

Officials said current market information indicates that U.S. potato prices are competitive in some European markets. It urged exporters to take full advantage of the situation, caused by European crop conditions and bad weather.

Representatives of the northeastern potato industry requested the export subsidy Jan. 17 because of large supplies of potatoes in this country.

Agriculture officials said today's action will have no effect on the potato diversion program announced Dec. 18. The program offers payments to growers for starch, flour and livestock feed. Seven states – Maine, Washington, California, Oregon, Colorado, Rhode Island and Utah – are currently participating in this program.

Former Manager Here To Head Division

Leo C. McCorkle, Consolidated Freightways' terminal manager at Medford from 1942 to 1948, has been named general manager of the firm's warehouse and cartage division, it has been announced.

McCorkle, who had been serving as manager of a division in San Francisco, will continue to make his headquarters there.
