

Democrats Believe Outlook Bright for Kennedy's Program

Editor's note: The new 88th Congress is less than three weeks old. But the battle lines already are becoming clear. In the following dispatch, a veteran UPI Capitol reporter explores the outlook for President Kennedy's legislative program.

By VINCENT J. BURKE
Washington - UPI - Democratic leaders believe the legislative outlook has brightened for President Kennedy. They have become increasingly confident they can push a major share of his program, including a big tax cut, through Congress this year.

Moreover, they figure chances now are better than 50-50 that some version of his controversial program of Medicare for persons 65 and older will be enacted before the 1964 presidential elections.

The only big controversial issue on which administration supporters can see no light ahead are foreign aid and federal help for education. They fear that the church-state issue will defy compromise on the school issue. Foreign aid always is an inviting target.

Enactment this year of a gradual reduction in income tax rates is, of course, Kennedy's No. 1 objective in Congress. It overshadows all his other legislative proposals.

Geis First Break
Kennedy got his first big break on this issue shortly before Congress convened. The AFL-CIO and the U.S. Chamber of Commerce wound up in surprisingly close agreement on how the tax relief should be parceled out among business and among individuals in the high and low tax brackets.

Kennedy's $10 billion tax-cut package steers a middle ground between recommendations of those two influential groups. With many spokesmen for organized labor and organized business agreed that taxes should be cut, most of Kennedy's conservative foes in Congress have avoided a frontal attack on tax relief.

Instead, they are centering their fire on spending—on demands that Kennedy's $12 billion deficit be cut sharply. Thus, the backlash from the President's tax-cutting drive seems likely to make it impossible for Kennedy to shove off a big cut in his new $4.9 billion foreign aid program.

Some administration aides fear the congressional budget-cutters will top the $1 billion cut they made when Kennedy requested the same amount last year. In addition to gaining powerful outside allies on the tax issue, Kennedy has benefitted from structural changes in congressional power relationships which have occurred since the lawmakers convened on Jan. 9.

Democrats selected two proven administration supporters to fill vacant seats on the House Ways and Means Committee. These seats were held in the last Congress by conservatives who backed the President only part of the time. As a result, administration forces figure they are now only one vote shy of mustering the 13 votes needed to push some compromise version of the disputed Medicare program through the committee, which has roadblocked it for two years.

The Democrats also have liberalized the makeup of the 20-man House Appropriations Committee which holds the government purse-strings. All five Democratic vacancies on the committee were filled this month by liberal northern Democrats. Two of these five seats had been held in the last Congress by conservative southern Democrats.

Earlier, on the opening day of the 88th Congress, administration forces had routed an attempt by a coalition of conservative Republicans and southern Democrats to regain control of the House Rules Committee which controls the flow of legislation to the

Luncheon Boxes Get Special Attention

Here are some sandwich combos certain to be appreciated at school, at work or at home.

Combine one-half cup grated Swiss cheese, one-half cup ground ham, one tablespoon horseradish, one tablespoon prepared mustard, one tablespoon mayonnaise and salt to taste; mix thoroughly. Spread on rye bread. Add lettuce if desired. Fill four sandwiches.

Combine one-half seven-ounce can tuna fish, one-half cup chopped celery, one teaspoon lemon juice, one teaspoon prepared mustard and three tablespoons mayonnaise. Spread on buttered bread. Fill three sandwiches.

Mix one-half cup chopped hard cooked egg with one tablespoon diced stuffed olives and two tablespoons prepared mustard.

Blend two tablespoons prepared mustard into four tablespoons butter or cream cheese. Add minced chives or chopped olives. Spread on rye or whole wheat bread.

Combine one-half cup minced cooked ham, one-fourth cup peanut butter, two teaspoons dill seed and one-fourth teaspoon paprika. Blend in one teaspoon prepared mustard and one teaspoon mayonnaise. Allow to stand in refrigerator several hours. Makes two-thirds cup. Use as canapé or sandwich spread.

Cinnamon Toast
Cinnamon toast is an old-time favorite liked by younger generations too. For cinnamon walnut toast, cream six tablespoons butter; add one-fourth cup powdered sugar and two teaspoons cinnamon. Then take 10 slices of bread and sprinkle each slice with the cinnamon-sugar mixture. Sprinkle lightly with one-half cup chopped walnut meats. Broil until the sugar melts and the bread is toasted. Sublime with hot tea or cold milk.

Salmon Celery Loaf Budget Balancer
Balance your budget and bring renewed interest in meals by preparing and serving this salmon loaf, made unusually good by the addition of fresh onions, pepper and celery. Mashied potatoes and fresh buttered greens, such as spinach, or Swiss chard, carrot sticks, and lemon fluff complete menu. Makes six servings.

1 pound can salmon, drained, cleaned
1 cup soft bread crumbs
2 eggs, well beaten
1/4 cup milk
1/4 cup minced green pepper
1 cup chopped celery
1/4 cup minced onion
1 teaspoon salt
Dash each pepper and cayenne
1 tablespoon melted butter or margarine
2 tablespoons lemon juice

Flake salmon; combine with remaining ingredients and mix well. Turn into a greased 8x4x3-inch loaf pan, smoothing top. Bake at 375 degrees for 40 minutes, or until loaf is firm. Unmold on heated platter.

Vintage Pie Combines Grape Juice and Raisins
Vintage pie combines rich purple (glassed or canned) grape juice with plentiful seeded raisins to make not only a most attractive looking dessert but one that will call for repeat performances at your table. It uses quick cooking tapioca as an ideal thickener. A two-crust pie, using your favorite recipe or a mix.

Rinse 2 1/2 cups seedless raisins. Combine raisins with one cup Concord grape juice, 1 1/2 cups water, one-half cup granulated sugar, one-half teaspoon salt, four tablespoons quick cooking tapioca, and two teaspoons vinegar; cook and stir 12 to 15 minutes. Pour into pastry-lined deep pie pan; cover with top crust and brush with milk. Bake in hot oven, 450 degrees, 25 to 30 minutes. Six generous servings.

No Excuse for Menu Monotony
Menu monotony is a disease. Many women have it, and it is communicated to their families. The family becomes restless, irritable, seeks opportunities to eat elsewhere. It sometimes even results in friend husband leaving high blood pressure (necessarily, of course). All because the lady of the house, the keeper of the cookery, needs a shot of imagination. We pack this market report with suggestions for bringing new interest to menu planning; new ways of keeping the family content with home cooking.

Fish and Shellfish
Let's start with a reminder of a few of our wealth of coast-caught fish and shellfish. How recently have you treated the family to Dungeness crab, flounder, halibut, oysters, rockfish, salmon, scallops or shrimp? Any cookbook gives ways galore for pan frying, baking, broiling, poaching, casseroling, denizens of the deep. Many varieties are superb in cocktails, or even salads for a change. All have an affinity for lemon wedges for quick squeezing, so remember the lemons.

Meat and Poultry
Lamb quality is excellent; prices seasonally low. Lamb legs and chops are very good, but how about lamb pot roast, stuffed shoulder, baked lamb steaks with minted stuffing, lamb curry, Irish stew? There are many thrifities among the beef cuts; pot roasts, round steak smothered in plentiful onions, Swiss steak, short ribs, baked flank steak, corned beef brisket? Try oven-broiling some of those bargain priced broiler-fryers in a zesty tomato sauce, or make a Brunswick stew with assorted vegetables for a one-dish meal that will be a conversation piece.

Vegetable Variety
Cabbage and potatoes lead the value parade with plenty of carrots, cauliflower, celery, hard squash, topped turnips, rutabagas, spinach.

Fruit Displays
Apples for baking, avocados for salad making, bananas for baking, grapefruit, oranges and lemons so essential for their vitamin C at this season.

Other Plantiflous
Put in supplies of these "specialized" items: rice, canned fish and meat, all crabbers, peanut products, and macaroni. Put cottage cheese and cheddar cheese in menus more often.

AHOY, THERE, MATE!—A polar bear at the Portland zoo is amazed to see visitors from his homeland performing Eskimo dances in front of his pool. This Eskimo couple is traveling throughout the United States to publicize tours to Alaska.

Peace Officers Hear Salem Man

Central Point - Proposed legislation to deal with "sexually dangerous persons" does not go far enough, Harold Adams of Salem, attorney for the judicial committee of the state legislature, said here Tuesday night.

Adams addressed a meeting of the Southern Oregon Peace Officers association, attended by about 50 law enforcement officers from Jackson, Josephine and Klamath counties.

He spoke on House Bill 1129 which proposes legislation to deal with sex offenders under a civil commitment proceeding.

The bill does not go far enough, Adams said, because it does not provide for procedure on granting parole or trial releases.

Because the bill would place "sexually dangerous persons" under civil proceedings, separate from criminal proceedings, it would allow them to be paroled in the same manner as other mental hospital patients.

In another portion of his talk, Adams said a study is now being made relative to developing at the circuit court level the concept that law enforcement officers be entitled to the same judicial immunity enjoyed by prosecutors and district attorneys.

Before the state legislative session opened this month, Adams was serving as assistant attorney general defending state police officers who were involved in false arrest cases.

Hatfield Veto May Be Overridden

Salem—UPI—Senate President Ben Musa hinted today that the Senate may override Gov. Mark Hatfield's veto of a measure left over from the 1961 session.

Musa said he expected the veto measures to get Senate consideration Monday.

Musa said Senate Bill 510 might get enough votes to override the veto. The bill provided the Highway Commission would pay the cost of moving certain utility facilities located on the highway right of way. In vetoing the bill, Hatfield said he doubted its constitutionality.

The Senate President also praised the legislative fiscal office. "It's really paying off," he said. "They ride herd and take a long hard look at budget requests," Musa commented.

House Speaker Clarence Barton said he would not comment on a measure motion by the Coos County Democratic Central committee until he has read the resolution. The committee Monday night criticized Barton's stand on taxation.

Dr. Durno indicated he thought it was not too late to avert financial chaos, however. "That's why I'm making these talks," he said. He plans to give talks to high school and college students in addition to organizations.

When asked by a member of the audience how one man can exert any influence on congress, Dr. Durno advised writing to one's congressman and senator, and particularly to the heads of committees studying the legislation involved. "Legislators are sensitive to public opinion," he said, "particularly congressmen, because they have to get reelected every two years."

Durno Tells Ashland Chamber That U.S. Is Near Bankrupt

Ashland - "The United States is practically bankrupt, and we don't realize it," Dr. Edwin Durno, former congressman from the fourth district, told the Ashland Chamber of Commerce Tuesday.

Dr. Durno addressed the Ashland chamber at its weekly luncheon at the Mark Anthony on the "financial instability of the federal government."

"Money and power are inseparable," he commented, "and the present administration is power mad."

He described the present trend in federal spending as one which tries to balance the economy rather than the budget in the hope that if the economy is balanced then the budget will somehow wind up balanced also.

May Lead to Chaos
"I hope it works," the former congressman said, "but I'm afraid it's going to lead to financial chaos."

Dr. Durno indicated he thought it was not too late to avert financial chaos, however. "That's why I'm making these talks," he said. He plans to give talks to high school and college students in addition to organizations.
