

St. Laurent Collection Has Many Sack Dresses

By ALINE MOSBY
United Press International
Paris (UPI)—Casual and unfitted as a man's sport shirt was the Yves St. Laurent look presented today in the controversial designer's spring collection. His fashion headlines were — "C a r d i g a n sweater suits" with the loose, full-cuffed sleeve from his successful "fisherman's blouse" of last winter which may have influenced the "peasant blouse" suit jackets of other designers this spring.

The slightly masculine look was softened by a wide, stiff, white organdy scarf, loosely tied with one end jutting out. The model also wore a little white organdy derby hat.

Almost all of the suits had organdy scarves and nearly every dress had a matching scarf.

St. Laurent's sack dresses were fitted over the bust and then hung straight and narrow. Most of his dresses in men's tie silks had long sleeves—his full normal fisherman's sleeve. Some had drawing necklines.

Also unfitted and straight were his pinafores which had log-slung belts below the waistline.

UN Winner To Speak in Gold Hill

Gold Hill — Paul D. Goodwin, Medford, 1962 winner from this district of the United Nations contest sponsored by the IOOF and Rebekah lodges, will speak in Gold Hill tonight. The student will talk at 7:30 p.m. in the multi-purpose room at Patrick Elementary school, telling of his trip to the United Nations headquarters at New York City.

All Odd Fellows and Rebekahs and the public, especially high school students, are invited to hear the young man.

Following the talk the Gold Hill IOOF lodge will meet in the lodge hall.

Martin Johnson, noble grand of the order, announces that Walter Craig, special district deputy from the Medford IOOF lodge, will visit the Gold Hill lodge Tuesday, February 12. The first degree for candidates of the Central Point lodge will be given by the Gold Hill lodge, assisted by the visiting group.

The new noble grand is a former Gold Hill resident. The Johnsons and their daughter, Christine, reside in Central Point.

Mr. Johnson joined the Gold Hill lodge several years ago and has been an active member of the order the past two years. He is the son of Mrs. Cecil Johnson, Oakridge, Oregon, and the late Cecil Johnson. Both his parents were past noble grands of their respective orders in the Gold Hill lodges.

The new noble grand and his parents were active in all phases of Boy Scouting for many years.

Mr. Johnson praised fellow members of his lodge for the faithful way they have kept the meetings continuing the building, although the building is in bad shape and the attendance low.

He stated that he is confident the building project will be a success, but added that a great deal of money will need to be raised and a lot of work will be involved.

Butter is especially rich in vitamin A. Vitamin A is present in butter in both its natural form and as the yellow pigment, carotene. Carotene gives butter its natural yellow color. And carotene is converted into vitamin A in your body and stored for use as needed. Vitamin A is necessary for growth, healthy eyes and skin, and maintenance of healthy tissues for resistance to infection.

Founders' Day To Be Marked

Founders' day will be observed by Washington Parent-Teacher association at the unit's annual meeting Thursday, February 7, at the school at 2:30 p.m.

Past presidents will be honored.

William E. Ruck, coordinator in Medford for the Oregon Program, will be guest speaker. Mr. Ruck has traveled widely in the United States to study teaching methods in various institutions and will speak concerning new concepts in education. The program is financed by the Ford Foundation.

Music will be furnished by the Hungry Five, a group of musicians from Hedrick Junior High school. Refreshments will be served before the meeting. Child care for pre-school children will be provided.

Unit To Meet

Wills, Estates and widowhood will be discussed at a meeting of Westside Extension unit set for Thursday, February 7, at 10:30 a.m. at the home of Mrs. Gene Page, Central Point.

Supper is Given On Anniversary

Illinois Valley — Mr. and Mrs. Howard Winland held a chili supper at their home in honor of their son, George Winland, on his 18th birthday anniversary January 30.

Those present included his brother, Jimmy, and Mrs. William Box, Billy Box, Miss RoseAnn Box, Darrel and Jack Woods, Miss Mary Ann Sowell, Miss Mary Royner, Bill Piper and Jim McKinnon.

Young Piper celebrated his 18th birthday anniversary the same day and Jimmy Winland had celebrated his 18th birthday January 27.

Music and dancing concluded the evening.

EASY AND CHEESY

Use potato soup mix as the basis for creamy cheese sauce. Empty one (3 ounce) envelope of potato soup mix into a saucepan. Slowly stir in one cup of water. Add a dash of cayenne pepper. Cover and simmer seven minutes. Add two-thirds cup of grated cheese. Stir until cheese melts. Stir in one cup of milk and heat well but do not boil. Makes two and one-half cups.

Portland promised that the 1963 Symphony benefit would be the most stupendous such event ever held in Oregon, and the Melvin Latties think the city lived up to the promise. The Latties returned home in a dazed state after attending the week end gala.

The committee called the enormous party—or series of parties, "Manhattan West." It began Friday night with a College Premier for students, continued with a fashion extravaganza Saturday afternoon and ended Saturday night (or Sunday morning) with a super-colossal Symphony ball and theater entertainment. The Benson and Multnomah hotels and the streets between were the locale of the events; fourteen rooms and areas were made into "theaters" where the Portland Symphony orchestra played, where excerpts from Broadway hit musicals were presented and where the patrons danced. Guests moved from room to room as they chose.

The decor of the rooms matched the themes of the musicals—"My Fair Lady," "Brigadoon," "Teahouse of the August Moon" and others were used. Dolly Lattie reported that decor, music, dancing, bars—everything was on a lavish scale and that almost everyone was in full formal dress. Long evening gowns are definitely "in" again, she said, and these were of gorgeous brocades and flowing chiffons. Coiffures were "out of this world." Estimates of the crowd ran from 3,500 to 5,000 guests.

Singers and dancers were both local and celebrities imported from New York and Hollywood.

The Latties were guests of a Portland couple, Mr. and Mrs. Howard Pugh, and also in their group were another Portland pair, the Avery Footes (Mrs. Foote was on the ticket committee) and their son, Jim Lattie. During the evening the Latties ran across Lester and Vivian Adams, who had gone up from Salem where they are staying during the legislature's sessions, and the Joe Moores, who some time ago left Medford to live in Portland. Mrs. Robert Boyer had served as Medford chairman of tickets, but she and her husband were unable to make the trip north as they had earlier planned.

Many guests were from San Francisco, Seattle and other western cities.

Konnie Worth, television personality, who served as commentator for the fashion extravaganza, is known in Medford. She is Mrs. Forrest Pickett and her husband, who is with Standard Oil, is a son of Mr. and Mrs. L. F. Pickett of Medford. The Portland couple come here frequently to visit the Picketts.

A former dancing teacher in southern California, Miss Worth supervised the dancing in the movie, "The Great Waltz," which was a hit a number of years ago. Her name before her marriage to Mr. Pickett was Florence Nelson.

For her role as commentator, she wore a lavish costume of gold lame with cascades of cerise colored roses and a lyre-shaped headdress which was designed by John Frederick.

Monday Mrs. Lattie was speaking in a hoarse, unnatural voice. She said it was partly due to a cold and mostly due to having had to shriek above the babble raised by the thousands of party-goers Saturday night.

Portlanders seem to have but one worry now that the party is over—what in the world can the 1964 committee do to top the 1963 plans? O.S.

First Lady Conquers Audience

New York (UPI)—Mrs. John F. Kennedy Monday night came, saw and conquered both the audience and the cast of a hit Broadway comedy about the zany antics of a Roman slave.

The first lady, in town for a three-day visit, at one point became directly involved with the activities on the other side of the footlights.

Comedian Zero Mostel, in the role of the slave, told one actor to flee to the ocean. He announced that he himself would head for the hills. Then pointing directly at Mrs. Kennedy, Mostel ad libbed with a grin:

"And you to the White House."

The unexpected rib galvanized the audience into roars of delighted laughter and prolonged applause.

Mostel said afterward his White House reference was strictly a spur of the moment impulse.

"She's a marvelous audience — she applauds, she laughs, she's human," the actor enthused about the first lady.

Mrs. Kennedy's arrival at the Alvin Theater where the play, "A Funny Thing Happened on the Way to the Forum" is running, evoked the cheers and applause of other playgoers.

Outside only a handful of people waited in the freezing night air for a look at the President's wife who was clad in a glistening black dress and a dark, full-length fur coat.

She was accompanied by her sister, Princess Lee Radziwill of London, and her brother-in-law, Prince Stanislas Radziwill.

Mrs. Kennedy's daughter Caroline, 5, has been here since Friday visiting her aunt, Mrs. Stephen Smith, the President's sister.

Pamela Turnure, the first lady's press secretary, said Mrs. Kennedy is scheduled to return to Washington before the end of the week following three or four days in the city "browsing around the shops."

Miss Eula Wintermote Honored by Iranians

Miss Eula Wintermote, who was Jackson county extension agent from 1948 to 1958, recently was honored by the Ministry of Education of Iran at a celebration in Tehran as she concluded four years of service in that country.

This news was contained in a report from Tehran to Near East foundation, a philanthropic, nonsectarian organization which carries on rural demonstration and community improvement in less-developed countries. As a member of the foundation's technical staff Miss Wintermote served as Women's Activity advisor for the Iranian Ministry of Education.

In gratitude for her work with the Ministry in developing program and improving rural education, Miss Wintermote was presented with a letter of appreciation from the Ministry and a book of Persian miniatures.

Further honors were paid her at a special program given by girls at Ghaleh Nou Girls Training center. This is the first women's teacher training institution in Iran and Miss Wintermote has had close association with it.

Also taking part in the program was Abdul Azarpour, chief of the department of rural education who thanked her for her efforts and cooperation in working for the improvement of rural education in Iran and gave her a specially inscribed letter of commendation.

She plans to return to the United States and will attend a three weeks' course for extension personnel at the University of Georgia. From there she will go to Chambers, Nebraska, to visit her home, and then leave for Okanogan, Wash., where she will assume a position with the extension service.

Never use self-polishing wax on wood floors!

... says Henry M. Tobey, Research Director of the world's largest hardwood floor maker

"Self-polishing waxes are great for linoleum, tile, and vinyl floors—but not wood. That's because most of them are made primarily of synthetic plastics. They simply cannot be removed from your wood floors without damaging the finish or the wood.

The layers of old self-polishing wax pile up until your wood floor darkens and discolors!

For this reason, we recommend the use of Bruce Cleaning Wax or Bruce Floor Cleaner on your wood floors. Both contain a combination of removable liquid paste wax and waterless wood floor cleaner. They clean; remove the old wax; and leave a rich, new coat of gleaming paste wax protection—all at the same time.

If you want a heavy coat of wax, use Bruce Cleaning Wax. For lighter waxing and badly soiled floors, you'll prefer Bruce Floor Cleaner. It's the right way, the easy way to keep your wood floors clean and bright."
