Hedrick Junior High

Hedrick was honored recently when Mrs. Keith Hockersmith, head of the high school homemaking department, explained the school homemaking program by showing what the students as sophomores, juniors, and seniors have done. Mrs. Hockersmith also answered questions about what Hedrick girls could expect if they go on with homemaking next year.

The ninth grade students also modeled clothes they had made in class to show the eighth grade girls who attended what they will do next year.

Susan House, a former Hedrick student who is now a senior, spoke about planning for homemaking in the future. Linda Nelson, Judy Huemers, Christy Finch, Pam Trowbridge, and Connie Hunt modeled clothes they had made at senior high. Coats, suits, dresses, and jumpers were shown.

Mrs. Sneed and Mrs. Lord Hedrick's homemaking teachers, also spoke about the homemaking program at the freshman level.

The girls from Hedrick who modeled were Lee Ann Riggs, Barbara Collins, Christie Sleetter, Lana Carpenter, Sallie Eaton, Rena Brew, Susan Ingram, Jannene Tracy, Karen Jones, Gayle Johnston, Vicki Vorheis, Carolyn Gandt, and Cheryl Hall. They showed skirts, blouses, bermudas and capris to complete the program.

Bertrand was high point man with 22 points. Hedrick had been behind 14-11 at the end of the first quarter. They took the lead at about the middle of the second quarter and held it for the rest of the game.

Railroad Payroll Tax Hike Proposed

Washington — The administration Tuesday proposed boosting taxes on railroad payrolls to get railroad welfare plans out of financial difficulties.

The legislation, a political hot potato, would levy higher taxes on the railroad and on those railroad employees who earn more than $400 a month.

An industry spokesman said it would boost by $86 million a year the payments railroads must make into funds which finance employee retirement and unemployment benefits. Tax boosts for workers, who contribute only to the retirement fund, would range as high as $43.50 a year.

Those from Phoenix who took part were Laura Griffith and Richard Coulter, who formed a two-man debate team. Also participating were Sue Thrapp, Nelda Miller, Lee Johnson and Tod Dole.

An explanation of the proposed consolidation with Medford District 549C will be given by school officials at the monthly Parent-Teachers association Feb. 7. There will be an opportunity for parents to ask questions they might have.

The Medical Roundup

by Walter Alvarez

Emeritus Consultant in Medicine
Mayo Clinic
Register and Tribune Syndicate, 1963

I have recently seen several middle-aged women with a cystitis, or inflammation of their urinary bladder so mild I advised leaving it alone and a urologist agreed with me. In one of the women had been treated for weeks with large doses of several strong antibiotics, and still there were a few bacteria left in her urine.

It is interesting that in most of the cases the woman never did have troublesome symptoms, except perhaps on the first day or two of the illness. Then she may have had frequency of urination with some burning, and perhaps a little bleeding. In none of the cases did the slight infection of the bladder seem to be producing any general symptoms, such as that which she had with a slight cold.

The woman felt well and she had no fever. That the bladder were not doing her much, if any, harm was shown by the fact that there were no pus cells in her urine. In other words, the germs were not causing an inflammation of the wall of the bladder.

Every so often, when a study has been made of several hundred high school girls chosen at random, bacteria have been found in the urine of a small percentage of them. In a recent article, Drs. C. M. Kunin and A. J. Paquin, Jr. and Elizabeth Zacha, R.N., reported a study of urinary tract infections found on examining 9,878 school children. They found 54 of the girls and 2 of the boys with such an infection — in all but two of the cases without symptoms. A few of the children had disease in their kidneys, and 7 were diabetic.

Widows File Suit In Boat Accident

Portland — Trial opened before Federal Judge John F. Kilkenny Tuesday of a suit by two Aberdeen, Wash., widows and the owner of a purse sein boat seeking $593,000 damages from the federal government.

The three asked damages for loss of the women's husbands and the fishing boat off the Westport Bar Jan. 28, 1960.

Mrs. Robert Bolan and Mrs. Ted Sigurdson asked $254,000 each for loss of their husbands. Roy C. Furfur, Westport, asked $85,000 for the fishing vessel Barbara Lee which sank after taking the Coast Guard's 52-foot motor lifeboat, Inevincible, in tow.

The United States filed a petition claiming the vessel was lost as a result of peril at sea.

Testimony Tuesday said the Inevincible set out to answer a distress call from the Barbara Lee because of turbulence at the bar. But the Inevincible capsized and was subsequently taken in tow by the boat it went to rescue.

Another wave struck the Barbara Lee and it overturned and sank and the two crewmen were killed.
