'Fat' Year Said Not Expected in Hotel Industry

New York—(UPI)—The tightening of expense account rules by the Internal Revenue service helps shape the attitude of some of today's leading hotelmen toward their business prospects for the coming year.

Few industry leaders, indeed, look for a "fat" year either for establishing hotels or for chain or independent motels. They are not excessively gloomy; they merely warn against over-optimism in view of the factors facing the industry.

Foreign Briefs

BUENOS AIRES NEWSPAPER EDITION SEIZED
Buenos Aires—(UPI)—Police confiscated Thursday's edition of the newspaper March 18, charging that it was "disseminating propaganda favorable to Ex-Dictator Juan D. Peron."

The action was the first announced application of a new decree cracking down on "subversives, extremists and zealous Peronists."

March 18 is edited by Mario Vallotta, former publisher of the newspaper Diario.

Labor, Management Pressed To Look for Agreement Areas in Workmen's Compensation

Salem—(UPI)—A state senator sharply pressed labor and management here Thursday to look for their areas of agreement in the field of workmen's compensation.

But the two sides indicated they have a long way to come together before agreeing on how to rewrite Oregon's 50-year-old law. At issue is insurance for Oregon workmen injured on the job that amounts to some $30 million.

William Moshofsky of Associated Oregon Industries and James Marr of the Oregon AFL-CIO opened testimony on workmen's compensation before the Senate Labor and Industries Committee.

The committee chairman is Sen. Walter Pearson, (D-Portland) whose "three-way" bill to let private insurance into the field failed in 1961 after a bitter struggle.

Sen. Ted Hatfield (D-Portland), a committee member, turned to Marr at the close of remarks by both men and questioned him on areas of agreement. He found these:

- Injury coverage should be extended to all workers eliminating negligence suits as a by-product.
- The State Industrial Accident Commission — which sets rates, pays claims, reviews them, issues safety regulations and policies them — should be relieved of some of its tasks.
- There agreements at the first hearing ended.
- Moshofsky said the basic defect of the present system is that it is a state monopoly. "The stimulation of a competitive system is needed," he said.
- Marr declined even to comment on what labor fears most. The takeover of workmen's compensation by private insurance. He did say that benefits should be improved.
- "Business With Heart" Moshofsky described the accident commission as "a business" and said it should be run like one. Marr called it "a business with a heart."
- The two sides agree that changes in the SIAC are needed, but they differ on the changes.

Obligations Under Landrum-Griffin Act Declared Met

Washington—(UPI)—The Teamsters Union said today it has reached an 11th hour agreement for bonding which will allow union President James R. Hoffa and other international officers to continue writing checks.

The giant union had been under a noon deadline to obtain bonding for Hoffa and other officers to comply with provision of the Landrum-Griffin Labor Law.

Hoffa recently complained to the House Labor committee that the Justice and Labor departments were trying to block the teamsters from obtaining the bonds in an effort to force them out of business. He said teamsters officials would be unable to write checks unless the bonding was obtained before the deadline.

Both the Labor and Justice departments emphatically denied that they had exerted any pressure to withhold bonds from the Teamsters.

Government Satisfied
A Labor department spokesman indicated today that the government was satisfied that the teamsters had met their obligations under the Landrum-Griffin Act.

"The teamsters say they have bonding and the bonding company says it will furnish the bonds needed," a spokesman said. "We have no reason to doubt them."

A Justice department spokesman said it was the Labor department's responsibility to enforce the Landrum-Griffin Law and "we would not be involved unless we got a complaint from Labor that the law was being violated."

The teamsters said the bonding was obtained from the United Bonding Insurance Co. of Indianapolis, Ind.

'Bossism Deal' in California Politics Noted

Sacramento—(UPI)—A Republican legislative leader charged today that Democrats were trying to push a "bossism" package through the 1963 legislature.

Assemblyman Don Mulford (R-Oakland) repeated the GOP's recent claim that the ultimate objective was to bring "Tammany Hall" type politics into California.

Mulford, the assembly Republican caucus chairman, cited four legislative proposals by Democrats:

- A proposal by Assemblyman Phillip Burton (D-San Francisco) to make supervisory elections partisan.
- Bills introduced by Assemblymen John Knox (D-Richmond) and Nicholas Petris (D-Oakland) and a Senate joint resolution offered by Sen. Albert Rodda (D-Sacramento) to remove restrictions on political activities by civil servants.
- Petris' "do-it-yourself" voter registration bill.
- A proposed constitutional amendment by Assemblyman Alfred Song (D-Monterey Park) to abolish the literacy requirement for voting entirely.

Mulford said the four proposals were "inspired by purely partisan motives to legislate the Republican party out of business."
