

It's Valentine Time Again

Young and old alike enjoy the valentine season, and Medford shops are filled with gay cards and messages or appropriate gifts. Shelley Edwards, 8, daughter of the LeRoy Edwards, 2757 Ruth drive, especially enjoyed a visit to Avan's shop last week for she was just out of the hospital and not yet back at her classes in Phoenix school.

Candy is a favorite St. Valentine's day gift, and many Medford stores stock the heart-shaped boxes filled with sweets. Here Mrs. Jo Y'Blood, Western Thrift clerk, arranges the display.

Who can have more fun than the teenagers? High school (left to right), Jennie Taylor, Janice Taylor, and Janice Taylor, at Medford Stationery store while downtown shopping.

Throughout the years, paper lace has remained one of the favored materials for a valentine to be sent to a loved one or a special friend. Mrs. William Hoxie, clerk at Central Rexall store, here displays a sample of one of the shop's laciest and most elaborate valentines.

Mrs. E. V. Goff, worthy matron of Nevada chapter, Order of Eastern Star, Central Point, was one of the customers at Swem's store last week. She bought valentines to be given to her chapter officers.
