Chiang Kai-shek Expects Indonesia To Cause Unrest

Editor's note: Following is latest of a series of recent interviews with world leaders by Mims Thomason, president of United Press International.

By MIMS THOMASON

Taipei, Formosa–(UPI)–Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek, 75, president of Nationalist China, feels Indonesia is doomed to become an all-out Communist state and will "cause more unrest and chaos in the Pacific area."

In an exclusive two and one-half hour interview with United Press International at his beach house on the southern coast of Formosa, the soldier-statesman said his armed forces are ready to "return" to the Chinese mainland and he believes his expeditionary force will be launched "sometime this year."

The president told UPI that he strongly favors Malaysia, the proposed confederation of Malaya with Singapore and three British states on the north coast of Borneo Island-Sarawak, Brunei, and North Borneo–as a safeguard against the spread of communism.

Better Act Fast

Chiang warned the United States and other Western countries they had better act fast to save Asia from the grasp of communism.

Referring to Indonesia, he said the power and influence of the Communists is not necessarily confined to the high levels of government but has reached the common masses of the people. He blames this on food shortages and declines in tin and rubber exports.

The president made a point of emphasizing that he has no intention of picking an arbitrary time and place for what he invariably refers to as a "return to the mainland" but will send his armed forces only after there has been an internal revolt in Red China.

"There is no solidarity of forces in Communist China," he said. "Even now there is a serious split and disorder in the armed forces. We will move when the time is right. I will lead the striking forces which will go to the assistance of our enslaved countrymen on the mainland."

The generalissimo talked easily and answered questions asked of him without the slightest hesitation. He appears to have recovered completely from an illness of nearly a year ago. Maj. Gen. S. K. Ku of the Chinese air force, a former University of Michigan student, served as interpreter.

The interview started promptly at noon and continued for an hour, then through a lunch which featured squab and shark's fin soup among other Chinese specialties.

After lunch the interview was resumed in the sunny living room of the one-room residence overlooking a sandy beach.

Washington –(UPI)– The British Embassy said Tuesday there was "no truth whatever" to reports that arms were being shipped to British Guiana from Cuba. An embassy spokesman said Cuba buys rice from British Guiana and Cuban ships go there to get it. But, he added, "no Cuban ships or ships sailing from Cuban ports have called recently and none are at present expected."
