

Eugene - The Honors College of the University of Oregon is cited as an example of honors efforts in an article in the education section of Time Magazine for Feb. 15.

The article states that Honors Colleges such as those operated by the University of Oregon and Michigan State University are "in effect, Ivy League campuses within state universities."

Peace Corps Director Says Group Practical
 Richmond, Va. - (UPI) - Peace Corps Director Sargent Shriver said Wednesday night his organization is practical as well as patriotic.
 "It's about the least expensive way of assisting foreign countries we have in government today," he told a Junior Chamber of Commerce dinner.
 Shriver said he would ask Congress to increase the authorized strength of the Peace Corps to 15,000 because of enlistment demands.

CAPSULE IN MUSEUM - Col. John Glenn, shown as he spoke at ceremonies in the Arts and Industries building of the Smithsonian Institution in Washington, D.C., at which his space capsule, the Friendship 7, and his space suit were turned over to the museum. The ceremony took place one year after Glenn's flight. (UPI)

Hardened Arteries Theory Jolted by Scientific Finding

By DELOS SMITH
 UPI Science Editor

New York - (UPI) - The scientific theory that high blood levels of cholesterol "harden" arteries and thus lead to heart attacks and "strokes" has been jolted by some hard-to-get facts. These facts consisted of blood cholesterol readings of 42 men during the last years of their lives and measurements of the "hardening" of their heart and cerebral arteries after they died.

Three scientists found no connection between blood levels of cholesterol and other fats and the degrees to which heart arteries were "hardened."
 This finding was so conclusive they were impelled to remark that "the lipid (fat) theory of atherosclerosis remains unproved as far as the coronary arteries are concerned."

In brain arteries they found "significant relationships" between advanced "hardening" and high cholesterol levels in only four out of 15 brains. In two others their results were "negative," that is, low cholesterol levels went with advanced "hardening" or the opposite.

"These findings are so equivocal a final opinion cannot be expressed," they reported to "Circulation," which is the technical organ of the American Heart Association.

The scientists are Drs. J. C. Paterson, Rosemary Armstrong and E. C. Armstrong of the Canadian Veterans Psychopathic Hospital and the University of Western Ontario in London.

Study 10 Years Old
 They were making their newest report on a study which has been going on for 10 years. It involves 800 male patients with advanced mental disease who are (or were) healthy of body. The scientific scheme is simple, direct and factual.

In life blood cholesterol levels are measured periodically. When a man dies, his heart and cerebral arteries are analyzed for degrees of "hardening." Since the men are (or were) hospital custodial cases, their diet is precisely known.

All previous reports failed to find any connection between blood cholesterol and coronary arterial "hardening." These had been scientifically criticized on several grounds. One was that the men reported had been "very old" at the time of death - many deep in their 80s. Another ground for criticism was that some had died of wasting disease, such as cancer, and these could have influenced both blood fats levels and artery-hardening.

In their new report the scientists took only men who had died between the ages of 60 and 69 years. "We do not concede that a man in his 60s is very old," they remarked.
 From the men in this age bracket they excluded those who died of any wasting disease. They took only those whose body weight at the time of death had been at or close to the "ideal" established in insurance actuarial statistics.

"It is well known, of course, that there is much more to the athero-sclerotic process than the accumulation of lipid in arteries," they said. "Abnormal deposits of fibrous tissue, blood and blood products, and complex carbohydrates also occur, and it is quite conceivable that one of these might be enhanced by hyperlipemia (high blood fats level)."

Rainier Offered Gambling Casino

London - (UPI) - Greek shipping magnate Aristotle Onassis has offered his controlling interest in the gambling casino at Monte Carlo to Prince Rainier of Monaco, the Daily Express said today.

The newspaper said Onassis offered Rainier his 540,000 shares of casino stock for $25 each, a total of $13.5 million. There was no official confirmation.

The Express said the Greek millionaire made the offer to bolster the Prince's position in the face of pressure from France, which is determined to impose French taxes on the tiny Riviera principality.

Authority on Mental Health to Address Session

Dr. Jack R. Ewalt, nationally recognized authority on mental health, will be in Salem April 18 to address a joint meeting of the House and Senate of the Oregon legislature at dinner, Dewey Wilson, Medford, president of the Jackson County Mental Health association, has announced.

Dr. Ewalt is the chief architect of the Joint Commission report on Mental Health and Mental Illness to the U.S. Congress.

"We feel fortunate to be able to bring Dr. Ewalt to the leaders of Oregon to hear directly his recommendations implementing the major proposals of the report," Wilson said. "To Dr. Joseph D. Matarazzo, Portland, president of the Mental Health Association of Oregon, goes the credit for bringing him here."

Review Progress
 Dr. Ewalt will review the progress in his own state, Massachusetts, in getting local communities to take increasing responsibility for the mentally ill, their families and neighbors, Wilson said. "He will spell out how citizens can direct those in need of treatment to the clinic and how these services can be made available to all in Oregon who need them."

Jackson county is one of the leaders in Oregon in bringing help to the emotionally disturbed and mentally ill at the community level, according to Wilson. The Jackson County Family and Child Guidance Clinic in the Jackson county courthouse is directed by Donna Gilke, psychiatric social worker. There are two full time psychiatric social workers, Ethel Shumway and Richard Runyon.

The part-time services of Dr. Stewart Atkinson, psychologist, Dr. Harry Danielson, psychiatrist, and Thomas Goff, psychiatric social worker, also, are available to the clinic.

HOLDUP SWITCH
 Hollywood - (UPI) - James E. Underwood, 47, told police Wednesday he was robbed by a man who pointed a dog at him. He said "a big, white dog" bared its teeth and stood poised to jump while the man took $89 from his wallet.
