

Passports, Visas Easily Obtained

By MURRAY J. BROWN
United Press International
"American" and "traveler" have become virtually synonymous throughout the world, particularly since the advent of the jet air age.

Last year alone, about two million U.S. citizens—more than the combined populations of Vermont, Delaware, Wyoming, Nevada and Alaska—traveled overseas, mainly for pleasure.

For many tourists, it was their first trip abroad and their initial experience with such formalities as passports, visas, tourist and travel cards and customs. But travel overseas is big business—Americans spent an estimated $2.8 billion in 1962—and everyone from travel agents to governments has been making it as easy as possible for the tourist.

Red Tape Cut
Red tape has been cut to a minimum both here and abroad. Entry and exit procedures have been streamlined and restrictions eased. A number of countries no longer require passports or visas of U.S. tourists. But the State department recommends that all American citizens who travel abroad should carry a passport as the best documentary proof of identity and nationality.

A passport is an official U.S. government document which requests the host country to provide safe passage, legal aid and protection in case it is needed to the bearer as a citizen of the United States.

The first passport, according to U.S. archives, was issued overseas on Oct. 27, 1795. The first recorded passport issued in the United States itself was dated July 8, 1796, and was in the form of a letter signed by Timothy Pickens, secretary of state under George Washington.

A personal letter from the secretary of state is no longer necessary and obtaining a passport is a cinch for most native-born citizens. All that is usually necessary is $10 (passport fee is $9, execution fee generally another $1), two black-and-white or color photographs, and a birth certificate or other certified documentary proof of place and date of birth. The applicant must also establish his identity through such documents as driver's license, etc.

By law, passports may be issued to citizens or persons owing allegiance to the United States only. Specifically excluded, also by law, are members of the communist party of the United States.

Agencies
Applications may be made before a clerk of a federal or state court authorized to accept the same, or before an agent of the U.S. passport office. There are passport agencies in Boston, Chicago, Los Angeles, Miami, New Orleans, New York, San Francisco, Seattle, Washington, D.C., and Honolulu.

Most of the countries in the Americas and the Caribbean do not require either a passport or visa from the U.S. tourist. In most cases, all that is necessary is a tourist or travel card. Fees for the card vary.

A visa usually is a stamped notation in the passport indicating that the bearer is to be permitted to enter the country, for a specific purpose and length of time. Generally, visas must be obtained from consular officials of the countries to be visited before departure from the United States.

Visas are waived for U.S. tourists by most of the countries of West Europe. Most of the other countries which do require them issue visas free of charge.

The Soviet Union, for example, grants visas without charge to U.S. citizens who can make the necessary arrangements for travel there. On the other hand, it will cost a tourist to the new African state of Gabon $10 for a visa valid for three months.

U.S. passports currently are not valid for travel to Cuba, Communist China or Albania.

4-H Club News

Bobbing Bobbins
The Central Point Bobbing Bobbins 4-H club held their regular meeting at the home of the leader, Mrs. Franek, recently.

Judy Franek called the meeting to order and members answered roll call by giving the names of songs. Kathy Frederick gave a demonstration on laying out a pattern and answered questions, asked by the group. Carolee Kuest led a demonstration on bubbling a collar.

Plans for the pre-fair were discussed and each girl took home material with which to make a garment for needy children. Refreshments were served by Nancy Frick and Kathy Frederick.

Saucy Sewers
The Saucy Sewers 4-H club held two meetings in February, one at the home of Karen Chipman and the other at the home of Delores DeVares.

Officers for 1963 were elected at the first meeting. They are Carol Kagy, president; Janet Warren, vice president; Dana Holmstrom, secretary.

A demonstration on the sewing box was given by Karen Chipman and Dana Holmstrom. Kathy Miller and Carol Kagy showed the members how to sew on buttons.

At the second meeting the members practiced the use of the sewing machine and sewing on buttons. They decided to go on a shopping trip soon to learn more about cotton materials.

The sixth meeting of the Smart Cookies 4-H club was held at the home of Mrs. W. R. Florey on Feb. 18. The president, Karyn Ricks, called the roll. There were five members present and one visitor, Mrs. O. R. Barnard.

Helen Norris and Alice Minger led the flag salute. The plans for 4-H club week were discussed and it was decided to decorate a window.

Teresa Barnard read a letter received from the Knitted Kittens club inviting the Smart Cookies to a potluck dinner April 20.

Obituaries

FLOYD O. CLAPPER
Funeral services for Floyd O. Clapper, 74, of 1586 Ashland Mine rd., Ashland, who died Wednesday will be held in the Ashland First Methodist church at 2:30 p.m. Friday. The Rev. P. Malcolm Hammond will officiate. Committal will be in Mountain View cemetery with Ashland Mortuary in charge of arrangements.

Mr. Clapper was born March 31, 1888, in Ames, Iowa. On Aug. 15, 1921, in Hollywood, Calif., he was married to Laveria Leman McCawley, who survives.

He moved to Long Beach, Calif., then to Los Angeles where lived until retirement. He was employed by the General Petroleum Corporation.

In July, 1949, he moved to Ashland. Mr. Clapper was an active member of the First Methodist church. He was a trustee of the church, and also served as treasurer for eight years, a member of the choir, and Methodist Men's Brotherhood. Much of the remodeling work of the church was done by Mr. Clapper. The recreation room of the church was named the "Clapper Room."

Besides his wife, he is survived by a step-son, Dr. Elton E. McCawley, Oregon Medical school, Portland; a sister, Mrs. Vera M. Donnelly, Electra, Tex.; two nieces and a nephew.

Those who wish may make a contribution to the First Methodist Church Memorial Fund.

The body will lie in state at the Ashland Mortuary, Fourth & C sts., Ashland, from 10 a.m. to noon Friday.

ARTHUR B. SCARSETH
Funeral services for Arthur B. Scarseth, 68, of 115 North Ivy st., who died in a local hospital Wednesday, will be held at 11 a.m. Friday in the Zion Evangelical Lutheran church, Fourth st. and Oakdale ave.

The Rev. Harvey C. Covert, will officiate. A memorial service for Mr. Scarseth was held in the VA Domiciliary Chapel Thursday afternoon with the Rev. Harvey C. Covert officiating.

The body will be forwarded to his home in Galesville, Wis., for services and interment there Tuesday afternoon. Conger-Morris Funeral directors are in charge of arrangements.

Two Court Cases Are Continued
Two Jackson county district court cases have been continued until early next week, one for sentencing, the other for the appointment of counsel.

Donald Bruce Dugger, 505 Alice st., Medford, was found guilty of disorderly conduct by a district court jury before Judge L. L. Sawyer, and sentencing was scheduled for Monday, Feb. 25, at 9 a.m.

The charge concerned an incident near a motel in Talent Jan. 6.

In other action, Clarence Albert Tingle, 2225 Fowler rd., Central Point, was arraigned on a charge of non-support. He requested a lawyer and his case was continued until Tuesday, Feb. 26, at 9 a.m. He was released after posting $500 bail.

Funeral Services Set Friday for E. Ronald Rice

Funeral services for E. Ronald Rice, 56, of 215 S. Main st., Pacific Northwest Kiwanis District governor, who died Tuesday, will be held at 2 p.m. Friday at Memory Gardens Memorial park chapel on Arnold lane.

The Rev. L. D. Penhollow of Redmond will officiate, assisted by the Rev. Clifford Young, pastor of the Eastwood Baptist church. Entombment will be in Memory Gardens Mausoleum. Perfuneral home is in charge of arrangements.

Mr. Rice was born Nov. 20, 1906, in Kansas City, Mo. He and his parents moved to Spokane, Wash., early in his childhood where he attended school. He graduated from Washington State university in 1929 with bachelor of arts degrees in education and in music.

He moved to Medford in 1945, where he operated his own music store for several years. In 1956, he became instructor of music at Howard school. Since 1959, he had been varsity band director at McLoughlin Junior High school.

Member of Church
In addition to the Kiwanis club, he was a member of Eastwood Baptist church, Salvation Army board of directors, Medford Masonic lodge, Hillah Temple Shrine, Southern Oregon Philharmonic, Board of directors, Oregon Education association and Music Educators association.

On Aug. 17, 1929, in Spokane, Wash., he was married to Lucille Bamber, who survives. Other survivors include two daughters, Mrs. Charles (Jeanne) Martin, Eagle Point, Mrs. David (Shirley) Shearer, Klamath Falls, five grandchildren, and his parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. Olin Rice, Medford.

Past Governors of the Pacific Northwest District of Kiwanis will act as honorary pall bearers and will include Judge Langenbach, Fred Rounds, G. O. Roisted, Charles Walker, Ben Hazen, Harold Blything, Jack Murtion, Floyd Weldon, C. E. Thompson, Freeman Sersanoon, Mel Dennis, Harold Jones and Past International President, Don Engdahl. Other honorary pall bearers will be Dr. Leonard B. Mayfield, Elliott Becken, Ray Retter, Dwight Houghton, John Pletsch, Murray Gardner and M. E. Olson.

Active pall bearers will be Paul Selby, Dr. Paul Walker, Irv Mirick, Jack Fitzgerald, C. E. Corry and Jennings Pierce.

Friends who wish may make contributions to Medford Kiwanis Foundation, post office box 1494, Medford, or to Shriners Hospital for Crippled Children, Portland.

Central Bureau of Information On Sex Offenders Proposed at Hearing To Keep Children Safe

Salem—UPI—The rape-slayer of 6-year-old Mona Ray Minyard might have been caught by now if Oregon kept comprehensive central records of sex offenders, a detective testified here Wednesday night.

Detective William T. Fisher of Portland was backed up by an audience of nearly 300, mostly parents, who appeared before the House Committee on State and Federal Affairs. They said they were willing to pay through an increase in taxes for steps to keep their children safe from sex attacks on the streets.

Felonies Reported
The testimony came on a bill to require all law enforcement agencies to make reports to a central state police bureau, within two days, of all arrests, major or minor, where the charges involve "sexual misconduct." Charges involving narcotics also would be reported.

At present, only felony convictions must be reported within 30 days. Fisher said in this fast age, time is of the essence in tracking down sex offenders in an area where a crime occurs, since suspects can travel hundreds of miles within hours.

He said a comprehensive file, with photos and fingerprints, of sex offenders in the Multnomah and Clackamas county area when the Minyard child was slain might have led to apprehension of her assailant. The girl was slain late last year.

Fisher said some inquiries to small towns still are unanswered. "It is quite possible our suspect could be in one of those small towns," he said.

Fisher said a central bureau also would eliminate situations such as one where Portland police were watching a Springfield man on a misdemeanor charge, completely unaware that he was wanted in Coos Bay on a felony warrant.

Files Sought
An attorney who helped prepare the bill said it would lead to the development of files on such offenders as the contributor to the delinquency of a minor and the "peeping tom."

The bill up for hearing is one of six aimed at sex offenders—all introduced in the wake of the Minyard crime with the solid backing of more than half the legislature.

Others would provide for commitment procedures for sexually dangerous persons, and would revise court proceedings and penalties on sex crimes.

Expansion of the central reporting service would cost $50,000. Witnesses expressed willingness to pay more taxes for such a service.

"The children are more important than the money," said Mrs. Gary L. Pea of the Peninsula School PTA at Portland.

Committee Chairman Norman Howard (D-Portland) balked at a suggestion to delay start of the new service until next year. Although he repeatedly warned against applause, he drew applause himself when he said starting the service at once "might prevent even one sex crime."

Bolz Elected—Ernie Bolz, son of Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Bolz, 4005 Colver rd., Medford, was elected commissioner of finance at LaVerne college, LaVerne, Calif., when officers were chosen for the 1963-64 school year. Bolz is a freshman at the college. His sister, Ida Marie, also is a student at LaVerne college.
