Russian Tops Mark

New York — 070 — Russia's Igor Ter-Ovanesyan eclipsed the accepted world indoor record for the broad jump with a leap of 26 feet, 6 1/2 inches Saturday to defeat America's Ralph Boston in the national AAU indoor track championships at Madison Square Garden.

The Soviet star's jump topped the listed mark of 26-6 1/4 held by Boston, although it did not better his own mark of 26-10 set on Feb. 1 which is awaiting official recognition as the world indoor record.

Olympic champion Boston, who has been bothered by a sore leg in recent days, could do no better than 25-9 1/4 in suffering only the third loss of his career in face-to-face meetings with Ter-Ovanesyan.

Crothers Wins
Bill Crothers of Toronto, Ont., the most brilliant 1,000 yard runner of the current season, won that event in the fine time of 2:09.8 as Russia's Valery Bulishev finished third.

Crothers, moving up from the 600-yard run he won last year, took the lead with one lap to go in the 1,000 and won by seven yards. Ralph Lingle of Columbia, Mo., took second by three yards over the stocky, blond Bulishev.

Hayes Jones of Detroit, America's premier hurdler, scored his 42nd straight indoor victory by taking the 60-yard high hurdles in 7.3 seconds. Jones led all the ways in the final to beat Roy Hicks of the Army by two yards.

Sam Perry, a Fordham freshman who has joined the top indoor sprinters this season, won the 60-yard dash in an eye-lash decision over Jocelyn Delacour of France. Don Van Reenan of Maryland was a close third. Perry, scoring his second major win this season, was timed in 6.3 seconds.

Soderlund and Strub.

A story is told about a meeting between William Durant, the promoter and empire builder who founded General Motors, and Henry Ford, who needs no explanation. Had the outcome of the meeting been different, chances are that the famed Model T, Model A and subsequent Ford products would have been General Motors' models rather than being GM's fiercest competition. It seems that Ford met Durant in New York in 1909, and miserable with lumbago, offered to sell out for eight million dollars during a weak moment. Durant tried to borrow money to swing the deal, but the bank decided that Ford Motor Company wasn't worth the risk. Today a bank couldn't even find out how much money it lost on that deal. Ford won't tell how much it's worth... After researching THAT information, we're at loss for anything else to say — So, drive in to 700 E.
