People Available To Talk on Oregon Trail Museum

Speakers to talk about the newly formed Oregon Trail museum, Independence, Ore., are available for interested groups in the Portland, Salem, Eugene and Medford areas. This was announced last week during the meeting of members of the On-to-Oregon Cavalcade Inc., Polk County Historical society and the City of Independence at Newport. At the meeting preparations for a spring lecture tour throughout the midwest and west to encourage participation in the museum, were made. The talks about the museum will be illustrated by films and visual aids produced for the trek by New York Life Insurance company. Maps, books, manuscripts, relics and donor support for the new museum, currently housed in the Independence city hall, will be solicited by the museum staff during the lecture tour.

Stanford, Washington, Portland State Enter PCI Wrestling Tourney

Ashlund—Final preparation for the Pacific Coast Intercollegiate wrestling tournament is in full swing, it was announced by tourney director Bob Bennett. The PCI will be held in Ashlund at the Southern Oregon college gym March 1-2. Bennett also announced that entries have been coming in slowly, but among those received were from Stanford university, the University of Washington and last year's second place winner Portland State college. Portland tallied 56 points, with Oregon State university topping with 69. In gaining its unprecedented second place PSC took one first and one second. Also the Vikings had three thirds. None of the top men for Portland are returning this year, but Les Brown, the third place winner in the 147 pound class, has returned for this year's tourney. Brown met Spencer Tamoto of Cal Poly in the quarterfinals and won to go on to the consolation matches. Tamoto will be returning this season and is looking for a win over Brown. Also returning for SOC's tournament from Portland is the outstanding 130 pounder Len Pettyjohn. Ed Davies of Fresno State has been disqualified by officials. Davies downed Pettyjohn in finals to go ahead and become champion. Pettyjohn will be going for the champion's spot, but will meet very strong competition even with the loss of the champion. Director Bennett also announced that more than 100 individuals have entered. Because of the lack of experience, however, Lewis and Clark will not be entered in this year's meet, he added.

Air Express Growth Topic of Luncheon

"Packages by Pegasus," a sound-color film produced by 40 of the nation's airlines in cooperation with Air Express, was shown at the Monday noon meeting of the Medford Chamber of Commerce Roundtable. Harold E. Allen, Pacific region manager of Air Express presented the film. He was accompanied by Robert K. Zerhune, an REA Express official from Portland. Allen's headquarters are in San Francisco. Allen told the Roundtable that Air Express has grown since its formation in 1927 until today it handles more shipments than all other carriers combined. Last year, some 7 million shipments were handled by Air Express at 650 airports in the United States. The film established the point that "profits depend on getting products to the consumer safely and on time," and that in this interest, Air Express had developed moving and handling techniques "as advanced as the jet itself." Air Express makes deliveries everywhere in the United States and also has connections in Canada, Hawaii and Puerto Rico, handling every imaginable commodity from fur coats to missile components.
