Development of Region Outlined

Ashland — A step-by-step outline of the Bear Creek Urban Region Planning project was presented to members of the Ashland Chamber of Commerce Tuesday by George Brenner, planning director for Jackson county.

Brenner, speaking at the weekly chamber luncheon, put up a map of the area involved in the planning project, extending from Emigrant lake on the south to the Rogue river on the north—an area with a population of some 64,000.

As a result of the study, he said, it is hoped that sample zoning ordinances to bring about orderly development of the valley can be devised.

The planning program consists of seven steps, he said. They are mapping, determining existing land use, studying existing subdivision and zoning ordinance patterns, making an economic base study, making population estimates and projections, determining industrial land needs and coming up with a preliminary land use plan.

About a year from now, he added, a highway study will be made by the State Highway department to determine current traffic patterns and aid in planning for future roads and highways.

Labor, Management Collide Over Bill

Salem — (UPI) — Labor and management bumped heads here Tuesday on whether an "anti-strikebreaker" law for Oregon would be advisable or even legal.

George Brown of the Oregon AFL-CIO and other labor witnesses said it would keep undesirable elements out and improve labor management relations. Brown said it was legal and successful in eight states that have it.

William Lubersky of Associated Oregon Industries and other management witnesses replied it would weigh the bargaining scales in favor of labor and harm currently good labor-management relations in Oregon. Lubersky said the proposed Oregon law was clearly unconstitutional.

Log Export Bill Approved by Group

Salem — (UPI) — A bill to permit export of white cedar logs and Clatsop county hemlock logs from Oregon was approved Tuesday by the House Natural Resources committee.

Sponsors Carl Back (D-Port Orford) and William Holmstrom (D-Gresham) said these logs have lacked a market for processing since a 1961 law was passed prohibiting export of raw logs cut from state or county lands.

The British Columbia permit system of exporting logs was described to the committee by lumberman Larry S. Eckardt of Vancouver, B.C. Under the system, logs must be offered to at least three local processors at local prices, and refused, before an export permit will be granted.

Development of Ed-TV Requested

Salem — (UPI) — The Board of Education Tuesday night made its plea for $214,855 to develop educational television programs.

Dr. Leon Minear, superintendent of public instruction, appeared before an evening meeting of a Ways and Means subcommittee.

"We're just getting started on educational television, we feel we're doing a good job," Minear explained.

The money asked by the Board of Education is in addition to funds being requested by the Board of Higher Education which operates the state's educational television and radio stations.

Minear said the board of education and board of higher education could work cooperatively together on utilization of educational television.

Smoke Bomb Found To Be Harmless

Heppner — (UPI) — An aerial bomb found by four young Heppner girls was identified by the Army Tuesday as a discharged smoke bomb.

The Army promptly turned it over to Heppner elementary schools. Children there are being warned to stay away from anything similar to it.

Experts at the Unmilitary Army Ordnance Depot said they could not tell to which branch of the service the bomb belonged or how it got to Heppner. Heppner is about 15 miles from the Navy's Boardman bombing range.
