Thorpes To Teach Indian Traditions

Close by the Rogue river, between Grants Pass and the city of Rogue River, is rising a council house to be used by the Moon Mountain Indian dancers.

CHANTER — Bob Drake, Grants Pass Boy Scout counselor, will act as a chanter with the dancers.

Response To Drive Said Overwhelming

Gold Hill — Mrs. Charles Stripling, general chairman of the IOOF and Rebekah building fund committee, said the response of people in the community to this project has been overwhelming.

As the month of February draws to an end more than $500 has been deposited in the fund, she said.

Many individual cash donations have been received, she noted, several from persons who are not members of either fraternal group, she said, which definitely shows "true community spirit."

There will be no grass growing under the feet of the Amethyst Rebekah lodge members as efforts will continue to raise funds through various benefits to finance the improvement of the Odd Fellows hall here, which is one of the oldest buildings in the city of Gold Hill.

Kick-off for the month of March benefits will commence with a unique "Old Fashioned Box Supper" on Saturday, March 2 at 7 p.m. at Gold Hill Grange hall.

There will be no admission charge, Mrs. Stripling said. Prices of boxes will not exceed $2.50, she stressed. There will be a program and "Cake Walks" during the evening, she said. A social hour in the dining room will conclude the event.

A benefit dance is slated for Saturday, March 9 from 9 until 1 p.m. at Gold Hill Grange hall. Music will be provided by the "Melodious Four."

Other events are planned during March.

Rural Reflections

By Maude Ziegler
Applegate Valley Correspondent

Applegate Valley—Recently we got into a verbal hassle with Pat Maddox, over Sterling way, over the matter of news coverage of the achievements of young people.

Pat (and there are many others who feel this way) believes that only the bad things young people do get reported and that the worthwhile achievements of young people don't get in the newspapers.

A group of local radio fans has been discussing juvenile delinquency and have been reminding each other that really many fine teenagers live in the Rogue valley and there ought to be some way of emphasizing "juvenile decency" instead of delinquency.

In light of the above, it might be interesting to go back over the six issues of the Mail Tribune which were published last week and see if crime really was the only type of news printed involving young people. We did, and here's what we found.

Some Examples

Nine-year-olds can think up worth while things to do—triplets at Salinas, Calif., wrote separate letters to President Kennedy to come to dinner some night. Their picture was in the paper in a three column spread.

The Hi-Y club of Medford met and adopted constitution and elected officers. They had a three-city meeting in Klamath Falls. John Morrow of Medford, president of Theta Delta Phi at SOC, presented the "man of the year" award to Dr. Arthur S. Taylor.

Douglas Smith of Medford, who attends the college in Ashland, visited Italy last summer, and showed slides of his trip to the Central Point Lions club.

Mary Ann Carnegie, senior at St. Mary's high school in Medford, and Howard Haugen, senior at Medford high, have won the Elks' scholarship contest. They will go on to higher competition. Their pictures were in the paper, too.

A large photo was in the Tribune of John E. Foley of Central Point who is a candidate for a doctorate in physics at New Mexico state university. Also shown in the photo was a photoelectric photometer which he had made in his research work.

Students from four high schools of the Rogue valley participated in the Linfield college speech tournament.

Three Medford students, Ruth Stiehl, Evelyn Young, and Marilyn Shepard received high honors at the Nazarene college in Nampa, Idaho; and William Sproat of Medford received honors at the school of pharmacy at University of Colorado.

22 Of Them In All

And so go the articles, 22 of them in a week's issues. Had any one noticed little items here and there saying that Miss Oregon is asked to speak at various groups? One such group asked her specifically because she is an excellent example of "teen to twenty." And Marty has strong spiritual convictions, and doesn't hesitate to mention prayer in her life as she gives her talks.

There is not space to mention the continuous columns and columns of published accounts of scouting, 4-H, school athletics making big headlines every day, the armed services reports, exchange students, YMCA, DeMolay, Job's Daughters, and many others.

(Editor's Note: Our thanks to Maude for digging out the above data to prove her point. We have long held the opinion that those who allege that newspapers print only the misdeeds of young people simply do not read their papers very carefully. Such criticism has some validity in large metropolitan areas, but certainly not in the Rogue valley. In all of our travels about the United States never have we seen an area where more newspaper space is devoted to the positive achievements of young people.—CET.)

Gold Hill Schools To Offer Physical Education Show

By MARY KELL
Mail Tribune Correspondent

Gold Hill—Gilbert A. Mack, principal of Gold Hill Elementary schools, has announced that the annual physical education show will be held tomorrow at 8 p.m. in the Hanby gymnasium. Co-chairmen of the event are Mrs. Mildred Black and Leon Myers, Hanby teachers.

The show, Mack said, will commence with a fourth grade girls drill team directed by Mrs. Ida Von Buskirk. Fourth grade boys from Patrick under the supervision of Mrs. Barbara Eatherton will follow by performing rhythmic exercises to recorded music.

The Hanby band will play a number between acts and will also furnish background music for other acts.

The Hanby fifth grade girls dressed in Colonial costumes will dance a minuet followed by a sixth grade tumbling act. These activities are directed by Mrs. Black.

The fifth and sixth grade boys will give examples of organized games, supervised by their teacher Allen Hill. Play Cricket

A special feature, the principal said, will be performed by the seventh grade boys, who will play a cricket game directed by Walter Doherty. Learning this popular English sport has been part of the spring physical education program at Hanby for the past four years.

The seventh grade girls will perform the Varsouvienne, a Schottische and a Polka.

The show will conclude with the eighth grade boys running through an obstacle course under the direction of Leon Myers, and the eighth grade girls performing physical fitness exercises.

FUNDS RAISED—Mrs. C. W. Anhorn, president of the Crater chapter of the American Field service, foreign student Juan Canada, center, and Don Miller, director of activities at Crater High school, look over checks that student activities at Crater have raised to help support the American Field service program.

Exchange Student Will Address Crater High PTSA

Juan Antonio Canada, American Field service exchange student attending Crater High school this year, will be the guest speaker at the March 25 meeting of the Crater Parent Teacher Student organization (PTSA).

Canada, 17, is the son of a citrus grower at Valencia, Spain. He has four sisters and one brother.

At the March 25 meeting, he will relate his experiences and compare the surroundings here with his life in Spain.

Canada is one of 2,563 students from 57 different countries in the United States this year. The American Field service program, on the high school level, began in 1948 with — for the sake of comparison — 17 foreign students brought to the U.S.

The Crater chapter of the American Field service is under the supervision of Mrs. C. W. Anhorn, president; Mrs. Ed Klimko, member in charge of homes; Mayor Freeman Mason of Central Point, mem-

4-H Week Planned

Central Point—Members of 4-H clubs in the Central Point area will join in observing National 4-H week next week, March 2 through 9, the theme for which is "Young Citizens in Action."

There are approximately 32 different clubs in this area, under the supervision of 37 leaders, with between 225 and 250 members.

Merchants in the local area have been contacted regarding displays of work done and awards won by the 4-Hers. All types of arrangements are expected to be on view in the windows of the various business establishments.

Work To Resume On New Campground

Grants Pass — An allocation of $75,000 in federal funds, to be used by Siskiyou National forest under the accelerated public works program, was announced here this week by Forest Supervisor J. R. Philbrick.

The money will supplement an original allocation of $198,000 granted last fall to start a program providing work for men seasonally unemployed.

Half the work under the program was let out to private contractors; the rest was done under direct supervision of the forest service. The new allocation will make it possible to reemploy men laid off in mid-January, Philbrick said, when a portion of the funds was exhausted.

Largest single project to be undertaken with the new funds is improvement of the Myers-Big Pine campground, approximately 30 miles west of Grants Pass in the Galice district near Hellsgate canyon on the Rogue.

The area contains the tallest Ponderosa Pine on record. The campground, started last fall, is expected to be available for use this summer, Philbrick said.

Other projects under the program are being carried on in the Galice, Grants Pass and Illinois Valley districts.

Interest In Observatory At Yreka Said Growing

Yreka — The secretary of the Siskiyou County Astronomical society reports that the attendance at the observatory has been good this past semester. The registration book shows that 177 students have made observations. This number does not include adults.

Interest is spreading and a group of scouts from Medford is planning a trip to the observatory. Clyde June is also planning a program for a group of scouts.

During this same period the society held three meetings. Dr. Pindell gave a talk illustrated with slides on the Solar system; Glenn Minuth of Dunsuir talked on comets and meteorites, and Eugene Lanning and Charles Fiock gave a demonstration and talk on the subject of telescope making.

The society has purchased a Polaroid camera which has been installed on the observatory telescope, making it possible to take very interesting time exposures. I. J. Synow, an advanced amateur astronomer, has donated considerable data for use at the Observatory, including a set of detailed star maps. Synow is the owner of a Quasar telescope and has made countless observations. His home is near the Klamath River post office.

The College of the Siskiyou has offered a course in observational astronomy if sufficient number of people are interested.
