

Teaching Discussed In Journal Article By SOC Professor

Ashland—The professor who should be a failure in teaching but isn't and the one who should be excellent but isn't are discussed by Dr. Richard H. Byrns, professor of English at Southern Oregon college, in the winter issue of the journal "Improving College and University Teaching."

Some of the reasons for the difference between theoretical success and actual performance are many, Dr. Byrns said, but attributes the situation in terms of the difference that lies between knowing about teaching—and teaching.

Variations from the accepted educational procedures and approaches are often downgraded by administrators as such departures tend to be upsetting to routine, controversial in nature, and generally disturbing, whereas the "role player," the teacher who is placid and calm, is considered "safe" from all angles.

Orderly and Quiet

Those who project such stereotyped images of professors and teachers conduct classes which are orderly and quiet. They rarely require equipment that is new or unusual. Their classes always know what to expect and therefore are not upset or aroused by the unexpected, nor are they usually inspired. Conversely, good teaching is challenging; that is, it is disturbing and encourages critical thinking. Good teaching investigates new ideas and concepts and therefore may deal with matters not always conventional in nature.

Thus the stimulating, alert teacher, Dr. Byrns pointed out, who sincerely does his job, may well be penalized, whereas his more placid colleague in his role as an outstanding teacher may receive "promotions, salary increases, and eventually a deanship."

Man Found Guilty Of Manslaughter

Klamath Falls—(UPI)—Jerry Haines, 24, Klamath Falls, was found guilty of involuntary manslaughter by a Circuit Court jury Wednesday.

Haines was charged with first degree murder following the fatal shooting of his pregnant wife, Christine, 31, at Klamath Falls last Dec. 17. Sentencing was scheduled for next Wednesday.

Boy Tells Officers Where Dad Is Hiding

Wilkesboro, N.C.—(UPI)—Officers seeking Ronnie Lee Anderson, 22, an ex-convict wanted on several charges, entered his father-in-law's house Wednesday and found Mrs. Anderson and her two young sons.

Mrs. Anderson pleaded ignorant when the sheriff asked "Where's Ronnie?" But her 6-year-old son piped up, "Him's in the closet."

Anderson offered no resistance.

Young Mothers and Babies Doing Well

Los Angeles—(UPI)—Two young mothers, one 11 years old and the other 13, and their infant daughters were reported doing well today.

Medical authorities described the births as unusual, but not rare.

Both girls gave birth Tuesday. The 11-year-old mother's daughter weighed 7-pounds, 2 ounces at birth at Juvenile Hall. It will be up to juvenile court to decide their future.

Oregon Supreme Court Decisions

Salem—(UPI)—In a personal injury action, the Oregon supreme court Wednesday reversed a judgement in favor of Harry Peterson, whose auto struck railway telegrapher Paul A. Myhre just after he handed a message to a passing train in Salem.

The tracks run down the center of the street. Myhre contended he was standing within a crosswalk and Peterson failed to yield right of way.

The trial court removed that issue from the jury, but the supreme court said it was a valid jury question. A new trial was ordered.

In an appeal from Multnomah county, the supreme court affirmed the conviction of David H. English for involuntary manslaughter in the shooting of his mother.

The high court affirmed a directed verdict in favor of the executors of the estate of Goldie Chan Lam in a suit brought against the executors in Multnomah county.

The high court upheld the state tax commission in an order levying a deficiency tax assessment against the estate of Frank M. Penepacker in another appeal from Multnomah county.

The supreme court affirmed the state highway commission in a condemnation action involving Northwestern Ice and Cold Storage Co.

Robinson Plans to Retire from Post In Forest Service

Wallace R. Robinson, staff assistant in the supervisor's office of the Rogue River National forest, will retire March 1.

Robinson completed his forestry studies in 1933 at the University of Washington school of forestry. He began his career with the forest service in 1934 as a junior range examiner on the Wenatchee National Forest, Wenatchee, Wash.

He served as assistant ranger on the Leavenworth district of the Wenatchee and three years as district ranger on the Burns district, Malheur National forest, John Day.

In early 1940, he was assigned to staff duties on the Ochoco National forest, Prineville, but then was detailed to the Pacific Northwest Forest Experiment station in charge for the forest service of a special survey on the Walla Walla river watershed in cooperation with the soil conservation service and the bureau of agricultural economics.

Robinson was transferred in June, 1941, to the Malheur forest, John Day, as fire staff where he remained until June, 1946, when he was transferred to the Rogue River forest as staff assistant on timber surveys and other projects.

During his tenure on the Rogue River, Robinson was responsible for timber surveys and land exchanges, including a detailed timber survey of the Ashland Watershed area. He was also responsible for organizing and compiling of the recreational inventory on the Rogue River forest for use in the recreation survey for the Outdoor Recreation Resource Review Commission.

Senator Calls for Merger Moratorium

Washington—(UPI)—Sen. Estes Kefauver (D-Tenn.) today called for a moratorium on major railroad mergers through 1964.

He said this would give the government time to decide the full impact that proposed mergers would have on the economy and the transportation industry.

Kefauver made the proposal in a bill prepared for introduction today. A similar bill introduced last year died in the Judiciary Committee.

Carrot chutney picks up salads, soups and dips. Grate raw carrots. Add onion salt and a sprig of parsley. Blend to a paste with ler on juice. This keeps for weeks in the refrigerator.
