Regional Roundup

by Cleve Twitchell
Mail Tribune Regional Editor

Spring had just about come to Prospect before the weather turned colder and brought snow over the week end. Velda Barr, our Prospect correspondent, reported last week that the robins and meadowlarks were singing, and that the swallows had returned Feb. 20. "Buttercups and violets are blooming also. So it won't be long before people will be making their gardens. And I suppose when they get all nicely started we will have a nice big snow storm, and there go the gardens!" she added.

Genevieve Briggs, reporting from the Wildflower Wonder area, said, "I notice the pussywillow is having kittens and the yellow jasmine is in bloom, also the heavenly purplewilde violets. I notice there are extremely heavy buds on my lilacs, and the old legend says that when the buds are heavy on lilacs the corn will have big ears." Mrs. Briggs added, however, that the fruit trees also have big buds on them there, which she felt was not good for this time of year, when a heavy frost or snow can still come. "After 18 years of living in Oregon, this is the earliest I have noticed the flowering quince to bloom," she concludes.

An idea of how small this winter's snow pack in northern California was before last week end's snow can be grasped from the following figures supplied by the Klamath National forest office in Yreka: At Upper Middle Boulder (elevation 6,600 feet) there was 5.0 inches of snow on Feb. 26. Normal for this time of year is 65.3 inches. At lower Middle Boulder (elevation 6,200 feet), where normal for Feb. 26 is 39.9 inches, there's no snow at all this year. The same was true at Dynamite Meadows (elevation 5,700 feet), where the normal for Feb. 26 is 56.2 inches.

News From Austria

Miss Brigitte Mosier of Vienna, Austria, was a student at Crater High school last year under the American Field service program. She is now home in Austria, but has kept up a correspondence with Mrs. C. W. Anhorn, president of the Crater American Field service chapter.

In one of her recent letters she wrote, "I would for nothing in the world change for the past year. It was really the greatest and impressive year, a year in which I feel I learned more than my whole life. I don't know how to describe it to you, how much it meant to me. It was not only that I learned about Americans, but I learned about myself. I also got so many ideas, new ideas, things I never thought about. Because of that it always seems to me as I just woke up in America."

Prospect Needs a Fire Truck

Mrs. Barr reports from Prospect that the community is badly in need of a new fire truck. The old truck has had its day and is about beyond repair. She writes, "Prospect doesn't have a fire district and is completely dependent on its own resources. If people would all chip in and help to raise the money it would be for their own protection and welfare. If anybody has suggestions or ideas, please express them."

Regional CP Award Banquet Planned March 28

Klamath School Officials Attend State Meeting

Happy Camp — In response to mounting local interest in long range school planning and school finance problems, Lawrence Bowker, president of Associated Teachers of the Klamath, and John Suggen, legislative committee chairman of that organization, drove to Sacramento recently to attend a legislative seminar sponsored by the California Teachers Association.

Participating in the program were Dr. Max Rafferty, state superintendent of public instruction; Richard Meyers, deputy attorney general; Assemblyman Robert Cronin, assembly minority leader; Jerome Waldie, majority floor leader of the assembly; Assemblyman Robert Monagan and Leo Ryan of the assembly education committee; Senator Albert Rodda of the senate education committee; Dr. Arthur Corey, executive secretary of the CTA; and Governor Edmund G. Brown.

Governor Brown delivered the keynote speech at a banquet and used the occasion to make a strong bid for the passage of his education bill, a school finance measure which includes the county wide tax proposal.

In reflecting his own views Bowker said that the measure is 20 years overdue and Californians should be hopeful of its passage. He also stated that after listening to and talking to many lawmakers, it was obvious that the bill would meet strong opposition from districts with a high assessed valuation who are not quite ready to share this plum with their tax burdened neighbors within their respective counties.

The fourth grade won the room prize for having the most parents in attendance at the meeting. Refreshments were served by the fourth grade room mothers.
