County Planners Favor Variances For Billboards

Variances to allow for two billboards in zoned areas were approved by the Jackson county planning commission last night. The approval was for a three-year period.

People opposing the decision by the commission may appeal to the county court within 15 days.

Granted was a request by Mrs. Leona Robertson, Talent, for a sign on her property at the intersection of Old Highway 99 and Highway 99 not to exceed 220 square feet.

Mrs. Robertson had requested a sign not to exceed 500 square feet, but later reduced the size of the sign.

Request is approved. Also approved was a request for a sign in the North Central Point zoned area by Standard Oil company.

The sign, erected recently by the firm after receiving a sign permit from the state, is near the Peter Klewit Sons company gravel operation. It was noted that neither the company nor the state were aware that the property was in a zoned area until it had been erected.

According to state law, local zoning regulations have priority in which situations. The sign variance's approval will be subject to review within three years in case gravel operations in the vicinity cease and other uses are made of the land.

Both requests were opposed by Commissioner Edd Rountree, Ashland, who felt that neither met the requirements as stated in the zoning ordinances.

Four public hearings are on the agenda for the standard planning commission, which will meet in council chambers in city hall at 7:30 o'clock tonight.

Hearings will be held on requests for a change of zone from single-family to limited commercial for property at the northwest corner of Crater Lake ave. and Stevens st.; a variance to the setback requirements in multiple-family zones for property at 1 King st.; a variance to allow construction of a garage at 1418 Reddy ave.; and a variance to use regulations in multiple-family zones for property at 28 Myrtle st.

The group also will consider adoption of a resolution regarding development of publicly owned property south of Barnett rd. and east of Highway 99.

The resolution, if passed, would be in the form of a recommendation to the city council.

Committee Hears Request for Funds For Juvenile Home

A request by a committee of businessmen for salary adjustments of Jackson county juvenile department personnel was heard this morning by the county budget committee.

The committee studied similar departments of six other Oregon counties of comparable population. The salary increases recommended by the committee and approved by the department, are an average of the counties studied. Budget request for the juvenile department totals $53,012, an increase of $6,248.05, and for the detention home, $25,901, up $397.

Both Circuit Court judges Edward C. Kelly and James M. Main stressed that if the county started cutting corners in this department, the county will start losing ground in the juvenile department. If this should happen, the cost and consequences would be much greater than the amount cut from the budget, they explained.

Lawrence L. Tweedy, juvenile officer, explained that the county's admittances to McLaren School for Boys has been greatly reduced because of the counseling staff here. He added that it is cheaper to rehabilitate a child in the county than sending him to a state school.

Robert Swan, detention home superintendent, noted that the majority of the work at the detention home is done by the juveniles lodged there. This is not true in other Oregon counties.

Increases in the department other than salaries were for convention expenses, mainly to cover a deficit for the present year, and advanced training for staff. This would include tuition for evening classes in the Medford High school adult education program and at Southern Oregon college.

Duncan said he had urged the three counties involved to enact zoning ordinances to protect the lakes from "unrestricted commercial development."

Legislative Committee Hears Arguments for Railroads Crews

Brakemen Take Time Off To Attend Hearing

Trainmen Urge Additional Man

Salem - (UPI) - Operating trainmen fought in a legislative hearing Wednesday night to keep a full complement of brakemen aboard diesel trains.

The hearing by the Senate Commerce and Utilities Committee was attended by more than 400 persons. A railroad spokesman, Southern Pacific Superintendent A. W. Kilburn, said so many brakemen took time off to attend the hearing that 14 freight trains had to be cancelled.

"We operated some trains by substituting switchmen for brakemen," Kilburn said. "They're adding insult to injury by asking to be paid for the day off."

He said 150 men "laid off sick Tuesday night." Railroads last week pleaded for elimination of Oregon's Full Crew Law after a U.S. Supreme Court decision allowing them to eliminate unneeded employees.

Want Steam Deleted Union representatives had their innings Wednesday night. They charged the word "steam" in the present law could enable the railroads to overthrow present regulations if the legislature failed to correct the wording.

The trainmen also urged passage of their own bill which would require an additional brakeman on trains of more than 100 cars.

Oregon law now requires a six-man crew, including three brakemen, on main line trains. Six other states have similar laws. The railroads want the third brakeman eliminated.

Sen. Edward Fadeley (D-Eugene) told the committee the railroads "are faced with the burden of proof" that main line trains can operate safely without the third brakeman.

"If in doubt, you must resolve the question in favor of safety and the trainmen," he said.

Third Brakeman Urged James Cochran, San Francisco, representing the trainmen, said today's longer, faster trains made the third brakeman more necessary than ever before.

Southern Pacific engineer Eugene Lynch, Eugene, said engineers were interested in "safety, efficiency and economy, and cutting the crew would increase hazards to the public and railroad employees."

Adding a fourth brakeman on long trains "would bring the law up to date," he said.

Commission Asks Plan to Develop Public Property

The Medford park and recreation commission last night unanimously passed a resolution concerning the future development of a 97-acre tract of publicly owned land in the area occupied by the Jackson county fairgrounds and the Medford Armory.

The group took the action after a number of commissioners expressed concern that the area, parts of which are owned by the city, county, state and the federal government, may develop in an uncoordinated, haphazard fashion.

The resolution, which will now go to the city council for consideration, urged that "joint county-city planning for the development of the property south of Barnett rd. and east of U.S. Highway 99" be undertaken, and requested that "the county not consider any further capital improvements (in the area) until a plan acceptable to both city and county has been developed."

A variety of buildings and uses already exist on the property, including the county juvenile detention home and the agriculture extension service building. A county health department building is scheduled for construction.

In other action last night, the commission accepted a scale drawing plan for a "multi-use recreation court presented to them for consideration by Benjamin Fagone. Fagone urged the court, which he estimated might cost about $12,000, be constructed in Hawthorne park.

Action on the request was postponed pending study of a redevelopment plan for the park, which Director Robert Haworth said is scheduled to arrive from the San Francisco planning firm of Royston, Hanamoto, Mayes and Beck in about two weeks.

Commission Chairman James Sullivan appointed Tod Tibbitt, Don Reverman and John Kent to a committee to determine means of selecting a name for the recently acquired 73-acre park site along Bear creek.

Bill To Outlaw Radar Traps Opposed Salem - (UPI) - A bill which would outlaw radar speed traps drew opposition Wednesday from the Oregon Traffic Safety commission.

It said outlawing the use of radar would be a step backward and "deprive enforcement agencies of one of their most modern and efficient tools."

EMPLOYMENT UP Salem - (UPI) - Employment was up 18,800 over last year, and insured unemployment was down in most areas of the state, according to the department of employment.

Questioning of Legislative Costs Silenced Sharply

Salem - (UPI) - An attempt to question the cost of the 1963 legislative session was silenced in mid-sentence today in the Oregon House.

Rep. Joe Rogers (R-Independence) rose to tell the House the 1963 session was costing $492 per day more than 1961 for House and Senate employees alone.

He said there were 30 more employees on the legislative payroll this year.

Then House Speaker Clarence Barton (D-Coquille) ruled Rogers out of order. The House sustained Barton's ruling by a voice vote that sounded close.

Resolution Doubled In response to a question, Barton said the matter of legislative expense could be brought up through introduction of a resolution. But Rogers said later it would be impossible to get such a resolution through the rules committee.

Rogers' continued efforts to speak finally prompted Barton to say sharply, "Mr. Rogers, would you take your seat?"

Rogers said afterward the House has 138 employees and the Senate 120. He said if the session runs 120 days the employees will cost $60,000 more than last session.

"When we are trying to cut other budgets, and yet spending more ourselves, we are creating a very poor image," he said.

Clerks, SP Resume Talks on Dispute San Francisco - (UPI) - Negotiators for Southern Pacific and the Brotherhood of Railroad Clerks, with prodding by President Kennedy, returned to the conference table today in their effort to settle a lengthy dispute over automation.

The President stepped into the picture Wednesday, when the 11,000-member union apparently was on the verge of issuing a 72-hour strike ultimatum. He asked both sides to submit their differences to arbitration "in the public interest."

Southern Pacific President D. J. Russell wired his acceptance of Kennedy's proposal immediately. But union negotiators met to discuss the proposal and were expected to give their answer today.

Federal Mediator Frank O'Neill has been attempting to settle the differences since Feb. 6, when the union threatened to tie up SP operations in seven Western states.

Resolutions Urge Interim Committees Salem - (UPI) - Resolutions urging creation of two interim committees was recommended Wednesday night by the House Local Government Committee.

The proposals, which now go to the Ways and Means Committee, carry appropriations totaling $75,000.

SENTENCES SUSPENDED - Leotta Hope Buss, left, 22, and Sandra Sue Settler, 18, both of Bremerton, Wash., are shown leaving the federal courthouse in Seattle after receiving a 30-day suspended sentence for stowing away aboard a U.S. naval vessel at Seattle. The women stowed away aboard the USS Kearsarge and were discovered when the ship put into Bangor, Wash., for ammunition. They had help from some of the ship's crew, who fed them peanut butter and bologna sandwiches. (UPI)

Public Hearing on District 6C Budget Slated on April 4

Central Point - A public hearing on a proposed budget of $1,558,504.75 for School District 6C for next fiscal year will be held at 2 p.m. Thursday, April 4, in the Central Point Junior High school cafeteria, Superintendent Charles A. Meyer has announced.

The proposed budget is an increase of about $120,525, or about 9 per cent more than this year's budget.

Total estimated expenditures for the district, which includes Central Point, Gold Hill and Sams Valley, includes $1,427,295 in the general fund and $158,494.75 in the bond interest and redemption fund. The total amount outside the 6 per cent limitation is $881,951.51.

An election on the amount exceeding the 6 per cent limitation will be held at three polling places in the district Monday, May 6.

Allows More Teachers Budget committee members said the proposed budget allows for eight additional teachers and a curriculum director to handle increased enrollment, develop a more extensive curriculum and meet state standards, a new bus, and a new site in Gold Hill. Meyer pointed out that more than 200 new students are expected in the district next year. Crater High school expects an increase of more than 100 students, making an enrollment of 950.

General fund increases, budget committee members noted, are due to salary adjustments, additional teachers, cost of the new state adopted language arts series, supplies and equipment, new custodial help and one new bus driver.

Budget committee members are C. W. Higginbotham, Don Morrow, Paul Molloy, Dalton Straus, Dr. Bruce Turner, J. W. Fitzgerald, Wilton White, C. W. Anhorn, C. L. Ghelardi and H. S. Deuel.

The millage rate, board members noted, is hard to determine since the Jackson county court has not acted on the $15 per census child requested, the state legislature still is considering several bills relating to basic school support, and the increased assessed valuation is not known.

Committee members felt the proposed budget will be in line with other district budgets of the county.

Students Protest Against Killing Of Communists

Snowballs, Ice Hurlled at Building

Moscow - (UPI) - A shouting mob of 1,000 Russian and Arab students hurled snowballs and ink bottles at the Iraqi embassy today in protest against the execution of Communists in Iraq.

"Shame to the killers," the demonstrators shouted. The demonstration started quietly, with chanting, placard-waving and speeches, but an hour later it erupted into violence.

The initial group of about 200 student demonstrators - many of whom apparently came from Arab countries - was joined by additional hundreds who jostled passersby and then loosed a rain of snowballs, pieces of ice and ink bottles on the embassy.

Reach Embassy Door At one point, a group made up mostly of Arab students studying here forced its way to the embassy door for a moment before the police pushed them back.

The barrage of ink bottles smashed or cracked a number of embassy windows and left dripping blobs of red, green and black ink running down the stone and brick walls.

Soviet police began moving demonstrators away from the embassy about three hours after the disorders began.

About 150 brown-coated, fur-hatted Soviet soldiers stood in readiness on one of the streets near the embassy. None appeared to be carrying weapons, but some had small portable radio sending and receiving sets.

Assisted by Police Police kept the crowd from the embassy but made no effort to stop the pelting with snowballs and ink bottles. They even assisted demonstrators to come up and place their placards and banners on the iron grill gate surrounding the embassy building.

Simultaneously with the demonstration today, the Soviet government news agency Tass reported new protest meetings in other Soviet cities. The agency also gave prominence to foreign press reports that anti-Communist crackdowns had started in Syria.

Russia, Red China May Patch Quarrel

Moscow - (UPI) - The Soviet Union and Red China, the two giants of the Communist world, appear to be on the verge of a big step toward patching up their quarrel, Western observers here said today.

Both countries published and broadcast an exchange of letters in which Mao Tse-tung, leader of the Chinese Communist party and ruler of the vast Chinese mainland, invited Soviet Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev to pay a visit aimed at settling their differences.

While there was no indication that Khrushchev would accept the invitation, Western observers said the fact the letters were published here indicated the Kremlin at least has a visit under serious consideration.

New York Publishers Make 'Final Offer'

New York - (UPI) - Publishers of eight closed-down newspapers, driving to get their publications back on the streets, reached agreement today with another striking union and made a "final and last offer" to the New York Newspaper Guild.

The development lifted hopes that the papers might be at newsstands again by early next week.
