Bertak-Barnum Rites Held in Jacksonville

Historic St. Joseph's Catholic church in Jacksonville was the setting March 9 for the wedding of Miss Barbara Lea Barnum and Frank Joseph Bertak, North Ivy street, Medford. The old church bell was rung following the rites. The bride is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert E. Barnum, 2511 Corona avenue, Medford. Mr. Bertak is a son of Mrs. George Bertak, Port Townsend, Wash. and the late Mr. Bertak.

The Rev. John H. of Sacred Heart Catholic church, Medford officiated at the noon nuptial mass and double ring wedding ceremony attended by members of the families and close friends.

The bride wore a white pique frock styled on princess lines with white accessories. Her flowers were red roses and carnations and she carried a white Bible. Mr. Barnum escorted his daughter to the altar.

Miss Patricia Ann Barnum attended her sister. She wore a pink frock with matching hat and white accessories and her corsage was of pink roses and carnations.

Lewis Neff served as best man. Altar boy was Richard Theil.

Following the ceremony a dinner was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Michael Bertak, 405 Ross street, brother and sister-in-law of the bridegroom.

The couple traveled to the coast on their wedding trip. They are now at home at 307 North Ivy street. The bride is a graduate of St. Mary's High school and is employed by Anderson's Photo Shop. Mr. Bertak is also a graduate of St. Mary's High school and is employed by Medford Corporation.

Wife of Physicist Urges Women to Work for Peace

Ashland - Friday, March 15, will be remembered as Pauling day in Ashland. The famous nuclear physicist, Dr. Linus Pauling, winner of a Nobel prize in chemistry and stormy petrel in scientific and political realms, and his wife, Ava Helen, known for her "militant pacifism," appeared as guest speakers before two groups.

At noon Mrs. Pauling addressed more than 75 women at a luncheon meeting in the Mark Antony hotel sponsored by the Ashland Soroptimist club. At 2 p.m. Dr. Pauling addressed students and townspeople at Southern Oregon college on the subject "Science and the Future of Humanity." Both appearances were arranged by the American Friends Service Committee.

"Peace is the most important problem in the world today," declared Mrs. Pauling. "Many say it is already too late. But people of the world are hungry and eager for peace."

The speaker commented that man has the means to destroy himself and that the same technology should be put to work for peace but if this is to be accomplished it will have to be done by the women. She cited the strong movements that are cooperating throughout other nations, mentioning in some detail the Women's Voice of Canada. She told of the many demonstrations and marches by the Women's International League for Peace and Freedom (of which she is national vice president) as well as the organized student strikes against nuclear war.

Great Fear
Mrs. Pauling commented that one of our greatest fears seems to be that Krushchev may come forward with a peace proposal that we cannot refuse. She urged a letter writing campaign and showed petitions that are being circulated on a wide scale, and recommended the use of every avenue of publicity.

The speaker voiced her belief that women in the peace movement are a political force in the United States although it is not yet the time for a new party. Rather she urged that the program be carried on through the two dominant parties. International cooperation on a world program is essential for success, she said.

In her concluding remarks and during a brief question period Mrs. Pauling expressed disapproval of the shelter program as being a cowardly and ineffective way to face war and its terrible price of generations of defective children. She also said women should protest turning over of the 10 Polaris submarines to NATO. Other issues that demand attention from women are doing away with the House Committee on Un-American Activities and promotion of information on the international peace program.

Mrs. Pauling was introduced by Miss Cora Mason, who told of her background and education, saying that for many years she has lectured on human and civil rights. In addition to her office on the national board of the Women's League for Peace and Freedom, Mrs. Pauling is on the California board of the American Civil Liberties union. Like her husband she is a native Oregonian. She was born near Oregon City and attended Oregon State University where she met and married Linus Pauling.
