Gangtok, Sikkim - Defying Sikkimese convention that the bride must stay in seclusion before her wedding, Miss Hope Cooke, American fiancée of Crown Prince Thondup Namgyal, saw him at the palace here a few hours before their wedding March 20. Oriental rites for the couple were performed by 14 lamas. Outside the chapel was an American touch - a door mat at the entrance which said "Good Luck" in English. (UPI)

Political History in Siskiyou County Topic

Yreka - Prominent citizens of Siskiyou county and the parts they took in the political history of California furnished the program for a recent meeting of the Siskiyou County Historical society at the museum. Four speakers presented the topic. Over 100 members and guests attended.

Lewis Foulke, program chairman, first introduced Mrs. Sadie DeNure, who spoke regarding Sheriff Charles Howard, who was born in March, 1859 in Ashland, Ore. He lived with his family in Quartz valley where a few white persons lived.

Charles Howard worked in sawmills, mines and the hotel business. Elected After moving to Yreka he was elected in 1902 as sheriff and served for four terms, or 16 years, retiring in 1918. He died in 1921. He had one brother Scott Howard, who owned the Clarendon hotel.

Mrs. Helen Sherman, the second speaker, told of the life of her father, Dr. Charles Wilbur Nutting, a courageous friendly doctor, who practiced for 40 years at Etna and vicinity. He was born in Georgia, 1852, studied medicine and graduated the highest in his class at the age of 22. He came to California and began his practice at Etna in 1877, performing operations without assistance except for his wife or someone to administer chloroform. A Southern Democrat in politics, he also was interested in civic events, and served terms on the state board of health under three governors. Dr. Nutting was honored at California State Medical society meetings as chairman of the surgical section and he discussed scientific and surgical papers. The doctor also was a member of the Masonic order and held office in the Masonic Grand Lodge.

From New York Mrs. Reita Campbell told the story of John Daggett, who was born in 1833 in New York and was lured to California when 19 years old by the return of gold miners with nuggets and stories of the California gold rush.

Mr. Daggett arrived in San Francisco in 1852 with machinery to open a foundry in Sacramento. Because already there were more than enough foundries in that city, he moved on to Farysville, later arriving in Sawyers Bar where he became a partner in a stamp mill.

Mr. Daggett was the first postmaster there and in 1859 he went to the California state legislature in Sacramento. He served in 11 sessions. In 1860 gold was discovered on Black Bear creek which he and a partner owned. They sold the mine to an English firm in 1872. A month after the sale

Veni-Vidi

Rome-Now that I am back in Rome, I often think of Casa Campello, the home of Mr. Campbell and his friend, Miles Wood, in Taormina, Sicily.

It is on the tip top level of Taormina, off what might be called, by a stretch of the imagination, a street. Cut into the 15-foot wall, surrounding the estate, is a dwarf Gothic door.

Jangling Sicilian bells announce guests, and one of three butlers ushers them into the theatrically lower levels of terraces. Pools of fish flash gold, fountains glitter, and balled orange and lemon trees are shot with light. The villa itself is a trove of collectors' items - furniture, bric-a-brac, paintings and statues.

However, it is not the house or garden, nor the innumerable little cocktail parties, for which the Casa Campello is known. It is the roof! On the roof is a little theater, the like of which there is probably no equal anywhere.

Only the unique juxtaposition, plus a dramatically inclined decorator, could conjure such a place. About the edge of the entire flat roof are Greek columns, ornamental only, but lending authentic atmosphere. Thrown in for background atmosphere is a panoramic view of the Ionian sea, like a jewel at night; Mount Etna, glowing red top against velvet dark sky, and stars; possibly a moon.

From the terrace, a plate glass foyer opens into the theater, of which one entire side is glass windows, also facing the sea and Etna. Unfortunately, it is only in imagination one can see the blue velvet hangings, the little stage at one end of the forty-foot room, the gilt and upholstered chairs, the lighted candelabra. Only pictures on the walls attest that lovely ladies performed there, and actors of such caliber as Sir John Gielgud, Richardson and Sir Lawrence Olivier had thrilled the select audiences. It is no

Past Chiefs Will Preside Past chiefs will preside over a meeting at Westonka council, Degree of Pocahontas, Friday, March 22, at 8 p.m. at the Redman hall on Apple street. ## Drama Class to Present 'Winnie-the-Pooh' Here

"Winnie-the-Pooh," to be presented by the advanced drama class of Medford High school March 29 and 30 has been dramatized from an A. A. Milne story by Kristin Sergel.

The honey-loving Winnie-the-Pooh, has long been a favorite of children and two matinee performances will be given so that children may attend. On Friday, March 29 the matinee will begin at 3 p.m., and the Saturday matinee will open at 2 p.m. A performance for adults will be given Friday at 8 p.m. A small admission will be charged for all.

The story concerns a toy bear who is a good friend of a young boy known as Christopher Robin. They have many friends who also are toy animals, including Piglet; Eeyore, the donkey; Rabbit and his children; Owl; Skunk; Turtle and Squirrel. Lindsay Darnelle will do the part of Christopher Robin; Jack Barr will be Winnie-the-Pooh, and Gary Staats will be the story teller.

Mrs. Lenore Zapell will direct the production.

Reviews Given For Members Of Study Club

Ashland - "The Last Letter Home," a translation of the Swedish writer Vilhelm Moberg's novel of immigrant life in the north country, part of the Northwest Territory that later became the state of Minnesota, was the book chosen by Mrs. H. F. Jenkins to review at the March 11 meeting of Ashland Study club. Hostess for the afternoon session was Mrs. Walter Redford, 427 Palm avenue.

The novel is written in unusual form with much of the account related through Robert Nelson's ear as it prods him into unwanted remembrances. Interwoven are the lives of Carl and Christina Nelson and Carl's brothers, Robert and Arvid. The period is pre-Civil War when Americans were rushing west to the gold fields or were fighting the Sioux uprisings.

Much of the tale is symbolic and the action is at times fantastic. Illness, hardship, birth and death are all included in the saga of the stoic Swedes who braved a new wilderness to establish homes in a free land.

Mrs. Marcus Woods read excerpts from Patty Johnson's recently published book of essays "I Was Just Thinking." The author is a midwesterner who exudes love of life and has the ability to share it with others. Mrs. Johnson's syndicated column was begun in 1954 in 35 newspapers and is now carried in more than 200.

In prose that sounds at times like poetry or in spicy description of domestic commonplaces the writer plays upon the emotions. Anything from a problem pup to a summer sunrise may furnish grist for her typewriter.

In the absence of the study club president, Mrs. R. Drew Lamb, the business meeting was conducted by Mrs. Elizabeth Sommer. The next meeting will be held March 25 at 2 p.m. at the home of Mrs. Will Dodge, 600 Siskiyou boulevard.

Lions Auxiliary Elects Officers

Phoenix - Mrs. Edward Stevens was elected president of the Phoenix Lions auxiliary March 14 during a meeting held in the home of Mrs. Darrel Paxson, 210 Ash street, Phoenix.

Mrs. R. N. Enloe was elected first vice president; Mrs. L. F. Carlson, second vice president; Mrs. Paxson, secretary; Mrs. Ray Stagers, treasurer and Mrs. Anthony Bock, lion tamer.

The present treasurer, Mrs. R. N. Enloe was instructed during the session to purchase articles of clothing for the small boy which the club sponsors at the Oregon State School for the Blind at Salem.

A rummage sale was planned for May 8, with Mrs. Melvin Banta in charge of arrangements.

Mrs. A. N. Consbruck announced the nominations before election.

From Trip

Ashland - Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Lininger, 443 Liberty street, are home from a two-week trip to the east coast. Included were a construction equipment exposition in Chicago and the annual convention of the Associated General Contractors in New York City, where they also visited with their daughter, Miss Carol Lininger, a hostess with United Air Lines.

A recipe for Danish-Style Cheese-Veal Ring, or Kodrand med Urtefyld, was submitted by Mrs. Erna Larsen of Esbjerg, Denmark, when Borden company's dry milk operation officials there, asked employees of the plant to share recipes with American homemakers. A Danish specialty, this recipe has been tested and adapted for use in America.

Danish Exchange Recipe Features Veal and Pork

To be hospitable is to serve good food, as any Dane will tell you. And they can say so because the Danish cuisine is one of the best on the continent as any American who has visited Denmark will testify.

One of the Danish specialties, is a Danish-Style Cheese-Veal Ring, or Kodrand med Urtefyld, as submitted by Mrs. Erna Larsen of the Borden company's dry milk operation in Esbjerg, Denmark, when the company asked employees of its plants in 17 foreign countries to share their recipes with American homemakers.

Mrs. Larsen's recipe has been tested and adapted for use by the American homemaker by the Borden test kitchen in New York City. It combines veal and pork, plus seasonings, and is topped with cheese. Shaped and baked in a ring mold, it is served with whipped potatoes.

In serving this Danish specialty, keep the mood of the country by serving plenty of coffee-since this, too, is a dinner-time "must" in Denmark. Here is the recipe for Danish-Style Cheese-Veal Ring.

DANISH-STYLE CHEESE-VEAL RING

Two tablespoons sweet pepper flakes; one tablespoon celery flakes; one-half cup hot water; one chicken bouillon cube or one teaspoon instant chicken bouillon crystals; three-fourths cup hot water; one and one-half pounds of ground lean veal; one-half pound ground lean pork; two eggs, slightly beaten; one-fourth cup grated onion; one teaspoon salt; one-half teaspoon pepper; one-half cup dry bread crumbs; one (six-ounce) package Borden's Vesta Sharp brand pasteurized process American cheese slices. Makes four to six servings. In small covered saucepan,
