By BERTHA HANSCOM

Stoss presented a safety award to the Eagle Point Maintenance department for having had no preventable accidents or personal injuries in 1962. L. E. Robertson, section foreman of the Eagle Point crew, accepted the award. This was the fourth safety award presented to Robertson, who retires in April, 1964.

Tablets

By R. E. NEALON
Mail Tribune Table Rock Correspondent

Dot Simmons, the wide awake and inquisitive Mail Tribune correspondent of the Lone Pine area, was a business visitor here Wednesday A. M. The Simmons family are building a house in the Beagle area near the Elwood Abbott home, where they have purchased acreage, and expect to move in the near future.

The noise of heavy machinery in operation we have been hearing the last few days is a large caterpillar, dozer, belonging to Ronnie Borello of the Table Top ranch, who is clearing up brush covered land for pasture just north of the Ray Baker farm, and part of the Table Top holdings.

We hear a good many arguments relative to the talk of conservation corp or three C's. We saw quite a bit of the three C's during their stay in this valley, being in the hospital for a month or two at that time. We remember one lad from back east who was brought in with the fingers on one hand hanging by the tendons. The lad had been splitting kindling and hit the hand he was holding the chunk with, with a sharp axe. The young doctor assigned to the corp was Dr. Buoncore, who had the boy with the chopped hand in surgery for some two or three hours. Next morning the lad came into the ward we were in with the hand in a cast, with the fingers splayed back together, where they continued to heal, and finally grew back to their normal shape.

With our many contacts with the three C's, and since seeing the many and various jobs they did in the mountains, and along the streams, we know it was a great experience for the young people to be remembered for many years. It taught them dependability, honesty, sobriety, how to work with their hands and to get along with other boys from other parts of the country. To those who object to the conservation corp, we wonder what they would suggest. Surely something should be done to check this wave of delinquency which is getting worse every day.

What Happened to the Bell?
Mrs. Ivan Skyrman who attended high school at Agate when a teen age, would like to know what has become of the big bell that hung in the belfry of the old Agate school house. The ringing of the old bell could be heard for miles around and some of the pupils who heard its chimes while stepping along to get to school on time, have a tender feeling for the old bell. Mrs. Skyrman lives in Central Point, and if anyone knows of the bell's whereabouts she would like to hear from them.

The old man with the scythe struck heavily in our community lately culling down three friends and neighbors in just a few days.

Ernest C. Hamilton, grandfather of Ernest Hamilton, manager of the Modoc Orchards, died Tuesday, March 17. Curtis U. Thomas, father of Mrs. Edwin Taylor, died Friday March 15. Harold J. Fleischer, father of Alan Fleischer, died Monday, March 18, unexpectedly at his home in Central Point.

Poured Oil on the Troubled Waters
Mr. Hamilton and family became residents of our community in 1925. At that time farmers were having irrigation water troubles. It seemed that water users and the ditch man couldn't get together on rules, so that farmers on the lower end of the ditch some days would be dry and other days would be flooded. Added to this, the man who lived at the head of the ditch which passed through his place would lock the gates so workers couldn't get to the head gates. Mr. Hamilton had been foreman of the Rogue River Valley canal, so was hired to supervise the local ditch, and from that time on their troubles were over. With his firm, but kindly ways, you might say he poured oil on the troubled waters. Besides keeping the water gates adjusted, he engaged in many activities such as farming and keeping a herd of sheep.

Taking a keen interest in neighborhood affairs, he proved to be one of our most energetic and valuable citizens.

To all the bereaved left by these several deaths, we extend our heartfelt sympathies. Thought for the day—People like to see things in black and white. That's why they read the newspapers.

Hoover, Scouts 'Invade' Party

Eagle Point — Lila Fern Chastain was surprised at her recent birthday party by a visit from Charles C. Hoover and members of Boy Scout Troop No. 48.

The Boy Scouts presented each member of her party with a small potted tree giving added pleasure to the events of the day.

The party was given in honor of Miss Chastain's ninth birthday by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph A. Chastain at the Eagle Point Teen-age Club on the Brownsboro Highway.

Miss Chastain entertained numerous guests, many of them her classmates in Mrs.

Elsie Turner's second grade room at the Eagle Point Primary School.

Mrs. Chastain cut the cake shaped in three tiers to resemble Cinderella's castle. A table ornament of Cinderella decorated the party table. Misses Linda and Marie Chastain poured punch and served the ice cream.

Mrs. Gloria Atkinson and Mrs. Kathy Inlow assisted in serving and supervising the games.

Prizes were won by Barbara Wilson, Susie Lehman, Cindy Short, Venita Goble, Dusty Atkinson, John Inlow, Harry Inlow, Billy Morris, and Paul Curtis.

Some are like beetles.

Some are like boxes.

Nobody really notices Volkswagens any more. They're so well known, they sort of blend in with the scenery.

It doesn't matter what the scenery is, either. You can buy a VW in any one of 633 cities in the country. 109 in any one of 136 countries in the world!

And that takes in lots of scenery. Deserts. Mountains. Hot places. Cold places. Volkswagens thrive.

Hot and cold just aren't important. The VW engine is air-cooled. It doesn't use any water, so it can't freeze up or boil over.

And having the engine in the back makes all the difference when it comes to mud and sand and snow.

The weight is over the power wheels and so the traction is terrific.

VWs also get along so well wherever they are because the VW people make sure that their service is as good in Toledo as it is in Tasmania.

The only reason you can't buy a VW at the North Pole is that Volkswagens won't sell you one. (No service around the corner.)

Wood Yard Given GH Council Okay

Gold Hill — Harley Callahan was granted the privilege of operating a wood yard at the Gold Hill city council during its last meeting.

The wood yard is to be located in the area of Seventh ave. as designated in an agreement between the city and Callahan. The agreement is subject to council approval at the end of each year, or termination if terms of the contract are violated by Callahan.

A request for rezoning the area from residential to business was turned down by the council, and the agreement approved instead since it would not be a permanent thing.

Trucks hauling wood are not to exceed the load limits, it was said. Callahan said he intended to haul his products by pick-up and indicated he would not be using Sixth ave. which is said to be used by many school children during the day. He planned to commence right away.
